Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. I recently sent for the SSA information about my earnings record and potential benefit amounts. My question is, how does Social Security project my future earnings for estimating retirement amounts?

A: The free Social Security Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement (PEBES) uses the information which you provide to project for future earnings. When you mail in the form SSA-7004 you show both the age at which you intend to retire and how much you expect to earn yearly until then. The estimate which you receive will carry forward those expected earnings until the age shown at which you plan to retire assuming that age is equal to or beyond your current age. If you show a stop work age which is younger than your current age, for example if you have already retired but are not yet on Social Security then the estimate will reflect your current age as the stop work age. Sending in different retirement ages or earnings estimates on the SSA-7004 will result in differing benefit estimates. Note that if you are a government employee and your employment is not covered by Social Security, for example, the old Civil Service retirement system, any potential offsets to Social Security benefits because of your civil service pension will not be reflected in the PEBES information received. Military pensions do not lower SSA benefit amounts nor do government pensions based on work covered under SSA, such as FERS.

Q: I receive Social Security retirement and also work. When I called SSA to report my earnings for the last year the lady took the information but told me that I really did not need to report. Why?

A: This refers to the annual earnings report of those employed and earning over certain amounts while receiving SSA benefits based on something other than their own disability. While I do not know from your question exactly why, it could be for any of several reasons. First, for your age your earnings might have been under the dollar amounts that would matter to your benefits. Second, for most people receiving benefits the agency did away with the need for annual reporting last year as part of simplification efforts. In most circumstances the agency now secures annual reports of earnings directly from employer W-2 forms or self-employment tax returns. Some people still need to report their earnings. For example, a working beneficiary under age 70 would need to file an annual report if their actual earnings were not the same amount as those reported on their W-2 or self-employment tax return. In 1998 the earnings limit, the amount one could earn before benefits would be lowered, is $14,500 for people age 65 - 70. For workers under age 65 it is $9,120. These amounts include only gross wages or net self-employment. People receiving benefits because of their own disability must always report if they go to work. For more information about the annual earnings test call the SSA national toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213.

Q: What branch of the government is Social Security part of and who is the head of the agency?

A: The Social Security Administration is now an independent agency within the executive branch of the government although once it was the largest part of the Department of Health and Human Services. The head of the agency is Kenneth S. Apfel. He has been serving as the first official commissioner since September, 1997.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Eeva Young, Lincoln High School

An important part of the high school experience is taking class trips. These trips bond classmates and create memories that will last forever. They are a learning experience that teaches valuable lessons on sharing, meeting new people, getting along with everyone for a week, hanging out with people that are outside your normal group of friends, and all, while seeing amazing parts of our country.

A little over two weeks ago, I returned from Washington, D.C., where I, along with 20 other Close-Up participants from our school, learned about the government. The memories from this trip are countless, but I'll share a few outstanding highlights.

We left Lincoln high school at 4 a.m. tired but excited. A long caravan of cars transferred us to the Grand Forks airport for a 6:55 a.m. flight. We settled in for a long day of travel. We took three flights to Washington and had an hour and a half layover at both Minneapolis and Detroit. We passed the time by sleeping, exploring the airports, sleeping, and going to the bathroom.

We also had plenty of time to discuss our excitements and worries about the upcoming week. One general concern was our roommates. Although each of us was paired with one roommate from our school, we were put into a room with two other strangers from a different state. I roomed with Jessica Krankkala, and we were worrying needlessly about the roommate situation. Unlike my visions of "gangster chicks" from Los Angeles, our roommates were completely normal people from North Carolina. Jess and I felt pretty sheepish when they handed us beautifully gift-wrapped presents containing salt-water taffy, post cards, and a magnet.

As soon as we had landed, I was shocked at how gorgeous Washington really was. I had imagined a big city with hazy smog and litter scattered on the streets. I fell in love with what I found. Huge, thick green lawns, wide, clear skies, spotless streets, and magnificent buildings is what greeted me instead.

I was also taken aback by a sight which I have rarely been exposed to living in small town Thief River Falls. It was extremely humbling seeing so many homeless people. We would be at a landmark, and it never failed that there would be several homeless sleeping on one of the decorated park benches, and nearby them would sit a shopping cart holding all of their belongings. I have always been aware that there are homeless people, but I had never been face to face with them before.

A major part of our trip to Washington was learning about the government "hands on." We spent a little over a day at Capitol Hill exploring, attending meetings with our U.S. representatives, and taking tours. A group of girls from Thief River and I decided to sit in on a meeting of the Senate. After passing multiple metal detectors and leaving most personal belongings at a desk, we sat in the plush chairs and observed. It wasn't very eventful until we spotted Ted Kennedy!

The Library of Congress was, without a doubt, the most breathtaking of all the buildings we visited. The outside was deceiving as it looked like a plain, massive, concrete building. Once we passed through the ever-present metal detectors, we were taken into a different world. The walls were covered in beautiful intricate, never-ending paintings, and the ceiling was ornate stained glass. High vaulted ceilings, massive columns, and staircases gave the building a sacred aura. We got to peek through a sheet of glass at the actual library part of the building, and I have never seen so many books in my lifetime. There were seven levels and each level was floor to ceiling books. Stone statues guarded the books with watchful eyes. It was a Literary Arts student's dream!!

On Friday we visited the Holocaust Museum. I had read about the Holocaust and knew about the horrors, but I wasn't prepared for some of the sights at the museum. A few of the scenes that stood out for me were the exhibit of thousands upon thousands of shoes taken from the Jews working at the concentration camps, little video clips that were constantly going showing some of the operations performed on little Jewish children, pictures that were taken of some Jewish people before the Holocaust, and an exhibit of a small Jewish boy's life during the Holocaust. At the end of the Museum, there was a place where we could light a candle, and read an inscribed statement telling us never to forget what we had seen there. I know that I will not forget what I saw there. It is permanently etched in my mind.

It seems like we were visiting Washington at the perfect time. The cherry blossoms were just starting to bloom. A couple of girls decided to eat lunch under the trees by the Washington Monument. We decided that it would be nice to press a cherry blossom between our books to have as a souvenir. Well, apparently that is not acceptable. After helping ourselves to a few pink blossoms a not-so-polite lady told us in no uncertain terms, "You're not supposed to pick them!" Oops.

A banquet and a dance closed out the Close-Up week for us. It was a time for lots of pictures and hugs. But tired, broke, and missing home, we were all ready to come back to Thief River. A long bus ride to Maryland early in the morning started our trek home and by six o'clock p.m. we were back to where we started.

I'd like to thank everyone who made Close-Up possible. It was a wonderful, unforgettable trip!!

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

Once in while I get something cute from someone that makes my day a little brighter. When days are dull and dreary, it's always fun to find a smile somewhere and I think the following stories make for a smile or two. Maybe they will brighten your day too.

My friend, Gettie, who sends me wonderful recipes, has sent me something else this time. She said she got this from her daughter in Wisconsin and, since I enjoyed it so much, I thought you would too. You'll especially appreciate it if you are a little old lady, like me, but it will also give little old men a smile.

FORTUNE

Old folks are worth a fortune: with silver in their hair, gold in their teeth, stones in their kidneys, lead in their feet, and gas in their stomachs.

I have become a lot more social with the passing of the years; some might even call me a frivolous old gal. I'm seeing five gentlemen every day.

As soon as I wake, Will Power helps me get out of bed. Then I go see John. Then Charley Horse comes along, and when he is here, he takes a lot of my time and attention. When he leaves, Arthur Ritis shows up and stays the rest of the day. (He doesn't like to stay in one place very long, so he takes me from joint to joint.) After such a busy day, I'm really tired and glad to go to bed -- with Ben Gay. What a life!

PS The preacher came to call the other day. He said that at my age, I should be thinking about the hereafter. I told him I do -- all the time. No matter where I am -- in the parlor, upstairs in the kitchen or down in the basement -- I ask myself, "Now, what am I here after?"

Here's another cute story, especially appropriate since today is tax day and if you haven't started filling out those tax forms by now, you're going to really need something to cheer you up:

THE STRONGEST MAN

The local bar was so sure that its bartender was the strongest man around that they offered a standing $1,000 bet.

The bartender would squeeze a lemon until all the juice ran into a glass, and then he would hand the lemon to a patron. Anyone who could squeeze one more drop of juice out of the lemon would win the money.

Many people had tried this exercise over a period of time (weightlifters, longshoremen, and other strong fellas), but nobody could do it.

One day this scrawny little man came in. He was wearing thick glasses and a polyester suit, and said in a tiny, squeaky voice, "I'd like to try the bet."

After the laughter had died down, the bartender grabbed a lemon and squeezed away. Then he handed the wrinkled remains of the lemon to the little man.

The crowd's laughter turned to total silence as the little man clenched his fist around the lemon and squeezed six more drops into a glass.

As the crown cheered, the bartender paid the little man his $1,000, and asked him, "What do you do for a living? Are you a lumberjack, or a weightlifter, or what?"

The little man smiled and replied, "I work for the IRS."

And then, when all is said and done, we all might like to close with a little prayer that my daughter gave to me. I've been saying it ever since I got it:

DEAR LORD

So far today, Lord, I've done all right.
I haven't lost my temper.
I haven't been greedy, grumpy, nasty, selfish or overindulgent.
I'm very thankful for that.
But, in a few minutes, Lord, I'm going to get out of bed.
From then on, I'm going to need a lot more help. Amen.

A WILLOW WITHOUT THE MESS.

Willow

Willow are know to drop branches in the wind–but not the Flame Willow, a compact willow introduced by Bergeson Nursery. Discovered by Melvin Bergeson, the Flame Willow's branches are upright and dense, and are much stronger than the branches on most willow.

Gardener Pam Asselin of Oklee, who planted nearly ninety Flame Willow in her yard, dubbed the tree the "self-cleaning" willow. After a severe ice storm last year, the branches on Asselin's Flame Willow sprung right back. Very few broke.

But the best thing about the Flame Willow is its brilliant orange winter color. With the darkest orange branches of any willow, the Flame stands out during our drab winters and seems to become more brilliant as spring approaches. In this neck of the woods where trees are leafless much of the year, we need to plant trees which brighten things up during the long winter months. The Flame Willow makes a splash on the winter landscape like no other tree. Stop by the nursery before the leaves come out to see the Flame Willow for yourself.

The Flame Willow is very affordable. Healthy bare-root trees are available at Bergeson Nursery for five dollars. Flame Willow are fast growing and can be used as a yard tree, or for windbreak.

The Time To Plant Is Now!

Bare root trees and shrubs can be planted as soon as you can get the spade in the ground. In an early spring such as this one, trees can go in the ground in early April. Bare root trees will not be hurt by a cold spell after planting, as they are dormant and will remain so until they leaf out at the natural time.

Spring SEMINARS:

Seminars are held at the nursery and will start at 10:00 a.m. Saturday mornings. Coffee and donuts served.

Foreign Students—Jamilya Ismailova, who is living with Charles and Deb Winjum; and Aleksandr Primakov, who is living with Darryl and Deb Tveitbakk.

Special awards were presented by Mrs. Goulet at the installation program. Senior Sunny Carlson was recognized for accumulating 506 personal service hours and junior Colin Browning for accumulating 91 1/2 personal service hours. In total, the chapter members had put in 2,636 3/4 personal service hours during the year and raised $1,400 to help buy stage curtains for the auditorium.

Kelly Almquist and Tina Halsa were also announced as the chapter nominees for the National Honor Society Scholarship and Sunny Carlson as nominee for the Minnesota Association of Honor Societies scholarship.

Mrs. Goulet encouraged students who had applied for membership and had not been accepted to work on strengthening areas of service, leadership and character and apply again next year.

Affordable family housing is goal of new partnership

Rural Development and MMCDC have joined to implement USDA's 502 loan participation program which allows a first mortgage lender to combine its funds with lower cost USDA mortgage funds, thus reducing the total interest cost to the buyer.

MMCDC has already closed several participation loans with an increasing number being considered each month. A third element, to be announced shortly, is a commitment from the Greater Minnesota Housing Fund to provide additional down payment assistance through a subordinated mortgage.

"Solving the housing shortage in northwest Minnesota requires a comprehensive effort," states Arlen Kangaas, president of MMCDC. "First we must build quality homes that are both affordable and desirable. That is no small task and can only happen with involvement from the local community.

"Second, affordability depends on acquiring low cost and low down payment financing which keep the initial and monthly cost as low as possible. That is why the partnership with Rural Development in both the construction financing and in providing mortgage loans is so important."

Starting just two years ago, MMCDC has successfully developed a new subdivision in Detroit Lakes.

"These homes have had wide acceptance and the rate of development is more than two years ahead of schedule," Kangaas said. "We want to expand our horizons by replicating this success by building 20 homes throughout northwest Minnesota this year."

public service and serve less time in jail. Some prisoners — prisoners with families to care for at home, for instance — have been allowed to serve their sentence by wearing an electronic monitoring device while on home arrest. Some prisoners have been granted privileges to serve time on Huber law or work release.

Despite these changes, 1997 year-end statistics from the sheriff's department, show that the county paid about $5,000 to house some of its prisoners in other counties. In past years, the county collected significant sums of money from other counties for housing their prisoners. The statistics also show that the county collected $36,111 from prisoners on Huber who are required to pay for some of thir privileges.

Because Sheriff Moe foresees an increased need for jail space, he has been actively pursuing a plan to expand the jail. Buildings examined so far include the School District building occupied by Northwest Service Cooperative, the American Legion building, the City Auditorium, the old Hartz building downtown, the nurse's residence at Oakland Park, and the former Assembly of God Church. At least three of the buildings were examined by an official from the Minnesota Department of Corrections. His examination pretty much ruled out the City Auditorium because of building code requirements. The request from the School District for the building occupied by Northwest Service Cooperative was too high. Others were eliminated from consideration for other reasons including neighborhood opposition.

Sheriff Moe explained that he wants a building located close to the current facility, which could provide additional support and reduce some of the costs. It would also have to meet state corrections department building and occupancy regulations. The American Legion building meets those criteria and passed inspection by the corrections official.

The current Pennington County Law Enforcement Center would not be closed. It would be used to house more serious offenders. The county would probably drop its variance and reduce staff at the current facility.

The cost of a new facility

Figures on how much it would cost for a minimum security facility have not been worked out. Numbers repeated during various meetings, however, estimate the cost of purchasing and remodeling at between $500,000 and $650,000.

Sheriff Moe said he hopes some of the interior renovation of the building could be accomplished with current STS crews. When completed it is expected to be able to house 78 non-violent offenders.

Ken Olson, county auditor, said that for that amount the county would probably issue general obligation bonds, which would not require a referendum or public hearing.

Sheriff Moe said the state would like to house 20 of the state's non-violent prisoners in a dormitory style setting at the facility. These prisoners would form two work crews of 10 prisoners each. Currently, they would like to see the prisoners involved in a housing construction project. The minimum security prisoners would construct housing for low-income families. The success of a pilot project in New York Mills has encouraged them to expand the project. (The legislature recently approved an allocation of $700,000 for the project.) It is likely that the prisoners would be involved in other projects as well.

County Commissioners asked that they not compete with local and area housing contractors. State officials indicated they had no intention of competing with housing contractors. Most of their work would be conducted in flood damaged areas. The state is already in the process of hiring a local carpenter to act as an instructor.

During a meeting in late November of 1997, Dennis Drury of the Minnesota department of corrections, said the prisoners staying at the facility would have to go through a screening process. In addition, the prisoners would have only a short time left on their sentence, there would be no sex offenders, and many would be from this region of the state.

Drury said that a list of the prisoners participating in the program would be available to the sheriff or other authority for approval. Once a prisoner has completed their sentence they will be returned to a state correctional facility for release.

State officials have indicated that they would provide a crew supervisor for the prisoners, an instructor, and pay the county $50 per day per prisoner for food and housing. The state would pick up medical costs.

Tuesday, April 14, the jail will begin housing a crew of state prisoners. Sheriff Moe said he was expecting to see a list of those prisoners this week. These prisoners are being sponsored by a housing authority in Crookston. It will be paying for their expenses and labor costs, but the crew will only be working only for them.

Other counties are interested in the program. Sheriff Moe said he would like to move quickly to sponsor a crew for projects in this area.

Northland softball team is 2-2

■ Pioneers open season with two twinbill splits

Two Friday wins over Mesabi Range were followed by two Saturday losses at the hands of Vermilion as the Northland Community and Technical College softball team opened its 1998 season with back-to-back doubleheaders in Thief River Falls.

The Pioneers posted a pair of come-from-behind 10-run rule wins over Mesabi Range, 12-4 and 15-5. The visitors did all their scoring in the first inning of both games.

"It was a pretty good start for us," reported Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "It was a little sloppy at times, especially in the early innings of both games. We basically played two different line-ups in the two games, and once we got the first-game jitters out of the way we settled down and played pretty well."

Saturday, however, the Pioneers lost 10-8 and 9-1 decisions to Vermilion.

"We didn't play very well," admitted Nikunen. "Their pitcher (Jamie Preshiren) did a nice job. We got some hits in the first game, but we couldn't put them together when we needed them. In the second game, we started to get frustrated at the plate, and we starting swinging at some bad pitches."

Although Mesabi Range and Vermilion are both Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division foes, the season-opening weekend games were non-conference outings. The Pioneers will begin Northern Division-counting play with MCCC home field doubleheaders Friday vs. Hibbing and Saturday vs. Itasca.

Franklin Middle School pool in Thief River Falls will be closed for its annual spring cleaning April 20 to approximately May 10.

Announcements will be made when the pool is re-opened for public use.

MCC/Tri-County squad looks to increase wins

A young, inexperienced Marshall County Central/Tri-County cooperative high school softball team struggled through a 3-16 season last spring. The line-up is still young, but a lot more experienced heading into the 1998 schedule, according to head coach Jerald Hagen.

Last year, injuries and losses to graduation were too much to overcome, said Hagen. "This year we have a lot of experience coming back. Defense and good hitting are going to be the key to success this year, along with consistent pitching. We do not have dominant pitching, but we are looking for good, consistent pitching."

Ted Krize steps down as NCTC head coach

Ted Krize has stepped down as the Northland Community and Technical College men's head basketball coach.

Krize coached the Pioneers just one season, with Northland finishing 1-20 this winter, including 19 straight losses to end the year.

Krize, a Chisholm native, was named last spring to succeed Mark Dannhoff as Northland head coach. Dannhoff had coached five seasons after taking over a program headed for 22 years by Chet Engelman.

The won-loss record did not figure into the resignation, according to Krize, who said he was leaving Thief River Falls for "personal reasons." There is no basketball job in hand at this time, said Krize, but he didn't dismiss that possibility if the opportunity would arise in the future.

DNR NEWS

New Poster Available

Nongame Wildlife Program of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources recently announced the release of two new, full-color posters featuring some of Minnesota's lesser known wildlife species.

Included is a 12-by-16-inch poster featuring the great gray owl, Minnesota's largest owl species, and a 20-by-30-inch poster featuring all 14 species of frogs and toads found in Minnesota.

The frog and toad poster is the first DNR Nongame Wildlife poster to feature amphibians. It is meant especially for children who may be interested in basic information on frogs and toads. There is a color photo of each frog and toad; and, on the reverse side, there is an account of each species' range and natural history information.

The owl poster is the latest in the Minnesota Nongame Wildlife poster series. In the past, the annual poster has featured many Minnesota species, including loons, eagles, trumpeter swans and "feeder favorites," birds that spend the winter in Minnesota. The poster is distributed to tax preparers to give to their clients as a token of appreciation for donations to the nongame wildlife fund – the "loon line" on Minnesota income and property tax forms.

Minnesota's Nongame Program is one of the oldest and most successful programs of its kind in the United States. Since 1980, it has been supported almost entirely by voluntary contributions from the nongame check-off on Minnesota income tax returns and property tax forms. It receives no portion of DNR license fees or general-revenue tax dollars.

In 1997, a total of $921,600 was donated by Minnesota citizens – down from $1.1 million in 1993. The percentage of taxpayers contributing to the fund has dropped steadily in recent years to less than four percent in 1997; but the average amount donated in Minnesota is among the highest in the nation, $9.86 last year.

The annual posters are a very popular item. Individual posters – or small quantities for educational use – are available free of charge to those who request them – including individual taxpayers, teachers, libraries, local civic groups, and tax preparers who give them out to clients.

"Unlike those who buy hunting licenses, fishing licenses and ski passes, etc., the nongame wildlife contributor doesn't always know how his or her dollar is used," said Katie Haws, DNR Regional Nongame Wildlife Specialist at Bemidji. "The non-consumptive, wildlife watcher or outdoor enthusiast doesn't receive a tangible benefit, such as a limit of fish, venison or a designated trail.

Over the years, those projects have included monitoring and protection of rare, threatened or endangered species; wildlife educational programs in elementary and secondary schools; critical habitat protection and restoration; population surveys of loons, bald eagles and other rare species; and restoration of native wildlife species such as bluebirds, trumpeter swans and peregrine falcons, which were extinct, or nearly extinct, from the Minnesota landscape.

In northwest Minnesota, Nongame Wildlife posters are available free of charge by contacting the Nongame Specialist at 2115 Birchmont Beach Road, NE, Bemidji, MN 56601, or by calling 218-755-2976. They are also available at DNR wildlife offices in Baudette, Karlstad, Park Rapids, Detroit Lakes, Crookston, Glenwood, and Fergus Falls. Quantities may be limited.

School board has active session Monday evening

Crystal Light drinks, Ocean Spray drinks, All Sport drinks, and Lipton Tea

There was considerable debate about the proposal. Steve Young, board member, said he was concerned that not enough information had been shared to make an informed decision. He also had some concerns that the message to students was one of anti-competition, and where to draw the line on commercialism in schools.

Lyle Olson, board member, was a little more direct. Olson said the issue of choice was more important to students and should therefore include their input, especially since they are the major consumer.

Jean Larson, board member, differed philosophically with Olson and, to a degree Young. Larson said she thought it was strictly a business decision. The board is charged with financial responsibility for the district, she said. Giving students the impression that their input would have an impact on the decision of the board, would create some unrealistic expectation.

Randy Twistol, board member, pointed out that as a matter of preference, he prefers giving the business to a local company, which has 17 employees. He asked rhetorically, which business do people go to whenever they have a fundraiser — Pepsi.

Darla Twomey, board member, said that while there is an economic benefit to the school district, the students also benefit from the track and football field.

Superintendent Jerry Robicheau said that before all of the information was made available to the district, the staff had been surveyed. Of 200 surveys, 43 responses were returned, 24 in opposition, and 19 in support. He also said he had met with the student senate and honor society at Lincoln High school. Their main concern was with Mt. Dew and Powerade. Robicheau noted that Coke company representatives had not been approached.

Twomey pointed out that no one is being forced to drink the products. It is just being made available to students. Students and staff can bring their own beverage to the schools or purchase it at nearby stores.

In the end, the board decided to table the recommendation to approve the proposed agreement until information had been presented to students. The issue presented to students will not be whether to choose Pepsi or Coke products, but one of economic benefit.

■ Chris Mills, dean of students at Franklin Middle School, was officially accepted as the principal at the school, effective July 1.

■ A number of teachers have announced their plans to resign. Monday night, the board accepted resignations from Deone Cerny, a kindergarten teacher who has served the school district for 30 years, Glen Peters, phy-ed teacher, who has served the district 27 years; Patricia Beauchane, music teacher at Challenger who has served the school district for 31 years, and Joanne Kohler, educational assistant at Challenger, who has worked in the district for 29 years.

■ The board accepted the following personnel items from the Consent Agenda: the resignation of Melissa S. Rep. Finseth reviews session at Eggs and Issues Monday

In his review, Stumpf noted that in the last days of the 1998 session, legislative leaders reached agreement on financing for a $130 million St. Paul hockey arena. The deal commits the state to a $65 million no-interest loan to St. Paul, requiring $48 million in payments to the state.

One of the more controversial subjects of the legislative session was action on personal watercraft. Finseth said the bill that was introduced was beaten down to make it less controversial. At one time it would have required residents to file civil complaints by video-taping the offending activities. The bill does create a no wake zone within 150-feet of banks, which would eliminate travel on many rivers, if enforced.

Arctic Cat Chief Executive Officer Chris Twomey, said he does not anticipate any manufacturing changes to take place, other than activities related to fewer sales because of the publicity. He noted that manufacturers of personal watercraft are making them much quieter and will continue to make them quieter.

Twomey also agreed with Finseth in that he would have rather seen reform to property taxes. He noted that Arctic has three plants, one in Minnesota, one in South Dakota and one in Ohio. Property taxes in Minnesota are seven times greater than Ohio, and three times greater in South Dakota. He said he could truck parts from Ohio for the difference in taxes.

Another hot issue during the legislative session revolved around feedlots. Finseth said he thought the original bill went too far. Under the original bill, a facility such as the Amundson's Dairy Barn could not have been built. The original bill was eventually watered down. He said under the bill, there will be more regulations and funds were provided for research.

In other agriculture news, an agreement was reached to spend $8.8 million to help northwestern Minnesota farmers pay their federal crop insurance premiums in cases of wheat scab investigation. Funding will be capped at $4,000 per farmer.

Paul Nelson, President and Chief Executive Officer of Hartz Foods asked how the state plans to spend any money obtained as a result of the lawsuit against tobacco producers.

Finseth said the legislators had been told to be careful. Their comments could indirectly affect the outcome of the case. If they see any of the money from the lawsuit, it was his understanding, that it could be spent anywhere.

Nelson added that he didn't see that raising taxes on cigarettes would stop teenagers from purchasing cigarettes.

Twomey noted that it was another attempt to legislate the kind of society you want to live in.

Finseth was careful to note that there was support for both sides of the issue, and noted that teenagers, these days, seem to have a great deal of disposable income.

Nelson also noted that vendors are required to pre-pay taxes on cigarettes. For his company, which is a small player in the business, the taxes amount to about $1 million per year.

A number of communities will be allowed to seek permission from voters for sales taxes in their communities. Jean Heinrichs, Thief River Falls city council representative, wondered whether it was getting easier to obtain permission for a sales tax because all of the applicants were approved.

Finseth asked them not to ask him to pursue a sales tax. "It's not an easy battle," he said.

When asked whether those legislators seeking permission for a sales tax end up negotiating away votes for other projects, Finseth said only that "a lot of things happen in the legislature."

NCTC features Native Images Ojibwe artist

The annual Native Images Celebration will be held April 20-30 at Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) in Thief River Falls. This year's event will feature Ojibwe artist Bob "Punk" Wakanabo from Cass Lake.

Event organizer, Eugene Klinke, director of Minority Student Services at NCTC, says Punk brings an interesting history with him. "He has had no formal training in art, but has received several impressive honors over the past six years."

Klinke added that "Wakanabo lost his young daughter in a school bus accident shortly after he began painting his first works and slipped into a state of depression, anger and alcohol. After a short time he realized that he needed to focus his talents in other areas and began painting again and became active with the School Bus Safety Task Force of Minnesota."

A unique feature of Wakanabo's painting is that each comes with a story explaining the work and each is culturally expressed and is one of a kind. Punk signs all of his prints with "Punk/BLD". BLD stands for "Breanne Leigh's Dad", in memory of his daughter.

Six years ago Punk began taking his painting seriously and now has between 300 and 400 originals and has had 15 limited edition prints made. In 1993 he created his first serious painting called "Grand Entry" which was showcased on the cover of the "Twin Light Trail" magazine published in London, England. He has also received many regional, state and national honors.

The public is invited to view the display on April 23 from noon until 4 p.m. and April 24 between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The display will be set up in the Northland Gallery located in the theater and gymnasium area. Wakanabo will have prints and original artwork for sale during those hours.

The public is invited to attend this and other activities planned during Native Images Celebration April 20-30 at NCTC in Thief River Falls.

Ben Sjoberg is entrant in Quiz Bowl nationals

Benjamin Sjoberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sjoberg of Thief River Falls and a graduate of Lincoln high school, competed April 3 and 4 in the 1998 National Academic Quiz Tournament Intercollegiate Championship in Nashville, TN.

Sjoberg, a senior, was a member of the St. Olaf College Quiz Bowl team—ranked 42nd in the latest national Academic Quiz Tournaments ranking and one of 48 teams in the national event.

Quiz Bowl is a game of academic trivia similar in format to the television game show Jeopardy. Four-member teams answer questions to earn points, with 90 percent of the questions "academic" and 10 percent about entertainment, sports and current events. First team to answer a "tossup" questions gets the opportunity to answer a more difficult "bonus" question. Point value of each correct answer depends on the question's difficulty.

This was St. Olaf's first-ever participation in the national championship. The team earned high scores in all four of its tournaments during the season. Among other teams in the national event were Stanford, Harvard, University of California-Berkeley, University of Chicago, Cornell, University of Maryland and University of Virginia.

During the month of March, the weather in northwest Minnesota was as near perfect as anyone could wish to have. Folks here in the Red River Valley thought short sleeve season had come to stay when April took its turn and no fooling.

On Saturday Roy was busy putting up his new bird feeder that he got for Christmas from Tulsa. And the nicest bird house I have ever seen. [illegible] Roseau. It has both a fireplace and a porch with chairs for the lucky occupants who will be the first ones to claim it as their domicile. He put up a cute birdhouse in the big tree right in line for the kitchen sink hoping I would take more pleasure in working in that part of the house.

Today there are a dozen small red birds trying to feed at one time in the new feeder. It didn't take them long to find and partake of Roy's hospitality.

Pastor Erling Huglen, the interim pastor of Bethesda Lutheran Church and Salem Lutheran Church is having a 7:00 a.m. o'clock worship service followed by a breakfast at Salem and then a 9:30 a.m. worship service followed by a brunch at Bethesda. Easter is such a happy time. Elphia Adlis says it won't be long now until the Strandquist seniors will be at it again. She was accompanied by Elsie Lelrooth to the Center for the retirement party on Friday for her daughter, Joyce Wikstrom.

Peter Thompson and Philip Boen visited Isaac Thompson and Richard Thompson stopped there briefly on Sunday afternoon.

Juna Kasprowicz, Kelly Lelrooth, Amanda and Jessica, and Judy Kleinvachter brought birthday cake and ice cream to Maria Stetten in Argyle on Tuesday.

Isaac and Betsy Thompson went to Sebeka to visit John and Ann Henrickson and to celebrate Ann's 89th birthday.

Mary and Donna Renstrom and Marcy Nelson spent several hours at Elsie Lelrooth's on Thursday working on a quilt.

Angeline Bolhum, Kelly Lelrooth, Juna Kasprowicz, Claudia Berggren, Jessie and Kali, Elmor Holmstrom and Evelyn Albough visited Judy Kleinvachter this week.

Isaac and Betsy Thompson and Donny and Marilys Lelrooth were supper guests at Elsie Lelrooth's on Saturday.

Roy Vagle, Pearl Thompson and Elsie Lelrooth accompanied Lloyd and Maria Johnson to Roseau to the Fellowship meeting this afternoon.

This is not my luckiest day as when Roy is gone my electric typewriter bit the dust and I'm trying to finish this on my 1962 model that has been retired for the past 20 years. It is portable and no electricity to help me push these tired buttons down.

By Legislative Standards It Was Shrewd Business

As many skeptics of legislative resolve had predicted, the state legislature buckled in the final hours of the session and okayed a deal to help St. Paul build a temple for worshipping the gods of the National Hockey League. By legislative standards, however, it was a shrewd business deal cleverly crafted behind closed doors (the legislature requires open meetings for other public bodies, not for itself).

Under terms of the agreement, the State of Minnesota (that's us) loans $65 million to the Minnesota Wild National Hockey League team. The team pays no interest on the loan and agrees to pay back $48 million of the $65 million over a 20-year period starting in 2003, with the largest payments toward the end of that period. The $17 million loan forgiveness is in exchange for opening the arena for public functions 50 days a year—about the length of time between the end of the Stanley Cup playoffs and the pre-season.

The forgiveness feature is based on an agreement between the Minnesota Wild and Minnesota Amateur Sports Commission, which would make the arena open to the public for free skating events 50 days each year. What a tremendous concession the legislature negotiated! And for only $17 million—plus the interest the State pays on the $65 million loaned interest-free to the hockey team.

Knuckling under to the hockey hucksters in St. Paul at the end of the legislative session gives rise to another complication for legislators. Having proved they are patsies for professional team owners in one sport, they have created the perception that they can also be manipulated in others—specifically, at the moment, baseball. And, given the business acumen exhibited by our lawmakers in the hockey arena deal, who could doubt that it is true?

There are still those around who want to spend a minimum of $284 million of mostly someone else's money for an outdoor stadium for the Minnesota Twins to replace the comfortable, dependable confines of the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome where, incidentally, two world championships have been won.

If all of these folks get their way and snooker the State out of public financing for private sports franchises, let's at least hope they can find designers who know what they are doing in building the new facilities. Apparently they didn't know in designing the Metrodome, the St. Paul Civic Center and other "inadequate" facilities— at least to hear the critics whine now about sight lines and lack of accommodations.

The Metrodome is scarcely over a decade and a half old. The St. Paul Civic Center—described in an editorial in a Twin Cities newspaper as "aging"—was opened in 1973 (a scant 25 years ago) after being built at a cost of $19.5 million. It has concert seating for 17,590, hockey seating for 15,706, basketball seating for 16,426 and ice show seating for 16,154. It is scheduled for demolition to make room for the new $130 million hockey facility.

To meet its obligations, the Minnesota Wild would have to draw more than 15,000 fans per game. Price for an average ticket is projected to be $40.

Thought process by baseball stadium supporters is summed up in the first paragraph of an editorial in the Minneapolis Tribune:

"By finally working out an acceptable financing plan for St. Paul's new hockey arena, the Minnesota Legislature managed to break the political logjam that had threatened the entire 1998 state public-works program. But it did something else as well: It proved that where there's a will to cut through the controversy surrounding the use of public money to build professional sports facilities, a way can be found to get it done while still protecting the taxpayers' interest."

If one accepts the premise that bonding for funds at interest, loaning out that bond money interest free, and accepting a pay-back of less than three fourths of the original face value of the loan is "protecting the taxpayers' interest," it's hard to argue with the logic.

Senator Roger Moe apparently understands that logic. "They'll pay it back; that's the key," the Erskine senator was quoted as saying about the deal. "The team repaying the state wasn't in play before, so Minnesota taxpayers are now at least held harmless."

In our view, being on the hook for $17 million in loan forgiveness and the interest on $65 million in state bonds isn't being held harmless, it's being held hostage. As we see it, the Minnesota Wild and the City of St. Paul get the gold from the mine. You know what taxpayers get.

50 Years Of Service To Soil And Water Care

At its annual banquet Tuesday evening, the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District observed its 50th anniversary. Many changes have taken place during that time, but the overall goal has remained the same— preserving and improving the condition of the county's soil and water resources.

Emphasis for most of the district's history was on soil conservation and the prevention of erosion by both wind and water. Tree planting and conservation tillage practices have been encouraged for many of those 50 years.

Because too much water has been the norm for crop producers in the county, early emphasis on surface water treatment was on field drainage and reduction of field water erosion. More recently a good deal of attention has been paid to public waters and preventing contamination of the underground water resource. The strength of the district has been in its ability to adapt and change to address the needs of the day.

We congratulate the Pennington SWCD on its 50th anniversary, commend it for its interest and activity in many areas of conservation, and wish for it a successful future in dealing with the county's and the area's soil and water resources.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

Many thanks to all of the people who made the 1998 Governor's Snowmobile Ride a success. From snowmobilers to volunteers in the kitchens, everyone that I met was having a great time.

The Snowmobile Ride and Winter Rendezvous is quickly becoming a popular tradition thanks to the great hospitality shown in Thief River Falls, Warren, Newfolden, Middle River, Holt, Grygla, Goodridge, Highlanding, Gully, Trail, McIntosh, Erskine, Mentor, Fertile, Beltrami, Red Lake Falls, Plummer, Brooks, Oklee, St. Hilaire and surrounding communities.

It takes a significant amount of foresight and patience to plan an event of this scale. I understand that you are celebrating your accomplishments this weekend, and I want you to know that recognizing your outstanding partnerships and leadership is appropriate and well-deserved.

As a state, we want to capitalize on the recreational aspects of our unique winter season. You have proven that we have a great potential in this market. We already know that snowmobile manufacturing, sales and tourism are important to Minnesota's economy, but your work will keep the sport safe, growing and profitable.

Again, thank you for your leadership in making the snowmobile ride a fun-filled and safe winter rendezvous for everyone involved.

Keep up the good work!

Sincerely,
Joann E. Benson

Effie Handy has had several birthday celebrations this year for her birthday, but she says she only got to be one year older. On Saturday evening, Ed and Lyn Turenne entertained a group at their cabin at Clearwater Lake in honor of Effie's birthday. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Emerson of Clearbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Emerson, Lawrence and Elick of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hanson of Faribault, Mr. and Mrs. Carey Hanson of Alexandria, Mr. and Mrs. Marty Lavin of Fosston, Bill Emerson of Horicon, WI, and Emma Nyland. Bill and Effie were also guests for dinner on Sunday at Ed and Lyns. On Monday afternoon, Hazel Nelson, Ann Nyland and Emma Nyland met at Effie's home for birthday cake.

The Gully Community Club sponsored the Pre-Easter Day party for the area children on April 4. What a glorious day! The children turned out in droves to enjoy the many crafts and games. Crafts that were done were, "Caterpillar and butterfly making" with Jodi Thompson and Linda Gedtland, "Easter baskets from half and half cartons" with Cheryl Nybo, "Easter picture coloring", with Marlene Rasmusson, "Egg dying" with Grace and Anna Walton; and "Bingo" with Dave Graff and Lloyd Gedtland. The Easter egg hunts for nearly 300 eggs was an enjoyable success. The following received door prizes: Sam Syllors: Easter basket, Shelby Wagner and Josh Watne: piggy banks, Cole Nelson: egg chalk. Treats were provided by Bernice Ottalla and Dave and Sandie Graff provided ice cream cups. We are grateful to all individuals who donated not only their time but also nice gifts for the children. Happy Easter to all!

Doreen and Sarah Brovold and Carol Torgerson were busy planning a birthday party at the Gully Cafe on Saturday. They weren't going to let Sanna forget she was a year older. So they put a notice up inviting people to come for birthday cake and coffee on Saturday afternoon from 2:00 to 4:00. Edna baked the largest birthday cake all decorated in Easter colors and Doreen brought angel food. Even though friends and relatives came from all directions there was enough ice cream and cake for all. It turned out to be a really good celebration but I had never been that old before. Among those attending included Caroline Rindahl, Audrey and Carl Severson from Fosston, Sanna and Tony Gustafson from Wannaska, Carol, Les and Luke Torgerson, Thief River Falls, Evelyn Hanson, Clearbrook, Harry and Nora Hanson from Hickory, Lyle and Vickey Hanson, Clearbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Emerson Bill Emerson and Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss Emerson from Wolverton were supper guests at Effie Handy's on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss Emerson, Bill Emerson, Emma Nyland and Effie were supper guests at Larry's.

Marion Handy of Fosston and Lyn Turenne of Thief River visited with Effie Handy on Saturday evening.

7 SALOONS
That Is The Number We Will Soon Have

"A German by the name of Schmidt from North Dakota has rented the building occupied by T. G. Johnson and will open up a saloon. Editorial comments from the files of Norm A. Holen

—The current strike of packinghouse workers may be taken as another demonstration of the community of interests between the farmer and laborer.

—Television now has reached Minneapolis and its suburbs. Of course, it's quite a distance from there to Thief River Falls.

—A toastmaster has been defined as the punk that sets off the fireworks.

—Getting the U.S. out of the red is a big problem, and, adds Billy Noonan of Baudette, so is getting the Reds out of the U.S.

—When an historical program is staged in connection with the observance of the Minnesota Centennial in 1949, the old Pembina trail west of this town ought to come in for a little attention.

—One can't help being discouraged over the state of the nation on noting that two currently popular songs bear the titles, "Toolie Oolie Dooley" and "Laroo Laroo Lilli."

—Married men make the worst husbands, our Ada colleague has discovered.

—Folks must be growing up faster than they used to. A baby over in the state of Maine started walking at the age of five days.

—Now that the Wisconsin primaries are out of the way, Messrs. Stassen, Dewey and MacArthur have a better idea of how they stand.

—Remember way back when Henry Ford startled the nation with his announcement of a $5 a day minimum wage? How times change!

—Random thought: Wonder if Thief River Falls citizens will get the benefit of another concert series next winter.

—Someone is always taking the joy out of life. Now oil company officials are warning the public to prepare for a gasoline shortage this summer.

—A Republican commentator says that a platform is something that you came in on, and a balcony is something you go out on.

A NOTE OF THANKS
We would like to thank everyone for all they have done for us in this time of crisis. We would especially like to thank Grace Hammer and Ruth Halvorson for the beautiful job that they did singing and playing the piano at Libertie's funeral. We would also like to thank everyone who sent cards, came to see us or simply called to let us know they cared. For that we are very grateful. May God bless each and everyone of you.
Sincerely,
The family of Libertie Traxler

Reissuance of demo landfill permit sought

John and Gloria Erickson have applied for a permit reissuance from the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) to expand and continue operation of a demolition landfill in Section 33, Township 153N, Range 44W, about 4.25 miles west of St. Hilaire. If the facility is not contested and subsequently denied, the MPCA may issue a permit for a term up to five years.

The Erickson Demolition Site will cover about 5.5 acres and will be limited to the disposal of demolition debris. The disposal site has a total capacity of 50,000 cubic yards and a development life of about five years.

The Commissioner has made a preliminary determination to reissue a permit for this facility, and a draft permit has been written. Interested persons are invited to submit written comments on the draft permit action. The last day to submit comments is May 6, 1998. The comments submitted, must include the following information:

- A statement of the person's interest in the permit application or the draft permit;
- A statement of the action the person wishes the MPCA to take, including specific references to sections of the draft permit that the persons believes should be changed; and
- The reasons supporting the person's position, stated with sufficient specificity as to allow the Commissioner to investigate the merits of the person's position.

Any submittals should display the public notice number 98-SW-649, next to the address on the envelope and on each page of any submitted comments, and include a return mailing address and telephone number.

During the comment period, interested persons also may request a public information meeting or a contested case hearing. A public information meeting is an informal meeting which the MPCA may hold to help clarify and resolve issues. A contested case hearing is a formal proceeding before an administrative law judge. If a person requests a public information meeting or contested case hearing, the comments must include items 1 through 3 listed above and a statement of the reasons the person desires the MPCA to hold a public information meeting or contested case hearing. The comments must also identify issues that the person would like the MPCA to address at the public information meeting or contested case hearing. The MPCA's review and decision on such a request shall be in accordance with Minn. Rules pt. 7001.0120 and 7001.0130.

Deliver or mail all comments to: Minnesota Pollution control Agency, Attn: Roger O. Rolf, 714 Lake Avenue, Suite 220, Detroit Lakes, MN 56501.

All written comments received within the comment period will be considered in the formulations of final determinations.

If there are no requests for a public information meeting or a contested case hearing, and no unresolved comments on the proposed action, the MPCA Commissioner may make the final decision on the draft permit under a delegation from the MPCA Citizen's board. Any person, however, may request that the MPCA Citizen's board consider the permit prior to final permit action. Such requests must be made in accordance with Minn. Rules pt. 7000.0500, subp.6. The MPCA will make the final determination on the draft permit action in accordance with Minn. Rule pt. 7001.0140.

The draft permit file (including special conditions, comments received and other documents) is available for inspection and may be copied any time between 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Copies of the public notice, existing information and draft permit are available at the address shown above. If you have any questions regarding the draft permit, contact Roger Rolf at 218-846-0774.

Wheat checkoff referendum fails in Minnesota

Wheat producers in Minnesota have voted down a proposal to increase by a half cent per bushel the state checkoff for wheat research and promotion.

According to official ballot results released by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, the referendum failed on a vote of 810 no to 319 yes. Of 1,722 ballots requested and mailed by producers, 1,129 ballots were received within the allowed election period and accompanied by the appropriate affidavit.

Cliff Keller, who serves as chairman of the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion Council which oversees the wheat checkoff, says he believes many producers realize the need for wheat research and promotion. But poor production caused by multiple years of scab, coupled by the current price slump from increased global wheat stocks, has created an economic environment where it is difficult to support any increased costs.

"It was difficult to generate support for an increased checkoff at the same time that wheat is suffering from low production and low price. I know of producers who voted no but said they would have voted yes, if only their current cash flow situation was better," says Keller, a wheat producer from Fergus Falls. "Many wheat producers right now are at the point where they are doing everything they can to control costs, even if it includes programs designed to help."

He points out too that less than 20 percent of wheat producers in the state cast a ballot. "Turnout was good, but it could have been better. Even the 593 ballots that were requested by producers but weren't returned or were mailed in too late to be counted could have made a difference."

The referendum was the first proposed increase since the Minnesota wheat checkoff began in 1978. The wheat checkoff will remain at one cent per bushel. However, many programs and activities funded by the MWRPC through the wheat checkoff will be frozen, reduced, or eliminated.

"Multiple years of poor wheat crops caused by scab, coupled with a reduction in wheat acreage, have severely impaired the council's ability to fund domestic and export market development, value-added activities, and research. Our ability to be proactive in addressing the very problems that are challenging our industry, such as scab, will be more limited, and that is unfortunate.

A better price and improved production will do much to improve producers' views toward wheat, and the wheat checkoff, says Keller.

"There's a lot of negativity about wheat right now, and that carried over to the wheat checkoff vote. I am optimistic that we are going to have better wheat production this year, and that the price situation will also improve once stocks are drawn down and exports pick up. The mood toward wheat and a wheat checkoff referendum would then be a different story. In the meantime, we will continue to do what we can through the current checkoff structure to improve our wheat industry."

City council discusses river dredging, lock-up

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Thief River Falls City Council discussed progress on the river dredging project, and a proposed minimum security facility in Thief River Falls Tuesday night.

Progress on the river dredging project in Thief River Falls is a little behind schedule, said Lowell Enerson, director Red Lake Watershed District.

Enerson said five potential sites for fill had been identified and they were beginning negotiations with property owners. He said they are also beginning to work on permits.

Despite being a little behind, Enerson said he remains confident that the project will proceed this summer.

Nate Dalager, area hydrologist for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, was a lot less confident. Dalager said there are a lot of issues to be answered and it was very complex. He also said he had read that the project would improve water quality and fishing, and "that's just not true." Dalager also hinted that an EIS or Environmental Impact Statement might be required.

Ron Lindberg, public works director, diplomatically reminded the council and Dalager of the efforts that have already taken place. Lindberg said they have been working with the department of natural resources on the problem for many years and have tried many things including weed cutting, which didn't work, and more recently a draw down, which didn't work. He said that the city would now like to get on with the dredging project.

Lindberg also presented a little more information about meetings held on the subject. He suggested leaving a 10-foot buffer to satisfy DNR concerns, and possible erosion problems. He also noted that test results on samples taken from the river had returned and MPCA indicated that there were no problems and the spoil could be disposed of on land.

Though Enerson said he remains optimistic about the project, he did mention that the project was originally expected to cost $1.25 million, but there was only $1 million for the project.

Minimum Security Facility

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe was asked by the Thief River Falls City Council to provide them with more information about the proposed minimum security facility in the American Legion building south of the Law Enforcement Center. Moe had explained that the county had offered to purchase the facility for $250,000 and Legion members are expected to vote on the offer on May 5.

Council members explained to Moe that a conditional use permit would be needed to operate the proposed 87-bed facility at that location. Even though information about the facility has been presented to the community by the news media for some time, many council members expressed concern that they hadn't been approached earlier about the project and didn't know enough about the proposed project to know what questions to ask. Council members specifically mentioned that they would like to see a cash flow analysis, and an impact statement from any similar facility and community.

Jim Burkholder, a local citizen who was at the meeting, also indicated that citizens in the community feel in the dark about the proposed project. Burkholder said a story should be written about the project in the paper and covered in the media. Some people feel, he said, that the project is being built behind their back just like the Depot project.

That comment caused Council Representative Don Barron to angrily deny the allegation, saying "that's just not true" (about the Depot).

Burkholder said he didn't mean that it had, but that people "feel" that it was built behind their back.

(For more information about the minimum security facility project, see "Local Legion members to vote on sale of building" in the April 15 edition of The Thief River Falls Times; or "County expresses interest in housing low-risk prisoners" in the December 3, 1997, edition of The Times; or numerous county board stories. A story about the proposal also appeared in the Grand Forks Herald.)

Council members did manage to come up with a few questions for Sheriff Moe. Sheriff Moe was able to answer those questions with the following comments. He said he was planning to bring in other prisoners and attempt to operate the facility as a business. He also pointed out that the current jail is full and non-violent offenders are on a waiting list to get into the jail to serve their time. State prisoners brought in to work at the facility would have a very short time left to their sentence, but would have to return to their original prison to be released. He said it is possible that families might follow the prisoners. Moe informed the council that currently, eight state prisoners are being held at the local jail. Seven are serving time for property offenses, and one, a former resident of northwest Minnesota, for a violent crime.

22 units participate in Boy Scout Exposition

Annual event returns after flood recess in 1997

Twenty-two units are expected to participate Sunday, April 26, when the annual Voyageur Trails District Boy Scout Exposition is held from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center on the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

The exposition is sponsored by the activity committee of Voyageur Trails Boy Scout District and the Thief River Falls Morning Kiwanis club.

"Scouting in Action" is the theme of this year's exposition, according to Art Heinze, chairman of the event.

"This year's three-hour family show will again have a large variety of activity for all children," Heinze said. "It is designed to demonstrate some of the wide variety of the scout skills that boys can learn and participate in."

Packs and troops have been enthusiastically preparing their displays for the show and are looking forward to active participation from the public. This year's show will offer active participation whereby spectators can actually participate in the various scout activities. It's a show for the whole family.

Units may set up their booths between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Saturday, April 25, or between 10:30 a.m. and and 1:30 p.m. on April 26, the date of the show. Booths will be judged against a standard throughout the day.

Admission to the show is free since the Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts sold candy bars earlier to cover the costs of the exposition. Thief River Falls morning Kiwanis club is providing the volunteer help needed to set up the exposition booths and clean up after the show.

"Everyone is invited to come to the civic center to see scouting in action or actually participate in the fun," Heinze said. "The Thief River Falls Archery Club will be participating for its 16th year and Greg Nygren will operate the Order of the Arrow concession stand and handle promotion for the National Boy Scout Jamboree."

A list of the units registered to participate, their town, leader's name and theme for their display is as follows.

Lincoln prom Saturday Grand March scheduled

"Heaven In Your Eyes" is the theme for the Lincoln high school junior and senior prom to be held Saturday, April 25, in the school gymnasium.

A grand march will begin at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium and is open to the public at $2 per person. Those viewing the grand march are asked to use the main front doors to the school which will open at 7 p.m.

Following the grand march there will be an opportunity to view the decorations in the gym. Color theme this year will be baby blue, white and silver, according to Mrs. Linda Goulet, 11th grade class advisor.

The prom itself starts at 9 p.m. with music by Billy D and the Crystals.

Again this year the Elks Lodge will host its after prom party in the lodge rooms from midnight to 4 a.m. with food, games prizes and dancing to recorded music with Peg Mehlkens from KTRF radio as the DJ. About 180 business and professional places have contributed merchandise or cash to support the after-prom effort this year.

After 1:30 a.m. no one will be admitted to the party and those who leave before the 4 a.m. closing will not be readmitted. Among the many prizes to be awarded throughout the evening will be a grand prize (yet to be announced) which will be given at 4 a.m. The winner must be present to claim the prize.

A senior banquet will take place Monday, April 27, at 6:30 p.m. in the Evangelical Free Church with class personality awards, other awards and musical entertainment on the program.

Council retains Camp MOE

At its annual meeting Saturday, April 18, in Roseau, the Pine to Prairie Girl Scout membership voted to retain Camp MOE in Thief River Falls and other properties in Fargo and Grafton, ND.

The council's board had voted earlier this year, following recommendation of a study committee, to sell the properties. The decision upset members of the local Camp MOE committee who had a camp session planned for this summer.

Preliminary plans were made to form a non-profit corporation to acquire the property and operate the camp. At Saturday's meeting in Roseau the membership voted to rescind the action of the board of directors and to retain ownership of the camp as well as the other properties in Fargo and Grafton.

In elections held at the meeting, Al Kastner of Thief River Falls was reelected to the board of directors and Sara Olson of Thief River Falls was elected as a new member. Both terms are for three years.

Ginny Armstrong of Thief River Falls was presented with her 30-year pin as an adult leader in the Girl Scout program and Julie Peterson and Lynell Wayne received council appreciation pins.

Keri Thompson, reigning Miss Thief River Falls, will answer questions at an information meeting for the 1998 Miss Thief River Falls scholarship pageant Thursday, April 23, at 7 p.m. at Zion Lutheran Church. The pageant is open to young women from 17 to 24 years of age who live within a 60 mile radius of Thief River Falls and all interested are encouraged to attend the meeting. The pageant offers a total of $4,600 in scholarships and awards and will be presented June 27.

These prisoners will be working in Ada. Moe said he didn't know what impact the facility would have on the community, but would try to obtain information about similar facilities in other communities.

Sheriff Moe also asked the council and city offices to support Tornado Awareness Week. In view of the tornado activity in southern Minnesota, he said, it is a good time for everyone to practice a few precautions. He also asked whether a shelter for residents of Challenger Manufacturing Home had been identified, as required by law. Council and representatives were not sure whether a shelter had been identified.

Humane Society

Pennington County Humane Society received the support of the city council. Representatives of the local chapter, explained that Humane Society representatives would like to sell cat and dog licenses within the city. City Attorney Paul Ihle said a services contract would have to be worked out prior to the organization taking over those duties.

Mayor Borsheim

Although it was not discussed at the City Council meeting Tuesday, council members were provided with an opinion from the Office of Attorney General. The opinion was in response to questions posed to the attorney general regarding possible conflicts of interest stemming from Mark Borsheim serving as a Computer Assisted Drafting operator in city utilities, and as Mayor of the city.

Minnesota Office of Attorney General has issued an opinion stating that Borsheim may continue to be a city employee while serving as mayor. The question, prompted by a concern over conflict of interest, was posed to the attorney general's office after Borsheim was elected mayor in November in 1997. In a four-page opinion dated April 9, the attorney general's office answered in very general terms that in most circumstances there wouldn't be a conflict of interest.

City Attorney Paul Ihle commented that Borsheim has done an excellent job of avoiding instances that could be construed as conflicts of interest.

More than 50 in region are Foster Grandparents

In schools, child care centers and group homes throughout northwestern Minnesota, Foster Grandparents work every day to give children extra love and support, according to Julie Aanenson, program director with Tri-Valley Opportunity Council, Inc.

The expanding program recruits seniors to match the needs of children in educational settings in Red Lake, Pennington, Norman, Kittson, Polk, Lake of the Woods, Roseau, Clay, Becker, Mahnomen and Marshall counties.

Tri-Valley administers the program and more than 50 Foster Grandparents are assigned to more than 20 sites across the region. Aanenson says there is always room for more.

"We can never find enough Foster Grandparents," she said. "The needs are so varied, from rocking a preschooler to sleep at a daycare center to reading one-on-one at an elementary school. We have a waiting list of sites, but not enough Foster Grandparents to go around."

Foster Grandparents must be over age 60, in good health and able to donate 20 hours a week to work with children. They receive training and are paid a small stipend, receive some transportation reimbursement, an annual physical and a meal at the site where they volunteer. Funding is provided by the Corporation for National Service, with support from the Minnesota Board of Aging and local sources.

Foster Grandparents will be among volunteers recognized at the annual Tri-Valley volunteer recognition luncheon April 22 in Crookston.

"Our Foster Grandparents have the experience to give children the time and attention they crave, although I've noticed the benefits work both ways," Aanenson said. "Volunteering gives the lives of these seniors new meaning. It's very fulfilling because they make such a difference in the lives of the children they work with."

Seniors who are interested in becoming Foster Grandparents can contact Aanenson or program coordinator Heidi Simmons at the Tri-Valley headquarters in Crookston (toll-free at 1-800-584-7020. In Norman, Mahnomen, Becker or Clay counties, contact Ruth Hoffman at the Tri-Valley service center in Ada, toll-free at 1-888-784-2660.

National Crime Victims' Rights Week April 19-25

National Crime Victims' Rights Week is scheduled for April 19-25. This special commemoration encompasses the theme, "Victims' Rights: Right for America," and will be observed by thousands of victim services and allied professional organizations and agencies across the United States.

What's right about Minnesota is also right for our nation: determination, commitment, and the belief that justice for all means justice for victims of crime — young and old, urban and rural, and diverse by race, religion and gender. The determination and commitment of victims and those who serve them have reaped impressive results since victims' programs and rights began in Minnesota over 20 years ago. Since then over 60 state laws have been passed that protect and enforce victims' rights. In addition, there are over 200 non-profit and justice system-based programs that provide support and services to victims of crime in our state.

Yet according to Sara Schlauderaff, victims' needs are still not met. Countless victims continue to need, and deserve, support and services.

"With nearly 37 million criminal victimizations in the United States annually, the need for improved victims' rights and services has never been greater," Schlauderaff said. "Victims continue to seek access and participation in our criminal and juvenile justice systems. They seek to hold offenders accountable for their actions that harm not only victims, but our entire community."

Here in Minnesota, numerous activities have been planned to recognize victims of crime in our state. Local events include distribution of bookmarks to school children, organized neighborhood porch light vigils and many public awareness displays. Statewide events include a memorial service on Sunday, April 19, at 6:30 p.m. at Cretin-Durham High School gymnasium, featuring local dignitaries, victim testimonials, inspirational music and a candle lighting ceremony.

Schlauderaff noted, "During National Crime Victims' Week, we can send a strong message that services for crime victims, offender accountability, and community safety are priorities for our entire nation. It is an important opportunity to honor those who bring honor to victims of crime, and make victims' rights right for America."

Working for victim's rights in Pennington County

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

In a world where all too often it seems that criminals have more rights than their victims, it is reassuring to know that Michele Jesme is hard at work in Pennington county protecting and fighting for the rights of victims

Michele is the Pennington County General Crime Victim Advocate with the Violence Intervention Project (VIP), and her office is located in the Pennington County Attorney's office.

Michele grew up in Thief River Falls, the daughter of Mert and the late Juanita Hutchinson. She and her husband, Ed, have two daughters, Amanda, age 9, and six-year-old Kassondra.

While completing her education in the legal assistant program in 1990, Michele interned at the County Attorney's office and then worked there off and on until 1994 when she opened a day care business in her home in Thief River Falls. Day care was no longer practical after she and her family moved to Middle River last fall, and as of April 1, Michele assumed her position as general crime advocate for Pennington county.

While she hasn't been on the job long, Michele has already worked with 15 clients.

The mission of the Pennington County General Crime Victim Advocacy Program is to protect the rights of victims, witnesses and family members of a victim. For those who choose to exercise their rights, ongoing assistance is available throughout the criminal justice process.

It is Michele's job to make an initial contact with the crime victim as soon as possible after the offense is reported to the Law Enforcement Center (LEC) or a referral is received from Violence Intervention Project.

During that initial contact with the victim the crime advocate provides information on victims' rights and offers referrals to appropriate agencies for counseling, social service assistance, security and crime prevention advice, lock repair, etc. The advocate is available to the crime victim from the time the crime is reported until the perpetrator is sentenced and even beyond if the situation warrants it.

The services are provided at no cost to the victim. The program is provided by VIP and funded by Pennington county and through a grant from the Minnesota Department of Corrections as well as private donations.

The crime advocate and service providers from other agencies serve on an advisory board to discuss programming matters, ensuring the coordination of services without duplication.

What does all of this mean to you? Let's say you are the victim of a mugging. An assailant pushes you from behind, knocking you to the ground, and steals yoor purse. Once the crime has been reported to the LEC, Michele will contact you, inform you of your rights as a victim, and refer you to other agencies who can help you deal with the trauma of the experience. She will keep you informed of the status of the investigation.

Once the defendant has been caught and charged, Michele will arrange and attend meetings with you and the attorneys. She will notify you of dates, times, and places of hearings or trials and any plea offers, plea agreements, and sentencing hearings.

Because of the ordeal, you missed several days of work in addition to having property stolen. You are entitled to compensation, and Michele will explain and assist in reparations and restitution claims.

She will accompany you to hearings, and should you have to testify, she will assist in preparing you to be a witness. If you are unable to be in court, Michele will attend in your place and inform you of the proceedings.

She will also help you write your victim impact statement for the sentencing hearing, a letter telling of the affects and impact the crime had on your life.

These are just a few of the services available to crime victims from the Pennington County General Crime Victim Advocacy Program.

Most of the crimes Michele has been involved in thus far are property crimes, and she is referred to by law enforcement personel as the "restitution lady."

Crimes of this nature are on the rise and Michele says, "The need for improved victims' rights and service has never been greater. Victims continue to seek access and input into our criminal and juvenile justice systems and measures that hold offenders accountable for their actions that harm not only their victims but our entire community as well."

April 19 - 25 is National Crime Victims' Rights Week, and the theme for 1998 is "Victims Rights: Right for America." An article by Michele Jesme included on this page expounds on the theme and what it means for all of us.

As the week is observed by thousands of victim service and allied professional organizations and agencies across the country, they will celebrate the nearly 30,000 state and federal laws that have been enacted in the past 25 years to protect and enforce victims' rights, including constitutional amendments in 29 states as well as a pending federal constitutional amendment.

And you and I can rest a little easier, assured that when and if one of us or someone close to us is a victim of a crime, help is just a phone call away.

For more information on victims' rights or for help as a victim, phone 681-8589, write to Michele Jesme, Pennington County General Crime Victim Advocate at P.O. Box 96, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or visit Michele at the County Attorney's office.

Michele Jesme assumed the position of Pennington County General Crime Advocate on April 1, and her job is to work with and for persons who suffer from crime victimization. Employed by the Violence Intervention Project, Michele's office is located at the Pennington County Attorney's office.

Victim Rights: Right for America and right for every community

By Michele Jesme

Nearly everyone in our community has been touched by crime, either directly or indirectly through a family member, friend or co-worker. We all experience the pain of crime. That's why today, as never before, victims' rights are right for America and right for Pennington county.

During the past two decades victims' voices have been heard loud and clear. This chorus of concern about access to justice, input into decisions affecting their lives in the aftermath of crime, increased offender accountability and rehabilitation services, and the need for safer communities resounds across our nation.

The cost of crime to people in the United States is staggering. The U.S. Department of Justice tells us that the victimizations generate $105 billion annually in property and productivity losses and medical expenses. This amounts to an annual "crime tax" of roughly $425 per man, woman and child in the United States. When the values of pain, long-term emotional trauma, disability and risk of death are put into dollar amounts, the costs rise to $450 billion annually ($1,800 per person).

Crime victims and those who serve them know these losses more than most. They can tell you about the child that is afraid to sleep in his/her bed after a burglary and the fear and trauma that the rape victim feels after being violated and degraded. They can describe the hopelessness that thousands of battered women and children endure on a daily basis across the nation.

They can highlight the isolation and shock that elderly victims may feel or that person who is victimized solely because of skin color, religion or gender. Those working with victims may also tell you of the devastation that survivors of homicide and drunk driving crashes endure, often for the rest of their lifetime.

Nearly one of every seven citizens of the United States will be victimized each year. What do these innocent victims of crime need that we, as concerned citizens, friends and neighbors can provide?

First, we can say we're sorry, and not blame or judge victims because someone made a willful choice to harm them. Next, we can promote increased rights and services, including information, input, restitution, protection, counseling and support. Finally, we can change the face of justice as we know it today by working to ensure a baseline of consistent victims' rights nationwide.

To this end, an effort to amend our federal constitution to secure victims' rights has begun. A proposed federal constitutional amendment is currently pending in Congress with bipartisan support.

To date, 29 states have state-level constitutional amendments that articulate victims' rights, but there is no similar recognition of victims in the federal constitution. President Clinton voiced his concern for victims, urging that victims "should be at the center of the criminal justice process, not on the outside looking in."

Here in our community victims have many needs that can be met only through the compassion, understanding and time of our community members. Volunteering for victims is a rewarding experience that can change lives and take Pennington County to new heights of compassion and improved community safety as well.

The rights and needs of crime victims are the same as any citizen's basic rights and dignity that we all expect and deserve. We need to make "liberty and justice for all" a reality for everyone! It's time that we recognize that victim's rights are, indeed, right for America and right for Minnesota.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL)—A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis®" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis® is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non staining cream or new roll-on lotion form. Arthur Itis® is guaranteed to work or your money back.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Jessica Krankkala, Lincoln High School

Easter is one of my favorite holidays of the year. It is a great time for family gatherings, and also the celebration of Jesus' resurrection.

My family always has enormous gatherings to celebrate Easter. Relatives come from Fergus Falls, Fargo, Minneapolis, etc. It is a great time to catch up on new and old news, and also a time to grow and learn more about relatives.

Easter is also a great time for chocolate bunnies and Easter eggs, not to mention those tasty Cadbury Eggs. I still wake up excited Easter morning searching for my Easter basket. But I feel some people get too wrapped up in the wrong meaning of Easter. To some people, Easter is just a time for dyeing eggs and hanging colorful bunny stick-ups on their windows. All of that is entertaining and adds to the spirit of Easter, but too many people are obsessed with only Easter's commercial side.

I feel people need to concentrate more on the real meaning of Easter - the resurrection of Jesus. I know candy and bunnies are mainly an attraction for children, but still we need to focus on educating our children on the true meaning. Too many children look at Easter as a time for Easter egg hunts and sweets.

In my eyes, Easter is a time for celebration. It is when Jesus arose from the dead. No other holiday represents something this important, except for Christmas. Yet what always amazes me are the people who go to church only on Easter and Christmas.

Why do people practice religion on holidays only? This statement may sound harsh, but it seems there is an overabundance of people at church on holidays. I usually haven't even seen half of the people who attend on these two days. I don't mean to sound negative, because it's a blessing that people do attend, but religion should be a daily practice. Religion should be important everyday, not just two days a year. Why go to church at all if you only go twice a year?

On a more positive note, this past Easter was an extremely entertaining holiday and very educational. It is always so exciting to see the vehicles of long-distant relatives arrive in my driveway.

On Easter Sunday my church had an Easter breakfast, a cantata and a great sermon. After church my family headed out to my uncle and aunt's for an Easter dinner. The dinner was excellent! We had turkey, ham, mashed potatoes and gravy, sweet potatoes, corn, bread, stuffing, etc. For dessert we had banana splits and pretzel dessert.

After dinner, I went for a walk with my cousins, looked at the cows and called them by name, and played volleyball in the back yard. Playing volleyball was quite interesting because the ball was flat. By the time we got done, the ball had left red bruises all over our arms. Ouch!

A great Easter for me is church, family, and food!

Weed Man

With the fair amount of rain that fell a couple of weeks ago, I noticed the lawn beginning to green — something my husband must have noticed, too, because overnight he had once again transformed into his springtime alter-ego: Weed Man!

Because my husband is normally a nice, quiet, unassuming guy, hardly prone to loud outbursts or sudden losses of control, this latent seasonal personality change always takes me by surprise. One evening he's on the couch watching television with the boys, and the next he's bursting through the kitchen door slinging bottles of herbicide and ranting about dandelions taking over the world. I'll tell you, sometimes it's almost too much for one woman to ignore.

Fully armed the other night, he came in from outside and informed me, "I'm taking out those dandelion patches tonight!"

Finishing up the dishes, I took a moment to scrutinize the backyard. "Well, at least the snow's gone," I commented.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"Well, last year when you underwent this transformation, there was still a foot of snow on the ground —"

"That's not true!"

"You're right. I was just making that up."

"Well?" he asked — presumably waiting for me to offer him encouragement.

I looked at him dubiously. "Go Get'Em, Weed Man!" I said..

He sighed. He knew I'd never understand.

"All right! All right!" I relented, deciding he'd had enough. "But you still need to tell me exactly where you're planning to spread the weed killer tonight."

"Everywhere!" he exclaimed, a mad glint in his eyes.

"Everywhere?"

"Yes! Everywhere!" he cried, brandishing a bottle of herbicide over my head and saluting the sky. "My plan is to go in quick, strike hard, hit fast! You've got to believe me when I tell you we have to attack!"

"Uh-huh, and how long do I have to keep the kids off the grass?" I asked.

"About three months."

"Three months!" I gasped. "You're spreading weed killer everywhere and I have to keep the kids off the lawn for three months! Are you nuts?!"

"Here we go again," he said. "Every year it's always the same. I want a decent looking lawn and you don't care."

"Don't give me that!" I cried. "Every year it's the whole weed killing thing that's the same. One day you're a nice, quiet, reasonable guy, and the next you've gone insane!"

"What are you saying?" he asked.

"Why ask?" I asked. "It's as plain as day. You need help. Maybe there's a twelve step program out there for herbicidal maniacs!"

He moaned. "I just want to have a nice lawn!" he explained.

"Look," I said. "I know this weed-killing thing is important to you —"

"Important to me!" he interrupted. "I'd think it would be important to you, too!"

"Important to me! I'm not the one who's plagued throughout the summer by reoccurring dandelion dreams!"

"You couldn't care less about the weeds!" he howled in disbelief.

"Kill your weeds," I told him, "but don't use anything that will keep the kids from going out to play. I'll keep them off sections of lawn a few days at a time, but anything more than that is — "

"It won't be the same!"

"You know, sometimes I wonder about you, Weed Man," I said.

Fitting on his goggles and slinging a five gallon canister of herbicide over his shoulders, he made his way to the door. "All I'm trying to do is make the lawn more beautiful and the world — "

" — a safer place?" I asked.

"Exactly," he maintained.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...No Spring Fever Here

Spring fever is here again. Can you see the signs? Can you feel the fever?

I'm sure I don't have it though because I don't even like spring. I've said it before and I'll say it again. I have reasons why I don't like it - it's muddy and messy and one never knows how to dress because it is cold in the morning and hot by afternoon. Kids and animals track mud into the house, the lawn is a mess, the basement always leaks somewhere, roads are full of potholes, the area outside of the back door looks like a barnyard, kids and animals are restless and irritable, spring housecleaning and all the chores I've neglected over the winter need to be done.

It isn't that I like winter all that much, but, after six months or so of it, I've gotten used to it. I'm at the age now when I like things to be consistent, and spring just doesn't fit into the picture at all. One never knows what to expect of spring, temperatures fluctuate wildly, it will rain one minute and the sun shine the next, sometimes it snows. It just throws my whole system out of whack and so I'm just pretending it isn't here. No, I surely don't have any spring fever.

I haven't packed away my winter clothes yet either. Nevermind that I'm digging my summer ones out of the storage chest - it's still winter as far as my closet is concerned. I haven't done any spring cleaning yet. Nevermind that I scrubbed the bottoms of the kitchen cabinets while washing the floors and then went to the store and bought one of every type of cleaning product they make just in case I get the urge to do a little more cleaning. It isn't spring cleaning.

I haven't bought any flowers to plant yet. Nevermind that I'm peeking at the little tulip buds outside and brought my dead geraniums up from the basement. It's still winter. I haven't grilled anything outside, nevermind that my son did. I haven't hung any laundry outside, except a few sheets and towels. I haven't sat outside in the lawn chairs we got out last weekend either. It isn't spring.

I plan to move directly from winter into summer without any spring in between. Why bother with it? I don't like it and I'll simply ignore it and it will go away and I won't even notice and suddenly summer will be here and then things will get done.

Nevermind that this spring has been unusual, that it has been sunny and warm nearly every day, that my basement has stayed dry, my lawn is getting green, that the trees are getting little leaves on them, that I can't remember the last snowfall, there isn't any mud, that the potholes are very tiny, that the floors are relatively clean and the barnyard isn't by my back door any more. I still don't like spring, generally, and I don't have spring fever.

Well, I don't like spring usually, except maybe for this one and I surely don't have spring fever either.

You're in pain, and you're looking for relief. But three pain relievers are staring at your from the shelf-aspirin, acetaminophen and ibuprofen. Which one do you use? Sometimes the choice isn't easy. Each one has its pluses and minuses. Here are a few points to consider on each:

- Aspirin: Relieves moderate pain, reduces fever and acts as an anti-inflammatory. Can cause stomach upset, inhibits blood clotting and may cause severe allergic reactions.
- Acetaminophen: Relieves pain and reduces fever. Does not reduce inflammation. Causes less stomach irritation than aspirin or ibuprofen. (Safe alternative for those who cannot take aspirin.)
- Ibuprofen: Relieves slightly greater pain than aspirin or acetaminophen. Higher doses used as directed provide anti-inflammatory action. Causes less stomach irritation than aspirin but more than acetaminophen.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q How does Social Security figure out the amount of reduction if I take retirement before age 65?

A For benefits on your own work record, the Social Security retirement amount is permanently reduced by five-ninths of one percent per month for each month before age 65. This means that before age 65, benefits are based on how many months you are away from age 65, not whether you are 62, 63 or 64. The computation works out to an approximate reduction of 20 percent at 62, 13.3 percent at age 63 and 6.6 percent at age 64. You should keep in mind that each month closer you are to age 65 will bring you a slightly higher benefit than the previous month. There is a different reduction rate for those receiving benefits on the record of someone else, an example being spousal benefits. Also, remember that for those born in 1938 and later, the age for unreduced benefits will be increasing from age 65.

Q I own my own business which carries health insurance for all employees including me. Do I need to sign up for Medicare at age 65?

A People covered by their own or a spouse's employer's group health insurance usually take Part A (hospital) of Medicare. Depending on the employer's coverage, many people do not take Part B (medical) of Medicare to save monthly cost and to avoid duplicate coverage. When the employer coverage ends you should immediately sign up for Part B of Medicare through what is called a special enrollment period. The fact that you are a business owner is not significant. For more information, call the SSA national number at 1-800-[illegible]

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

Gretchen Beito

This month as we observe the one year anniversary of the Great Flood of 1997, we might also think of what a flood might have been like for pioneers. Pioneers were on their own.

Ida Gjelhaug Imsdahl (1870-1956) of Bigwoods Township of Marshall County wrote an account of the 1897 flood for her grandchildren.

The Bigwoods Township has remained the choice spot--"Next to Utopia." The beauty of the timber along the Red and Snake Rivers, the lush prairie land with its brush and pea vine growth was unmatched anywhere and had strong appeal. Besides this, there was the potential of the black productive soil. The two rivers were a couple of miles apart in the Big Woods area, but gradually came together and merged at Fork. From the Fork the Red River continued alone to Winnipeg in one forceful stream.

The settlers soon learned that the Red and Snake Rivers went on a rampage and overflowed their banks almost every spring which caused damage and hardships. These pioneers never despaired, however, but tried in their small way to fight the elements.

The most memorable flood was the one in 1897, and every flood since then has been measured and compared to this one. I shall try to tell you some of our experiences in this flood--THE BIG FLOOD--some of it fun and exciting, but much of it hazardous and frightening.

The winter of 1896-97 was very severe with heavy snowfall in Big Woods. People expected a flood for sure, and started preparing early with a supply of rubber boots and boats. Platforms or mounds were built up for their livestock since many of the stables were inadequate. Many families living in one-story homes moved out. Your Grandpa Ole made an especially good barn that year, and it had two pairs of stairs so two people could row at the same time.

The snow started melting in March and the Red River began to swell and became bigger each day. By April the water trickled over the banks of both rivers, first flowing into a ravine near my parents' home. Soon the two rivers met in the middle of the prairie and the whole area was under water.

By this time Ole and I had moved with our two children to my parents' home (Johann and Anne Gjelhaug). We had only a one-story house and we knew it would be flooded. Ole had built up the stalls in the log stable so the cattle and horses would be safe from the water and it was his plan to row up there each day--the two and a half miles--to do the chores.

My parents had a two story log house. The water came into the lower story so the kitchen stove was put on a platform, and a walkway of planks all around it and to the outside door, and the boats were tied just outside. The cooking was done on the first floor but we moved upstairs for living quarters and for sleeping. The water remained high for two weeks. It started going down about the 10th of April and it was soon off the floor downstairs. Mother was anxious to do some cleaning since it was Easter week so she swept out the clay and the planks were removed.

Mothers' cleaning job was barely done when a terrific wind came up from the north blowing the water back into the house, and the water was even higher than before. The stove had to be raised again and the planks put back. This wind of hurricane intensity raged all day and the next. The temperature dropped and the high waves splashed all around, and soon the house, trees, and fence posts were covered with several inches of ice.

It was fortunate your grandpa had not gone to our place to do his chores for he certainly would have been marooned like so many others. Some homesteaders had their cattle standing on these straw and log mounds with no shelter. Your grandpa went to feed the cattle on Saturday--a beautiful day and very mild. He had even thought of staying there for the night and sleeping in the granary, but he had the children with him so he decided it was best to get back. The storm started Sunday--yes, Easter Sunday.

As soon as it was possible to get out, your grandpa and my brother Bernhard started in the boat to check on our home as well as other homes where help might be needed. This was Tuesday and the wind was still strong. The waves splashed over the side of the boat, and it took one of them to do the rowing while the other kept dipping the water out of the boat. The animals were safe, but hungry after two days of fasting.

They stopped to see Uncle Lauritz Gjelhaug (father's brother). He and his family lived in a tall frame house, and it had swayed in the wind during the storm. Uncle had no heavy rope but had tried the best he could to support the house by criss-crossing doubled twine. He had also put a sapling against the door so it couldn't blow open. Their five daughters were put to bed to keep warm for they didn't dare have fire in the stove. A shanty attached to the house on the north side was detached and floated away. In it was a barrel of pork, a sack of flour, and other produce they could not save. Yes, it was a tough day for them and I am sure Aunt Marie said many a prayer.

Their next stop was at a home occupied by three families, and all were living upstairs. In this group was a sea captain who "knew his ropes" too and saved the day for this group. He didn't have heavy ropes either but he was ingenious enough to use twine.

The water stayed up for another week and then receded quite fast. During this time our son Martin was born--and this went well too. I was glad he waited until the storm was over. When we finally moved back to our own home we had three children.

I must tell you about some uninvited guests we found when we returned home. A muskrat had made a nest inside the oven of our kitchen stove, and on the sod roof of our little log house a duck had found a dry spot to make her nest.

All creatures whether human or otherwise will try to find a way to survive.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES
April Showers Bring May Flowers

These colorful flowers are lots of fun to make. Before you begin, tint containers of water with assorted colors of food coloring. To create the flowers, use paintbrushes dipped in the colored water to decorate coffee filters. When the filters dry, add green construction paper stems and leaves.

Flowers, Flowers

PARENTING TIPS
Safety

Did you know that accidents are the leading killer of children! They claim far more children's lives each year than diseases. The major unintentional risk for children is traffic injury, whether as a passenger, bicyclist or pedestrian.

Parents are responsible to teach their children about safety. They must then set good examples of safe practices. Parents and those who care for children should insist on buckling all children into seat belts and child safety carriers for even the shortest car trip. They should teach children to cross the street safely.

If your child is eligible to enter kindergarten in the fall of 1998 and you live in the Thief River Falls School District, you may consider enrolling in the Early Childhood Family Education (ECFE) Safety Town program which will be conducted in May. Call 681-8670 for information. If you live outside of the Thief River Falls School District, contact your local ECFE program for information on safety and parenting.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about and identify streets, crosswalks, curbs, traffic signs and pedestrians. Talk about what red, yellow and green mean on a stop light.

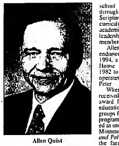
Quist to speak at Our Saviour's Academy's 25th anniversary

"You Are the Light of the World" is the theme of the 25th anniversary of Our Saviour's Christian Academy in Thief River Falls which will conduct a spaghetti supper and program to commemorate the event Thursday, April 30.

Guest speaker for the event will be Allen Quist of St. Peter, a candidate for Republican endorsement for governor of Minnesota. Past and present students and other supporters of the school will also speak or provide musical entertainment.

Public attendance is invited. Tickets may be purchased by sending a check to Our Saviour's Christian Academy, P.O. Box 269, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or calling 681-7753. A free-will offering will be received with all proceeds going to the school.

In 1973 Rev. Wosje, a pastor in Thief River Falls, donated land for a Christian school called King's Way Academy. In 1979 it was taken over by Our Saviour's Lutheran Church and the name was changed to Our Saviour's Christian Academy.



Allen Quist

The academy is an accredited school which includes preschool through 12th grade. It uses a Scripture-based nondenominational curriculum with emphasis on high academics and spiritual growth and leadership. Enrollment is open to members of all Christian families.

Allen Quist was the Republican endorsed candidate for governor in 1994, a member of the Minnesota House of Representatives from 1982 to 1988, and now owns and operates a family farm near St. Peter.

When in the legislature he received an Outstanding Legislator award from a broad coalition of education, health and business groups for his leadership on school programs. In 1995 he was designated as one of the 100 most influential Minnesotans by the Journal of Law and Politics. He was a member of the faculty at Bethany Lutheran College from 1968 to 1982 and served as faculty chairman while the youngest member of the faculty.

Sen. Moe says legislature acted in responsible way

Legislators acted in a fiscally responsible way and taxpayers will receive another $500 million from the property tax rebate, according to Senate Majority Leader Roger Moe of Erskine in his assessment of the 1998 legislative session. He said total tax relief topped $1 billion.

"Minnesotans wanted to get a big part of the state surplus back, but they didn't want the state's future jeopardized," Sen. Moe said. "We accomplished exactly what the citizens wanted."

The Majority Leader said all of the major tasks confronting the legislature got done this year. Three particularly significant accomplishments, he said, were the tax rebate coupled with tax reform, a new "pay-as-you-go philosophy and investment in essential infrastructure.

"More than 50 cents of every dollar in the projected surplus is already going back to taxpayers in the form of another 20 percent property tax rebate to homeowners and renters next year," he said. "A year ago, Minnesota ranked second in the nation in returning taxpayers' dollars, and this year we're aiming for number one."

Reform of the property tax classification system continues this year, lowering business and rental property taxes without harm to homeowners and farmers, Moe said. "At the same time, we continue to increase our commitment to public education by paying for more than two-thirds of school costs at the state level."

The senator said that he insisted early this year on applying the "pay-as-you-go" philosophy to capital spending. "If you have cash in the bank, it is irresponsible to borrow money to fix the roof," he said. "It wasn't easy to make this change, but we finally got the point across."

The state will pay cash for $300 million in capital needs that were scheduled for borrowing, and even more cash will be paid for projects if the November budget forecast permits, he said. "In the long run," he added, "this strategy could save the state more than $1 billion in unnecessary borrowing costs."

He pointed to expenditures on roads, bridges, sewers and education in the $999 million capital improvements bill as the key infrastructure investments that will keep the state strong well into the 21st century.

"Ultimately," he said, "setting a sound course for the future was our top priority, and we delivered."

Seek applicants who can give HIV services

Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) is seeking grant applicants who can provide HIV-related services in rural Minnesota.

Federal Ryan White funds are available for projects designed to provide primary health care and culturally appropriate services for people in rural areas of the state who are living with HIV. Proposals are being sought from both private and non-profit providers who are able to offer these services.

The funding will be used to increase primary care capacity in targeted geographic areas and help overcome cultural barriers to receiving care and services among some groups in the rural population. Each funded program will receive up to $25,000 to provide services for a 12-month period, beginning July 15.

Applicants must submit a letter of intent to MDH by 4 p.m. on Friday, May 1. Proposals are due by 4 p.m. on Tuesday, May 19. To request an information packet or submit a letter of intent, contact Kathy Mueller at 612-623-5282.

Tunheim says he will seek a 9th House term

Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy has announced he will seek a ninth term in the Minnesota House of Representatives, representing District 1A which includes all or parts of Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods and Marshall counties.

Tunheim grew up at Kennedy and has owned a farm there since the 1960s. During the 1997-98 legislative biennium, he served as chair of the House Commerce, Tourism and Consumer Affairs committee and a member of the K-12 finance division of the House Education Committee and the Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee.

During the past two legislative sessions he has authored legislation for disaster assistance and this year organized town meetings in Crookston and Hallock which drew large attendance and provided legislators from outside the area with first-hand information on the plight of northwest Minnesota agriculture.

Anyone with comments or questions for Rep. Tunheim can reach him at 501 State Office Building, 100 Constitution Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155-1298 or by calling 612-296-9635.

Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Severe Storms Awareness week planned

Minnesota Governor Arne Carlson has proclaimed the week of April 20-24 as Severe Storms Awareness Week in Minnesota.

Each year, the State of Minnesota, local governments and the National Weather Service designate a week to educate all Minnesotans about the danger posed by tornadoes, severe thunderstorms, lighting, hail and flash floods. Educational activities are planned by local emergency managers throughout the week with a statewide tornado drill scheduled for Thursday, April 23 at 1:45 p.m.

The following counties will conduct a second tornado drill on April 23, at 6:55 p.m.: Anoka, Benton, Brown, Carver, Chippewa, Chisago, Cottonwood, Dakota, Freeborn, Goodhue, Hennepin, Isanti, Jackson, Martin, McLeod, Meeker, Mille Lacs, Nobles, Nicollet, Olmstead, Otter Tail, Redwood, Ramsey, Sherburne, Steele, Stearns, Scott, Wabasha, Watonwan, Washington, Waseca and Winona. This second drill is designed to encourage families and second-shift workers to practice their severe weather emergency plans as most severe weather occurs between the hours of 3 and 9 p.m.

Due to recent devastating tornadoes in southern Minnesota, some communities may choose not to sound their outdoor warning sirens during the first drill; however, businesses, schools, hospitals and nursing homes are still encouraged to practice their severe weather emergency plans.

Additional information concerning tornadoes and severe storms is available on web page sites produced by the National Weather Service (www.crh.noaa.gov) and the Minnesota Department of Public Safety's Division of Emergency of Management (www.dps.state.mn.us/emermgt/index.html).

Finseth bill provides aid for farmers

Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus co-sponsored a bill passed by the Minnesota House of Representatives that will provide $8.5 million in emergency assistance to farmers in difficulty in the Red River Valley.

"You don't hear about it like you do with other natural disasters, but the situation in northwestern Minnesota has become a serious financial crisis or many farm families," Rep. Finseth said.

"Farmers have lost close to $1.5 billion through a combination of bad weather, disease, low prices and changes to federal farm support programs. As a result, close to one out of every four grain farmers could go out of business."

Finseth said area farmers who have lost 50 percent of their wheat or barley crop in one or more growing seasons between 1993 and 1997 will be eligible for state assistance. Up to $4,000 will be available to reimburse farmers for premiums and administrative costs paid on federal crop insurance during the 1997 growing season.

"We can't control Mother Nature, but hopefully this will help farmers pay insurance premiums and put crops in the ground this spring," Finseth said.

Farmers in Beltrami, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties are eligible for assistance under the program.

Dear Parent,

Once again, we are nearing the end of the school year. In the coming weeks your son or daughter may be joining others in Prom Night Celebrations. This is an exciting time for young people on this very special occasion.

It's also an exciting time for you as parents. You have watched your child grow over the years both physically and emotionally. There were times when you wondered if you could survive their growing up, and now that Prom Night is at hand, and celebration plans are underway, the question is, "Can we all survive it!"

If you are planning to host a party AT YOUR HOME OR OTHER LOCATION SUCH AS A HOTEL OR MOTEL, carefully consider your responsibilities in doing so. Please remember that SELLING, FURNISHING OR SERVING ALCOHOL to minors is a criminal offense in Minnesota. It is a gross misdemeanor which can result in up to one year in jail and up to a $3,000 fine. In addition, any adult who knowingly provides alcoholic beverages to a minor can be exposed to personal liability for injuries that result from that minor's intoxication.

The combination of drinking and driving is one of the leading killers of young people between the ages of 15 and 24. Last year, several young people under the age of 21 in our state alone, died or were seriously injured in alcohol-related traffic crashes.

This is one of the most memorable occasions for your son or daughter. Teach them to celebrate SMART!! Please read the information below to further answer any questions you may have about minors and alcohol. Make sure your Prom Celebrations for minors are chemical-free.

Sincerely,

Sheriff Gerald E. Moe & Police Chief Ken Froschheiser

Have A Safe & Happy Prom!

Keith Anderson (right) of Thief River Falls received the Roland Vandell Award as the Outstanding Freshman on the St. Cloud State University hockey team during the Huskies' annual awards banquet Sunday. St. Cloud head coach Craig Dahl made the presentation.

Anderson is named top SCSU freshman

Keith Anderson's first year on the St. Cloud State University hockey team was capped Sunday when the Thief River Falls graduate was named winner of the Roland Vandell Award, presented annually to the Huskies' outstanding freshman hockey player.

"Keith had an outstanding year for us," said St. Cloud State University head coach Craig Dahl. "We were very pleased with his season."

Anderson, sidelined by a shoulder injury late in the regular season before returning to the line-up for the WCHA playoffs, played regularly on the fourth line for the Huskies, finishing his 16 points.

"That's a good season, as far as points go, for a freshman in this league," noted Dahl. "Keith has really good hands and has good instincts for the game. He needs to hit the weights and get stronger to improve his speed. With a lot of hard work during the off-season, we expect Keith to vastly improve those (scoring) numbers next year."

Dahl was named WCHA Coach of the Year, leading his team to the league's Final Four for the fourth time in the past five years. "This was the most coachable team I've had in 18 years," offered Dahl. "We've been fairly consistent among the upper echelon in the WCHA in recent years; now we need to take that next step and win it."

Pioneers sweep, split games

Offensive support came from a variety of sources as the Northland Community and Technical College softball team swept Hibbing and split with Itasca in weekend softball doubleheaders.

Friday, the Pioneers handled Hibbing 11-1, 12-3. Saturday, Northland beat Itasca 4-2 in Game 1 before the Vikings came back to take the second game 8-5.

"It was a good weekend for us," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We're playing some fairly clean softball right now – not many errors."

And the defense, along with the pitching, has been complemented by a strong offense. "We knew we were be a pretty good offensive club coming into the season," noted Nikunen. "We knew we would hit the ball, and that if our defense and pitching holds up, we'd be okay."

Both Minnesota Community College Conference match-ups were played in Thief River Falls. The Pioneers are 5-4 heading into a doubleheader against Fergus Falls today (Wednesday) that will close out a 10-game homestand and wrap up their 1998 home field schedule.

Northland wins three of four

■ Pioneers sweep Norsemen; split with Cobbers

A Saturday sweep over Mesabi Range was followed by a Sunday split with the Concordia College junior varsity as the Northland Community and Technical College baseball team improved its record to 6-8.

The Pioneers knocked off the Norsemen 12-8 and 4-2 in a Minnesota Community College Conference doubleheader played at Virginia. They added a 9-6 first-game victory over the Cobbers before losing the second half of the nonconference twinbill played in Thief River Falls 14-0.

Northland is 2-2 in the MCCC heading into Northern Division games scheduled at Hibbing today (Wednesday) and at home against Vermilion Sunday.

"We had a real good weekend," said first-year Northland coach Chris Mills. "The two conference wins at Mesabi were really big. They're a good team. We played some real good baseball. We're excited. Things are starting to come together."

The sweep over Mesabi Range featured a pair of tie-breaking seventh inning efforts by the Pioneers.

Deadlocked at 6-6 heading into the seventh inning of Game 1, Northland sent nine batters to the plate and scored a half-dozen two-out runs. Big blow was a three-run homerun by Ryan Bendickson.

Down 2-0 in Game 2, Northland gained a tie on a two-out, two-run fifth inning single by Chris Efta and won it in the seventh when Paul Gonsorowski singled, Arthur Hamilton hit a tie-breaking double and Ryan Halvorson added a two-out RBI single.

Hamilton turned in a complete game pitching performance in the nightcap, scattering eight hits while striking out two and walking just one.

Sunday, Northland's first-game win featured a tie-breaking three-run sixth that included three straight walks to load the bases, followed by a hit batsman and a two-run error.

The Pioneers' offense came to a screeching halt in the second game against the Cobbers when Hamilton's pinch-hit fifth inning single represented the lone Northland hit.

Park Rapids tennis squad defeats TRF

Lone Thief River Falls win game from Darin Bjerknes at No. 4 singles Saturday as the Prowlers lost a 6-1 boys high school tennis match to the host Panthers.

It was the fifth loss in as many starts for the Prowlers, who were coming off a pair of setbacks in a double-dual at Moorhead Thursday, where they fell to the Spuds 4-3 on a final-match, last-set tie breaker and were beaten by Fergus Falls 6-1.

"We're a very young team," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Sylvia Sjoberg, who does not have a senior on the squad. "Our players are all even, ability-wise, so depth should be okay."

Sjoberg, who has been coaching Thief River Falls girls tennis in the spring, added boys tennis to her resume following the resignation of Kim Maidment at the end of the 1997 season.

Thief River Falls wins JV contest vs. Spuds

Limited to just one hit, Thief River Falls still came up with a 2-1 junior varsity high school baseball win at Moorhead Monday.

A steal of home by Jacob Johnson in the first inning and wild pitch in the second inning produced the runs for the winners. Tim Hruby had the Thief River Falls hit.

Duane Wolff was the winning pitcher, giving up just four hits and a lone sixth inning run. Both teams had just one error.

Red Lake Falls beats TRF JV softball team

Red Lake Falls was a 19-5 winner over Thief River Falls Friday in junior varsity high school softball.

Alissa Hoffman had a single and a double, and Lindsey Nordhagen singled twice for the Prowlers, who were out-hit 18-6.

Becky Wagner was the losing pitcher.

Ten record catches are reported during 1997 fishing season

The 1997 fishing season was memorable for 10 lucky anglers who joined the ranks of those who have caught Minnesota record fish.

That's more than usual, according to Linda Erickson-Eastwood, who manages such records for the Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Section. "Five or six is a more typical number," said Erickson. "However, only one new state record was set in 1995 and there were four in 1996."

Minnesota's white crappie record was broken twice in 1997. On May 5, David Klitzke of Chaska notified the DNR about a 3-pound white crappie he caught Aug. 3, 1996, at Lake Groce in Carver County. Klitzke caught the record-breaker while trolling a Power Grub. Two weeks later Timothy Acker of Anoka reported a 3-pound, 4-ounce white crappie taken May 18 at Coon Lake near East Bethel. Acker took his fish while still-fishing with a jig and minnow.

Minnesota record for shovelnose sturgeon was also broke twice in 1997. Dotty Suedel of Apple Valley landed a 4-pound, 14.5-ounce shovelnose Feb. 1 on the Mississippi River. She was casting a jig near Red Wing when the fish hit. Suedel's record was broken May 31 when Bill Nelson of Winona caught a 5-pound, 3-ounce shovelnose at Sandy Hook, sometimes known as Straight Slough, near Minnesota City. Nelson was still-fishing with a night crawler.

New Minnesota records were also set for black and yellow bullheads in 1997.

Lake Reno near Lowry produced a 3-pound, 13.2-ounce black bullhead June 8 for Keith Hvezda of Lowry, who was fishing with a night crawler.

A record 3-pound, 7.5-ounce yellow bullhead was taken Aug. 7 by Daemon Finley of Westmoreland, Kansas. Finley was fishing with a worm at Lake Osakis near the town of Osakis.

Minnesota River produced a 20-pound, 0.5-ounce black buffalo on June 26. Kevin Tauer of New Ulm caught the record-breaking fish near his home town while still-fishing with a worm.

New records were also entered for some less common Minnesota species last year.

Kevin McCallson of Hokah caught a 2-pound, 5.76-ounce goldeye on the Root River near Hokah June 30. The goldeye took a minnow while McCallson was fishing from the river bank.

Nine-year-old Andrew Bakken's name entered the record book when he registered a 2-pound, 13.28-ounce redhorse taken July 13 from the Otter Tail River near Fergus Falls. He caught the fish while casting a worm from the river bank.

Minnesota's record for American eel was broken Aug. 8 when Matthew Brown of Tucson, Arizona caught a 6-pound, 9-ounce specimen on the St. Croix River near Stillwater. Brown was still-fishing using cut fatheads for bait.

The DNR presents an award of recognition to any angler who breaks a state record.

Erickson said those who catch a fish that might be a state record should:

- Weigh the fish on a state-certified scale (found in most bait shops and butcher shops), witnessed by two observers.
- Take the fish to a DNR Fisheries office for positive identification and a state record fish application.
- Complete the application and send it, along with a clear, full-length photo of the fish, to the address listed on the form.

Rainy River Arrests

A call to the Minnesota Turn-In-Poachers Inc. hotline March 30 resulted in the April 3 arrest of four anglers charged with possession of 129 walleye over the limit. The anonymous caller reported observing four men in a boat keeping what he estimated to be at least three limits of walleye per person while fishing in the Rainy River on the U.S./Canada border near Birchdale.

Armed with a detailed description of the boat and anglers, conservation officers from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources found the foursome on the river later the next day. Over the next two days, DNR officers kept watch over the anglers and tracked them back to a residence in International Falls.

Three of the four anglers were from Wisconsin. A DNR conservation officer and Koochiching County sheriff's deputy arrested the three Wisconsin men around 7 a.m. April 3, shortly after they left International Falls, heading back to Wisconsin. The men cooperated with the officers and surrendered three coolers packed with walleye fillets. Each of the three men was charged with one misdemeanor count of over-limit possession of gamefish, based on a total of 108 walleye in excess of legal possessions limits.

Fourth suspect, an International Falls resident, was arrested later the same day. After being told that his fishing companions were already in jail, the fourth angler consented to a search of his house, where officers turned up another 27 walleye – 21 fish over a legal limit.

According to the Koochiching County court administrators office, the three Wisconsin men forfeited a total of $7,050 – the amount required to cover their bail, maximum possible fines, and restitution of $30 per fish. If found guilty in the misdemeanor over-limit case, the local defender faces a fine, court costs and restitution charges totaling $1,390.

The original TIP caller phoned the hotline again to thank the organization for their quick action in the case and to let them know that he didn't want a reward. According to Nancy Huonder, information officer with the DNR enforcement division, about two out of three TIP callers who are eligible for a cash reward turn it down.

"A majority of callers are not motivated by the possibility of a reward," said Huonder. "Most callers are just concerned that natural resource laws are being violated, and they want to do something about it."

The TIP 24-hour, toll-free hotline number is 1-800-652-9093. Callers may remain anonymous if they wish and still be eligible for a cash reward if their tip results in an arrest. Since 1981, TIP hotline calls have triggered over 5,000 arrests, and callers have collected a total of $280,000 in reward money.

Instructor of the Year

Alvin Schreeder, a firearm's safety instructor for more than 17 years, has been named Minnesota Firearm Safety Education Volunteer Instructor of the Year by the Department of Natural Resources Law Enforcement Division.

Schroeder, from Hutchinson, received the award at the Northwest Sportshow in Minneapolis.

His firearm safety classes are well known for providing hands-on, individualized instruction to students, ensuring that the safety message is conveyed to everyone. His classes draw students from a five-county area in central Minnesota.

"Alvie is the hardest working instructor I know," said DNR State Conservation Officer Don Kasper of Litchfield. "Without instructors like him, our firearms safety program wound not have the national reputation that it enjoys."

A Vietnam veteran, Schreeder is also involved with numerous organizations and activities in his community.

Red River Fishing Openers

North Dakota anglers began fishing the Red River of the North April 1 with a new year-round season and new possession limits for walleye-sauger and northern pike. Minnesota residents, however, will have to wait until May 2 to catch walleye-sauger, bass, catfish and northern pike from the Red River.

Daily and possession limits for walleye-sauger and northern pike now differ between the two states as a result of rule changes recently adopted by the North Dakota Game and Fish Department. Effective April 1, North Dakota anglers were allowed a daily limit of five and a possession limit of 10 walleye or sauger (in any combination) from the Red River. The northern pike daily limit of three did not change, but the possession limit for North Dakota anglers increased to six – the same as current limits on North Dakota's inland waters.

Minnesota's closed season on the Red River, from March 1 to the first Saturday in May each year, will remain in effect on the Minnesota side. Beginning May 2, daily and possession limits for Minnesota residents fishing the Red River will be six walleye-sauger and three northern pike.

Limit for catfish caught in the Red River and all its tributary streams, will remain the same in both sates – a daily and possession limit of five, with only one catfish larger than 24 inches.

This is a change from the past few years when the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and the North Dakota Game and Fish Department had worked out an agreement for a closed season on the Red, and standardized limits on gamefish.

According to Bob Strand, regional fisheries supervisor for the Minnesota DNR at Bemidji, North Dakota fisheries officials publicly announced the proposed rule changes last February, without consulting their counterpart in Minnesota. "We received a phone call the day after the proposed changes were announced," explained Strand. "We responded in writing with our concerns, but received no reply until after the new rules had been officially adopted."

According to Capt. Craig Backer, DNR regional enforcement supervisor at Grand Rapids, the change in North Dakota rules invokes the standard reciprocal language in Minnesota rules that provide for differences in fishing regulations on boundary waters between Minnesota and other states. When regulations differ between bordering states, anglers must comply with the regulations of the state for which they are licensed and can only exercise more liberal fishing privileges in the water of the state where they are licensed.

"Minnesota rules provide that Minnesota residents can only fish boundary waters with a Minnesota license," explained Backer. "When regulations differ between states, Minnesota residents must comply with Minnesota regulations."

Licensed Minnesota residents, Minnesota youngsters age 15 or younger, and non-residents possessing only a non-resident Minnesota license, may not keep catfish, bass, walleye, sauger or northern pike caught in the Red River during the closed season, emphasized Backer. "The purchase of a non-resident North Dakota license does not allow Minnesota residents to take gamefish from the Red River, outside of Minnesota seasons or in excess of Minnesota limits," he said.

Personal Watercraft Laws

After much debate, the 1998 Minnesota Legislature has enacted additional restrictions on personal watercraft. The new laws, which go into effect June 1, will affect how and when the small jet-drive craft are used on Minnesota lakes and rivers. A registration surcharge to pay for additional enforcement will also be added on water scooters, beginning Jan. 1, 1999.

According to Kim Elverum, Department of Natural Resources Boat and Water Safety coordinator, the major effects of the legislation, which amend current restrictions on personal watercraft, are as follows.

■ The 100-foot no-wake zone is increased to 150 feet. Personal watercraft must travel at slow, no-wake speed (5 mph or less) within 150 feet of non-motorized boats, shore (unless launching or landing skiers directly to or from open water), docks, swim rafts, or any moored or anchored boat.

■ Operation of personal watercraft will only be allowed from 9:30 a.m. to one hour before sunset (formerly 8 a.m. to sunset).

■ Personal watercraft will not be able to jump the wake of another craft within 150 feet of that craft (formerly 100 feet).

■ A personal watercraft rules decal issued by DNR will need to be on the craft in full view of the operators.

■ Age for adults accompanying 13 to 17-year-olds, who do not have a watercraft operator's permit, is raised from 18 to 21 years old.

■ DNR will also increase its coverage of water scooter operation and safety in the watercraft operator's permit course materials. The course has been required for teenagers to operate boats more than 25 horsepower (and personal watercraft since 1975).

■ Rental operators and dealers will be required to keep a signature record for six months of those persons who rent or buy water scooters, to show that the customer has been provided a copy of the laws and rules concerning the craft. (Dealers and rental operators have been required to provide a copy of the laws and rules since 1991).

The DNR will mail each personal watercraft owner a copy of a new pamphlet and rules decal. Additional copies will be made available from DNR offices, conservation officers, sheriff's department and at many personal watercraft dealers.

"The primary goal during the first part of this summer is to educate the public about the new laws and gain voluntary compliance," Elverum noted. "As with any new requirement, enforcement officers will use discretion in dealing with any violators."

Elverum noted that the Legislature also added a new surcharge to personal watercraft registration fees beginning Jan. 1, 1999. The $50 surcharge will be added to the current $19 three-year fee – registration is $12, exotic species surcharge is $5, and deputy registrar fee is $2. Owners will pay the fee as their craft registration comes up for renewal over a three-year cycle.

DNR offers spring bird feeding ideas

Lengthening days and milder temperatures of spring mean it is time to adjust bird feeding systems to accommodate springtime migrants as well as the winter birds and permanent resident birds that have been at feeders all winter.

One of the most delightful aspects of spring bird feeding is that there may be different species present every day, and all the birds can be enjoyed in their stunning breeding plumage, according to Carrol Henderson, DNR Nongame Wildlife Program supervisor.

Biggest change necessary for spring is to increase the proportion of millet mix provided both in feeders and on the ground, Henderson said. Spring migrants include dark-eyed juncos as well as white-throated, white-crowned, Harris' and fox sparrows en route to northern breeding grounds. These birds and returning mourning doves all prefer the smaller seeds of millet-type mixes. By early May, the millet can also attract indigo buntings.

Black oil sunflower seeds and cardinal mixes should also be provided for northern cardinals, blue jays, chickadees, house finches and purple finches, Henderson said. Suet is another staple that should be provided through the spring. It may even bring in yellow-rumped warblers and kinglets. Keep finch feeders stocked with niger thistle, or use tube feeders stocked with finch mixes (a combination of niger thistle, peanut hearts, and fine sunflower chips) to attract goldfinches, and any redpols or pine siskins that linger from their winter visits to your feeders.

Best way to present all of these bird foods is to present all of these bird foods is to have several "clusters" of three to four feeders each, Henderson said. These should be at several locations. A cluster of feeders offers the opportunity to provide different bird food in each feeder as well as on the ground near or under these feeders. This arrangement allows room for more birds as well as occasional visitors like squirrels.

"Spring is an excellent time to make a temporary brush pile near feeders," Henderson said. "Brush piles should be about 10 feet from a feeder cluster. Trim some shrubs or smaller tree branches and make a pile of branches perhaps 6 to 8 feet wide and 3 to 4 feet high. No need to use heavy limbers, small branches with lots of twigs are fine. This provides small birds with hiding places where they can avoid being caught by migrating birds of prey."

It is also very important to have water available for migrating birds, Henderson noted. A shallow bird bath or shallow pool with a recirculating water pump can provide dripping or splashing water that is especially appealing to birds. The best bird baths are shallow pools no more than 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 inches deep.

"By the first of May, put out tray feeders with grape jelly, overripe bananas, orange halves, chunks of suet, finely crushed eggshells, corn bread, and small containers of mealworms," Henderson advised. "This is a catchall combination of foods for a variety of migrating birds that include everything from Tennessee and yellow-rumped warblers to house wrens, Baltimore orioles and scarlet tanagers. Hummingbird and nectar feeders should also be put out by May 1 because they may be visited by warblers as well as early-returning hummingbirds and orioles.

"At a time when many people traditionally put away their feeders at the end of winter, you can be discovering that spring is a wonderful time to attract species that you never realized would come to bird feeders," Henderson said. "People should give it a try. I think they will be pleased with the visitors at their feeders."

Wheat Growers ask for crop insurance changes

Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers has asked the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation's Risk-Management Agency (RMA) to consider restructuring its regional territories to improve outreach efforts and enable wheat growers in northwest Minnesota to take advantage of lower crop insurance premiums.

Tim Dufault, Crookston area farmer and MAWG president, says the RMA is divided into 10 regions across the country. Each region has a regional service office (RSO) to administer federal crop insurance program rules. The RSO in Billings, MT, covers North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana. The RSO headquartered in St. Paul covers Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

"I think we make a good case that wheat and barley production in northwest Minnesota has more in common with the Dakotas than it does with Iowa and Wisconsin," Dufault said. "Including northwest Minnesota within jurisdiction of the Billings RSO has merit."

Restructuring the northern RMA regions may help in drafting and administering federal crop insurance policies for wheat and barley and would help in addressing the inequity in crop insurance premiums, Dufault said.

"As it stands," he said, "crop insurance premiums are about $2 per acre higher on the Minnesota side of the Red River."

If the current regions are to remain in place, Dufault says the RMA needs to improve the outreach efforts of its RSO in St. Paul, which has lacked a director since Bill Archer retired last summer. "During a time when we have many federal crop insurance problems that need attention, we need leadership in St. Paul that is willing to work with producers and crop insurance agents in northwest Minnesota to find solutions," Dufault said.

"We are urging the RMA to appoint a director who is willing to communicate better with western Minnesota producers, as fusarium head blight or scab has resulted in a unique set of problems for us, including an erosion in our actual production history," Dufault adds. "If the RMA is unwilling to allocate the proper resources to the St. Paul RSO to help meet our needs, then the region should be restructured," the MAWG president said.

Agassiz Audubon spring tree sale has four varieties

Packets of 12 bare root tree seedlings are being offered by the Agassiz Environmental Education Committee for $15 with pick-up to be made Saturday, May 9, at one of five locations in northwest Minnesota.

The packets contain three each of black walnut, false indigo, hazelnut and Villosa lilac, specially selected to attract wildlife and add color to the landscape. The trees can be easily transported in the truck or back seat of a car.

Since 1984 more than 40,000 seedlings have been distributed through this program. A limited supply of packets is available on a first-come, first-served basis.

To order, send checks for $15 per packet along with which pick-up site is preferred to Tom Feiro, 817 Sampson St., Crookston, MN 56716. Make checks payable to Agassiz Audubon. A confirmation notice and directions to the chosen site will be sent.

Packets may be picked up May 9 at one of the following sites: Old Mill State Park, Argyle, horticulture department at the University of Minnesota—Crookston, Bud and Betty Johnson farm at Roseau, Maggie Anderson residence in Thief River Falls or from Gretchen Mehmel at Williams.

The tree sale will help fund environmental education programming in Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Pennington, Polk and Roseau counties.

Prairie Chicken Society annual meeting to be held in Crookston

The Minnesota Prairie Chicken Society will hold its 25th annual meeting on April 24 - 25 on the University of Minnesota-Crookston campus.

The meeting will be held on the same site as the very first society meeting in April of 1973 when over 100 prairie and prairie chicken enthusiasts met to discuss the bird's status in Minnesota and what needed to be done to ensure its survival. Since then, the society has provided support for various aspects of research and management for prairie chickens in Minnesota and adjoining states.

This year's meeting will feature many speakers from across the greater prairie chicken range discussing the status of the bird in their respective areas. Presentations will also be made on historical aspects of the society. A raffle and mini-auction will be held to help support prairie chicken management. A field trip is planned for early morning on the 25th. It is likely that displaying chickens will be observed along with migrating sandhill cranes, ducks, geese and other prairie wildlife.

Registration will take place at the door. For more information contact Ross Hier at (218) 281-6063.

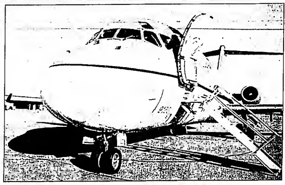
Wednesday evening, Northwest Airlines Pilot Steve Erickson (left) presented the log book for a DC9-10 to Dr. Orley Gunderson of Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. Northwest Airlines donated the plane to the aviation school. According to Jeff Buzzell of the aviation school, the school will use the plane to teach students skills related to metal frame repair. Buzzell noted that this is the third plane Northwest Airlines has donated to the school and another fine example of the great partnership between the school and Northwest Airlines. Buzzell also said because of the increased demand for aviation mechanics and wages that start at about $17 per hour, about 60 more students than last year will be admitted to the school. Buzzell said they don't have a problem placing students. There's a big demand for aviation mechanics right now.



Northwest Airlines donated this DC9-10 to Northland Community and Technical College. It arrived at the Regional Airport in Thief River Falls Wednesday evening. Parts will be salvaged off of the plane before students can begin instruction on airframe repair. This is the third airplane and second DC9-10 donated by Northwest Airlines to the aviation school in Thief River Falls. School officials are very excited about the donation and future of the aviation school.

Heartsaver CPR classes offered

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2793, Northwest Medical Center and Dakota Clinic—TRF have joined to present another session of Heartsaver CPR classes to residents of Thief River Falls and the surrounding area.

A choice of two evening courses is offered—May 11 or May 12—at Northwest Medical Center. Classes will begin at 6 p.m. and last approximately two hours. Persons must be 18 years of age or older to enroll.

Participants will be taught adult one-person CPR, the Heimlich maneuver for choking, heart risk factors and nutrition and heart healthy living. Those completing the class will receive a Heartsaver CPR pin and certificate.

A fee of $5 is charged for the class and preregistration by May 5 is required by calling Gail Holland at 681-4240, extension 210. Class size is limited to register early to be assured of a place.

"Perhaps someone you love is suffering from heart disease. Maybe the nature of your job requires that you be prepared to handle medical emergencies. Or you may believe, as many people do, that knowing the skills of CPR simply makes you a more useful member of your community," Holland said.

"Whatever your reasons, it is important to remember that CPR can help save lives. Many deaths can be prevented if the victims get prompt help—if someone trained in CPR provides proper life-saving measures until trained professionals are able to take over."

Similar classes were held in July of 1997 and very well attended, Holland said.

51st Shrine Circus April 24-25-26

Kem Temple's 51st annual Shrine Circus is on its way to Grand Forks and the University of North Dakota's Hyslop Sports Center for a three-day, seven performance engagement April 24, 25 and 26.

The circus will include aerial acrobatics, animals, clowns, juggling and other surprising and sensational displays. Adding to the show will be the Kem Shrine Circus Band.

Business and professional people throughout the area have provided free admission to all school children through the eighth grade. Goal of the sponsor is that every child has an opportunity to see the circus free.

Adult tickets are $7 ($6 if purchased in advance), all school children through eighth grade are admitted free, other student tickets are $2.50. Pre-school children are admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Performance times are 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. Friday, April 24; 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday, April 25; and 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday, April 26.

It's Been Fun

Once again it is time for me to say it's been fun doing the Plummer News and I hope I did a good job by all of you. A very special thank you to the three papers for putting in our news; to the Plummer bank for making my copies and to all of you for being so kind. In the last six months our town has had a lot of fun, good times, sad times, births and deaths and we all came together. May you have a great summer and if Ellie, and the good Lord is willing, I will be back in the fall. God Bless. Kathy

AN EASY-PICKIN' RASPBERRY.

Red Wing Raspberry

The Red Wing Raspberry, introduced by the University of Minnesota, bears its fruits on the tip of its stems for the easiest picking possible. No searching underneath prickly branches for elusive berries. No crawling on the ground. Sometimes you can fill an entire bowl while standing in one spot.

The Red Wing bears in the fall, from late August through frost. If we have a long fall, you can pick berries for weeks and weeks. A couple of years ago, we picked straight through to November 2. The berries are firm and tasty. They hold their shape in the fridge.

Best of all, the Red Wing raspberry bears on the new, first year shoots. That means instead of having to prune out the old canes to keep the patch fresh, you can mow the whole patch to the ground. The new plants will bear fruit that August. If you want to have a early crop as well, leave some of the old canes unmowed, and they will bear in July.

The Red Wing is a vast improvement over the old type of raspberry. Not only is a patch of Red Wing easy to maintain, but the berries have a mild flavor. A planting of ten canes will give you a good-sized patch in two years.

The Time To Plant Is Now!

Bare root trees and shrubs can be planted as soon as you can get the spade in the ground. In an early spring such as this one, trees can go in the ground in early April. Bare root trees will not be hurt by a cold spell after planting, as they are dormant and will remain so until they leaf out at the natural time.

Gully Community News

Sanna Brovold • 268-4350

The Gully American Legion Auxiliary members gathered for a work day on Monday, April 6, at the Community Center. We trimmed canceled stamps and Campbell soup labels and got post cards ready to send. Present were Carole Theraldson, Eileen Erlandson, Cathy Senger, Mary Berg, Nancy Lee, Irene Carlson, Luverne Foss, Alice Forsberg, and Sanna Brovold. Nancy Lee conducted the regular monthly meeting with discussions on various topics of interest. Since April is Children's month we hope next year to be able to donate to the Easter party. Our new year begins in July when our memberships will be due. It was decided the Auxiliary will pay Sanna's dues making her a lifetime member of the Auxiliary. Cathy Senger was recognized for being the only county volunteer Nurses coordinator in the District. Our Auxiliary was also recognized for furnishing Betty Crocker coupons. The next meeting will be in May when we'll decide on plans for selling poppies and Memorial Day service. Lunch was "potluck."

Spring brings many good things. Roads are good and people drive around more and we have a chance to visit with acquaintances. We saw Darrell Johnson and wife on Monday, and both are looking good. Margo Olson stopped by on one of her spring jaunts. Good to see them all.

Many sad messages have come to Gully lately. On March 29, Chester Gunvoldson passed away at Fergus Falls. Chester lived in Gully with his parents, Carl and Mabel (Telge) Gunvoldson, about 72 years ago and attended Gully Elementary School and Gonvick High School. He was a member of Lund Lutheran Church in Gully and was confirmed here by Rev. Aaker and attended Sunday School at Lund. Chester's parents worked at the Ole Rouland General Store for several years. His brother, Vernon, preceded him in death. He is survived by his three sons, a sister, Marian Smith of Nielsville, and some other relatives. Chester's funeral was held at Bethlehem Lutheran Church at Fergus Falls on April 2, 1998. Chester served in the Medics in the Army for about four years and was discharged in 1945 as a Second Lieutenant, after which he continued his education at the U of Minnesota majoring in Business Education.

On April 6, we learned of the death of Edwin Emerson. Edwin was born south of Gully in Emerson. He attended school in Gully. He worked for Great Northern Railway and served in the Army from December 1944 until October 1, 1945. He lived in his house in Gully for some time before moving to First Care Nursing Home in 1995. Edwin has a brother, Clifford of Casselton, ND and a sister, Doris Mangan of Peoria, IL. He was preceded in death by a brother, Raymond. Funeral Services were at Salem Church on Friday at 11 o'clock.

Weekend and Easter dinner guests at the Kenneth and Alice Forsberg home were Donna and Al Miller, Lisa, Amy and Bret from Buffalo, Bradley Forsberg and Julia from Crystal, Terry Forsberg and his fiance, Jackie Vaard from Park Rapids, and Kimberly and Jeremy Raitmeier and children, Jeremy and Kali from Beltrami. Wanda and Reuben Rydeen visited at Forsbergs Thursday evening.

The Lund Ladies Aid met on Wednesday afternoon for a regular monthly meeting. The hostesses Cheryl Nybo, Dianne Waine, Nancy Lee and Patty Brekke served a delicious meal and also furnished the program. A tape called "The Quilts" was shown. It gave those responsible for making quilts a good feeling when it showed how happy the people in Angola were to get some colorful and warm quilts and especially the smiles on the poor children, many of them without a leg or arm from the landmines. One picture showed five little children sleeping under one quilt.

Arnold and Sanna Brovold and Dorean and Sarah Brovold drove over to Gonvick on Saturday evening and met Carol, Les and Luke Torgerson for the walleye fish fry at the American Legion Cabin. They always have a good meal, but the walleye was especially good this time.

Relatives and friends of Halver and Vivian Rikje stopped at their home on Friday on their way back from Salem Cemetery where they were present as Vivian's brother, Irvin Brenna's remains were laid to rest in his final resting place at Salem south of Gully. John Eisbrenor, deacon of their church at Thief River Falls, spoke at the graveside. Others there were Irvin's wife, Jean, and daughter, Barbara Brenna, Marvin and Joyce Brenna and Walt and Lavina Anderson from Proctor, Shirley Strouble of Twin Valley and many friends and neighbors from Thief River Falls where Irvin and his family were living. They all stopped at the Gully Cafe where Jean Brenna had made arrangements for a meal for them all.

Mrs. Frank DeMarino of Bridgeport, WV, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hanson of Faribault, Jim Moore of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Turenne, Maja and Amber, Bill Emerson, Horicon, WI, and Effie Handy spent Easter at Marci and Corey Hanson's home in Alexandria. They all attended Easter [illegible] at Calvary Lutheran Church.

Idea Suggested For City Auditorium Use

Request for public input in how to best utilize the Thief River Falls city auditorium building when city offices are moved into the remodeled Soo Line depot has attracted the attention of at least one city resident. Rufus Olson stopped by The Times office last week to visit about some of his thoughts regarding utilization of the structure.

Rufus has long been a community-minded and public spirited citizen and his views generally fall on the practical side of an issue. He is a former member of the School District 564 board of education—where we first came to know him more than 30 years ago. He recently observed his 80th birthday anniversary, so he can't be considered short on life's experiences. And he has been doing some serious thinking about that brick building on the corner of Main Avenue and Second Street.

(It should be noted here that Rufus was also an advocate for the retention of Northrop elementary school and property as a location for beneficial community activities. He pushed hard to develop neighborhood and community support but found himself mostly alone in the effort which was all for naught. The property was sold, the school building was razed and an apartment complex was developed in its stead.)

Rufus continues to see a need for serving people and suggests developing the city auditorium into a physical and cultural community center with services for all age groups. He contends that there is not enough for youths and young adults in particular to do to keep them interested and headed in a positive direction with their lives. A facility with a program could help in that aspect.

In his younger days, Olson recalls the old county courthouse and old city auditorium (which was destroyed by fire) and a two-cell jail which was used mostly to provide overnight accommodations for inebriates. A relatively new jail which is filled and has a list of people waiting to serve their sentences, and a county sheriff's office which is making plans for additional detention facilities, indicate to him that there is need to direct interests and energies in a more positive direction.

As an example, he points out that athletic activities on an elementary basis are available to just about everyone who wants to participate. As the youngsters grow older, however, the programs become more selective and the number able to participate decreases substantially. By high school and even middle school years, the majority of youngsters have gone from participants to kids without a program. Sure, back in our day we chose up sides and made our own games, but today's kids haven't been exposed to being that innovative. They have been in organized programs with schedules, uniforms and coaches since diapers and need someone to set things up for them.

Coming up with a comprehensive program and means of providing support to use the auditorium building would require planning, Olson says. He would like to see an effort to enlist open-minded people representing city, county and school district government, social services, church groups, 4-H and other youth groups, law enforcement, senior citizens and more who may wish to be heard. And he acknowledges that it would take some effort to solve the inevitable questions and problems which would present themselves.

He also says the results of the "do nothing" approach are evident, such as the jail needs. He's afraid that the general public, even though invited, will not come forward with ideas to use the auditorium building for fear of facing rejection. People always seem more willing to complain about what happened than to plan and work to make things happen.

Rufus also agrees with the popularized idea out of Africa that it takes a village to raise a child. This would be an opportunity to help not only children but people of all ages, he said. He, and we, are interested in what other people think of the idea.

Camp MOE Retention Good News For Scouts

Decision by the Pine to Prairie Girl Scout Council membership to retain Camp MOE at Thief River Falls and other properties in the council area during the annual meeting at Roseau on Saturday is good news for Girl Scouts in the area. The summer camp has been a highlight for many scouts over the years.

Earlier this year the Girl Scout Council board had voted to dispose of the camp property—a decision which caused the local Camp MOE committee to investigate means to acquire the camp and continue to operate it. With the action taken on Saturday, such an effort will not be necessary.

Acreage for the camp was given to the Thief River Falls Girl Scout Neighborhood some 35 years ago by Mons and Olga Engelstad, whose combined initials provided the name for the camp. It later transferred to council ownership, and several people active in the Girl Scout program at the time of that transfer recall that a provision was made in the contract that the land would return to the Engelstad family if it was no longer utilized by the council for camping purposes. To the best of our knowledge, no one has been able to find written documentation of that provision.

With continuation of ownership and operation by the council that provision is no longer of concern. Girl Scouts from Thief River Falls and other communities in the council will continue to have access to an outdoor camping and citizenship experience. This summer's program will go on as previously planned.

Concerned citizens in Thief River Falls and elsewhere throughout the council are to be commended for taking an interest in the situation and letting their concerns be known. A passive acceptance of the board decision would have meant loss of a program which has been popular and beneficial to young people over the years. It does make a difference to get involved.

WHEELS IN MOTION

Everything in and around the large saw mill resembling a bee hive.

An early start and many a million feet of pine will be cut before freezing up time.

Over four hundred men employed at mill.

"The St. Hilaire Lumber company started their large saw mill sawing last Saturday afternoon, April 16th, but before doing so, Arno Mereen, the foreman, ordered out all parties not employed by the company. All the machinery was put in motion and everything worked to perfection, which was not altogether looked for considering the amount of new improvements put in, and the amount of repairs that have been made throughout the mill for the past three months all of which goes to show that Foreman Mereen and his able corps of assistants stand high in their professional calling. An addition to the mill has been built and a new 'Hog' has been added which will increase the sawing capacity over last year 25 per cent. This machine which prepares the logs for the gang saws will only be run days, the band and circular saws to run both day and night. About 400 men will be employed on both shifts including those working in the planing mill. Tramways have been constructed throughout the yards which will facilitate matters in taking care of slabs, edgings, mill wood, etc. Five million feet of logs are on hand now and it is expected a new supply will be down by the time these have been put through the saws. The men about the mill are rejoicing over the fact that a good long season's cut is before them. Most all the men that held responsible jobs in this mill last year are back again in their old positions which also goes to show that they have been used right and consequently a good company to stay with.

The following is a list of the principal men on the mill crews this season: J. G. Ballard, superintendent; Arno Mereen, foreman; Sam Covert, chief engineer; Ed Bridges, asst. engineer; John Nelson, head mill-wright; Jos. Shellbetter, asst. mill-wright and belt man; Dell McKeen, day band sawyer; C. M. Gillette, night band sawyer; Messrs. Ruks, Hayden and McNaully, setters; Tony Mousseau, gang sawyer; J. B. Senate, on rosser; J. W. Anderson, edgerman; Ira Johnson, edgerman; H. B. Clothier, band saw filer; Henry Richards, gang saw filer; A. L. Layman, machinist; R. H. Aimer, blacksmith; L. N. Nolan, runs the lath-and-shingle mill by the thousand and has an able crew; Wm. Sanders, log scaler, day run; J. W. Coleman, log scaler, night run; W. A. Tyler, scaler on platform; G. R. Sebey, trimmer, day run; L. T. Sebey, trimmer, night run; Wm. Ford, boom foreman."

Wylie Gleanings

"W. Dargan is up from Crookston and intends on staying until the seeding season is over.

"Nick Eckstein is having a well put down by the man who never gives up until water is found. Andrew Leivig is the man who never fails."

Editorial

"The Red Lake Falls Gazette says that none but Populists will be elected to office in this county this fall. That is to say that no matter whom they put up, regardless of how unfit the man may be for the office he aspires, so long as he receives the Populist nomination, he will be elected. If this is true, the county will be made to pay dearly for having so many Populists within its borders. While there are some very competent men who are candidates for the Populist nominations, there are some that are not, and should the latter set receive the nomination and be elected, the affairs of the county would be poorly managed."

Spring has really come to northwest Minnesota with delightful weather, lots of sunshine and an occasional sprinkling of rain. Flowers have come up and even buds on the tulips. Hazel started moonflowers and when I recall their wonderful fragrance I hope more will sprout so she will let me have one or two. All my dahlia tubers were destroyed by the big oil spills in the basement when I was out to Montana last month. I ordered 100 dollars worth from Homestead Gardens in Kalispell, the place the oil soaked ones were from. Maybe in a few years I will build my dahlia bed back again.

PENNINGTON SOIL & WATER CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) is celebrating 50 years of service to the people of Pennington county in 1998. As part of our 50 years celebration, a series of informational articles relating the history of the district will be appearing in The Times. This article is the first in the series.

WHAT DOES THE SWCD DO?

by Maggie Leach

Pennington SWCD is familiar to many people throughout the county, but others have never heard of the SWCD and don't know what sort of work the district does. Some of the most visible projects the district has sponsored in Thief River Falls include the stabilization sites below the power dam, Centennial Park and LaFave park. The new handicapped accessible fishing pier recently constructed below the dam is another project made possible by a grant received by the SWCD.

Much of the work that the district does is not so visible to the general public. For 50 years the SWCD has provided technical assistance to rural landowners for drainage, weed control, crop management and pasture improvement. Many landowners utilize district expertise to plan and plant farm shelterbelts and field windbreaks. The state cost-share program has allowed many landowners to curb wind and water erosion problems in the county. The SWCD also assists the Naturol Resource Conservation Service (NRCS) with the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP).

In recent years the district has developed many programs to cope with new state and federal laws. The SWCD is the administering agency for the state Wetlands Conservation Act and the county Shoreland Ordinance. One popular new program the district administers provides cost-share to rural and urban landowners to seal abandoned wells. Another new program to the SWCD is a free nitrate clinic for people to have their well water tested.

Pennington SWCD also has a strong public education program. The kindergarten children think trees when they think of the SWCD since every student receives a free tree for Arbor Day. The children are encouraged to have their picture taken with the tree when it is planted and again at high school graduation.

Middle school students enjoy participating in the annual district-sponsored poster/essay contest. They also look forward to the Minnesota Science Museum traveling presentation on "Three Rivers."

To high school students the SWCD is synonymous with the Envirothon—a hands-on outdoor environmental competition. At least one Pennington county team has advanced to the state competition all four years it has been held. One team from Lincoln high school advanced to the national Envirothon in 1995.

Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District provides various services to anyone who requests assistance. Many volunteers, such as the rainfall monitors, and other agencies work with the district. The Pennington SWCD board of supervisors and staff wish to thank all of the people of Pennington county and cooperating agencies which have supported the conservation efforts of the district over the past 50 years.

A TOUGH SHRUB FOR FOUR SEASONS.

Bergeson Compact Dogwood
The Bergeson Compact Dogwood, introduced by Melvin Bergeson and available at Bergeson Nursery, is one of the toughest, hardiest shrubs available.
Unlike many dogwood, the Bergeson Compact Dogwood grows densely and seldom needs trimming. Its branches are a brilliant red in the winter. It blooms white in the spring. The leaves are a rich green in the summer, and turn bright cherry-red in the fall.
The Bergeson Compact Dogwood makes an ideal large hedge. It also works well as a foundation planting next to larger houses. It requires little maintenance - in fact, all one needs to do to keep it looking neat is cut the plant to the ground every couple of years and let it come fresh.
For hardiness, showiness, durability, and ease of care, the Bergeson compact Dogwood is hard to beat.
PLANT THEM BARE ROOT: Like a majority of trees and shrubs, the Bergeson Compact Dogwood is easily planted bare root. Bare root trees and shrubs are just as large as potted ones, but have no soil on the roots. Bare root plants are less expensive, easy to transport, easy to plant, and much easier to maintain after planting.

The Time To Plant Is Now!
Bare root trees and shrubs can be planted as soon as you can get the spade in the ground. Bare root trees will not be hurt by a cold spell after planting, as they are dormant and will remain so until they leaf out at the natural time.

Spring SEMINARS:
Seminars are held at the nursery and will start at 10:00 a.m. Saturday mornings. Coffee and donuts served.
•May 2: Chemicals and Fertilizers
Class: Tips on chemicals and fertilizers for home gardeners.
Demonstration: Preparing the soil for spring planting.
•May 9: Annuals and Perennials
Class: What's New for 1998.
Demonstration: Designing and planting your own planters.
Please try to wait to plant garden plants until the danger of frost has passed. The average time of last frost is mid-May. Although the warm weather makes it tempting to get a head start on your garden, one frost can make a mess of things. Trees and shrubs can go in any time.

Volunteers play an important role in our community

Times Reporter

Volunteerism is alive and well in the Thief River Falls area, and while the end of April marks the end of National Volunteer Month, the need for and importance of volunteer services in the community remains as vital as ever.

Volunteer and volunteer organizations enrich the lives of people from all walks of life.

Last week, the Heritage Community Center was one of several organizations that honored its volunteers. The center is run by a volunteer board of directors as is the senior nutrition program housed in the building. Nearly every Heritage Center activity is operated by volunteers, most of them seniors themselves. Meals are served and delivered to other meal sites by volunteers. Heritage Center Director Shannon Olson estimated that volunteers provided more than 10,000 hours of service at the center last year.

The lives of nursing home residents and hospital patients are often made more enjoyable and comfortable through the services of volunteers.

Children are also the recipients of thousands of volunteer hours every year in our community. The volunteer program in our school system has served as a model for other programs throughout the state. The volunteers who participate in the Big Brother/Big Sister program serve as mentors to children from single parent homes. Leadership in the 4-H and scouting programs is provided by volunteers.

Service projects are big parts of the 4-H and the scouting programs, teaching children the value of service and volunteerism. Many of the school organizations also sponsor service oriented projects. Last week's volunteer dinner at Heritage Center was served by members of Lincoln High School's National Honor Society.

Polital parties and candidates rely heavily on the services of volunteers to mail and deliver campaign materials, raise money and more.

Volunteers are also behind the fund-raising efforts of the Thief River Falls Area United Way, the Pennington County chapters of the American Cancer Society, Kidney Foundation, American Heart Association and others.

Numerous agencies also count on the help of volunteers. Examples include the volunteers who act as advocotes for the Violence Intervention Project, the people who carry out the programs of the American Association of Retired Persons and those who serve as volunteers in the hospice programs.

Nearly every event in our community is made possible through the services of volunteers, from the annual Christmas dinner to the county fair. Many of the events that took place last week during the Week of the Young Child were an example of volunteers in action.

One could not begin to include all of the services that volunteers provide to this community nor could one attach a dollar value to the thousands of hours donated each year.

People volunteer for many and varied reasons. Senior citizens have been know to say, "I've led a good life. It's payback time." Others simply derive pleasure and satisfaction from helping others. For many, seeing delight in the eyes of a nursing home resident or hearing a child laugh makes their efforts worthwhile and meaningful.

Sometimes, people with limited incomes, unable to donate money to their favorite causes, make up for it with the invaluable gift of their time and talents.

Time, or lack of it, is often the excuse used by those who don't volunteer. It's a poor excuse as everyone has 24 hours in his or her day, and everyone has an hour or two a month to visit a shut-in or read a book to a classroom of children.

Volunteering is an excellent way to learn and develop new skills as well as meet new people and become more oware of what goes on in the community.

A teenager who enjoys working with younger children may use his experience as a volunteer as the basis for chosing a career. An elderly woman with an unfilled life-long dreom of becoming a nurse can still bring comfort to patients as a hospital or hospice volunteer. The skills gained through volunteerism can give the middle-aged housewife the confidence she needs to pursue an education or career.

Volunteers are the heart of the community and every orgonization and agency within it. Before moving to a new town, prospective residents often look to see what the community has to offer. It is often the services and activities provided by volunteers that make a community an inviting and special place to live ond raise families.

Say "yes" the next time someone asks you to share your time and talents. Seek out ways to help by colling the volunteer coordinator at the hospital, nursing home or one of our schools. You, like so many others, will find the personal rewards to be great while making the Thief River Folls community an even better place to live.

MEMORIAL

The family of "Bubs" Rayton Dargon III would like to thank all the family, friends and neighbors for the flowers, plants, food, memorials, prayers and cards.

Thanks go out to the class of "85" and all the Dargon cousins for their floral tributes.

Special thanks to the Green Funeral Home for their excellent services, kindness and understanding, to Deacon Elsbroner, Father Bob LaPlante, the folks at St. Bernard's who made and served lunch and to Pastor Terri Skildum, whose personal touch is always heartfelt.

Thanks to Dave Klein for all his help and kindness, Jill Klein for the lovely poem, and Larry Kruse for his help, support and generosity.

We would like to express our regrets to anyone who didn't receive a thank you note from us because we were unable to find an address or by oversight. Please know that we appreciate your kindness.

The family would like to express our appreciation to all the people who shared their thoughts and memories of Bubs at the prayer service. It meant a lot to us. It especially left a lasting impression on Bub's son, Dylion. We would like to encourage anyone who might like to share their memories of Bubs with Dylion to write or record them for him. Dylion is just about 9 years old and we're sure they would be of comfort to him in the years to come when he thinks of his Dad.

In his short life Bubs touched the hearts of many people. He just had that way about him. His life was rich with friends who loved and cared deeply for him and him for them. Bubs has "come home" and is in a better place than us now. We will meet again someday where these tears of sorrow will be tears of joy.

PARENTING TIPS

Moving

Moving is a stressful time for everyone including children. You can help to relieve that stress by preparing them for the move. That means talking with them about what is happening from the very beginning. Otherwise they may overhear only parts of your conversation and be all confused about what is happening.

Children need to be told in their terms about what will happen. Things we take for granted they don't know about: for example, "We'll take your clothes, but not your closet; we'll take your bike, but not the sidewalk; we'll take your baby brother, but not your friend Jimmy, we'll take your pet turtle, but not the squirrel at the window and certainly we will take you."

Talk about the new house or town when it comes time to pack. Pack a separate easily-identified box of favorite possessions that your child can unpack as soon as you arrive. Move in your children's furniture and toys as quickly as possible. If you plan to buy new furniture for your child's room, it may be best to wait until after your child has become more adjusted to the new home before discarding the old, familiar furniture.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Before and after your move talk to your child about your feelings. Let them know that you're sad to leave your house and friends, you're going to miss the apple tree outside the window or whatever, you're wondering what your new neighbors will be like, etc.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. I get SSI disability. When will my Medicare start?

A. Receipt of SSI (Supplemental Security Income) does not carry with it any automatic entitlement to Medicare nor does it provide for medical insurance. SSI is a need based program for those over age 65, disabled adults, and disabled children less than age 18. SSI has been administered by the Social Security Administration since its 1973 creation but is a separate program which is paid through general revenues, not by Social Security taxes. A person on SSI will not receive Medicare unless they are otherwise eligible for it because they are also receiving Social Security benefits. It is very likely that a person on SSI would receive Medical Assistance through the county social services, but this is a decision to be made by the county.

Q. How does Social Security check to see if people getting disability are still sick?

A. Social Security disability benefits are payable to adults over the age of 18 who have worked long enough to be insured or can be covered for disability through the work of another person, such as a parent. Disability covers impairments which are either physical or mental but the condition must be one which is expected to last at least one year, or end in the person's death prior to one year and prevent them from engaging in work activity of a substantial nature. Once a disability is established, the person will have a diary set on their record for medical review. These reviews are generally done every one to seven years, depending on the person's specific medical circumstances. In addition to these recurring medical reviews, the return to work of someone on disability can also trigger a review depending on how long they have worked and the amount of their earnings.

Rupert? Are You Out There?

As an adult I become deathly ill when I eat pork. I can't say why this is for sure, but I can say it hasn't always been the case.

As a youngster, living on the farm with my parents, sister and four brothers, we ate a lot of pork, each spring my father bringing home a single runt from a neighbor's litter to be lovingly fattened on corn and vegetable scraps over the course of the summer. Consequently, most of our sausages patties and pork roasts had very familiar names —

"So, " my father asked, sitting down to supper one night and glancing at the pork chop on his plate, "who are we eating tonight?"

"Rupert, I think," my mother answered.

"Rupert!" my father exclaimed. "Nice pig, as I recall! Good temperament."

My mother agreed. "Yes, he always was friendly with the kids."

"Rupert!" said my sister Elaine, turning slightly green.

"Disgusting," cried my older brother Carl, pushing away his plate. "I'll tell you, this eating the family pet is barbaric. When I leave home I'm going to be a vegetarian."

"Well," my father explained, "it's the way of the world: eat or be eaten. But now that you've mentioned it, I'd like some vegetables, too. Lydia, would you pass the potatoes, please."

"Sure, Hon," my mother said.

"How can you be so cold?" Carl asked his dad.

"I like pork," said my thirteen year old brother Steve, stuffing half an uncut pork chop in his face and chewing.

My father looked admiringly at his second son and agreed, "Yes, except for the fact that it'll clog up your arteries and kill you, pork is a good thing. Someday you'll make a fine pig farmer, Steve!"

"I can't eat this pork chop," cried nine-year-old Elaine, deciding to side with Carl. "Maybe I'll be a vegetarian, too."

"Eat!" my mother warned, shaking her fork. "You're setting a bad example for the little kids."

"What do you think, Al?" Carl asked me. "After all, you were closest to the pig."

"Well," I began philosophically —.

"I tell you, I can't eat!" wailed Elaine. "I need something with vegetables!"

"Pass her the salad, Allyson," Dad instructed me.

"Thanks," Elaine said, digging in, grateful to be free. "Mom! Do we have anymore crumbled bacon to put on top of this?"

My father's mouth dropped open in disbelief. "Elaine," he said. "Bacon is — "

"I know," she said, "but I like bacon."

Carl was beside himself. "Elaine!"

"Carl!" my mother said to him. "Sit back and be quiet until everyone's done eating."

I broke into the conversation, "You don't complain when it's one of the chickens we're eating, Carl."

"I like chicken, too!" Steve agreed, forcing a forkful of mashed potatoes into his mouth.

My father nodded, "Chicken's good. Send the little boys over some of those peas."

"Chickens are different," Carl explained. "I never met a live chicken I liked."

"Think of Rupert as a chicken then, dear," my mother suggested.

"I miss Rupert," I answered Carl. "But I'd miss dinner, too, if there were no pork chops to eat."

"You're so callous, Allyson," Carl retorted. "Someday this pig's spirit's going to come back and haunt you!"

"Oh, for God's sake!" my father told Carl. "Be a vegetarian, if you like, but leave your sister alone. Nothing bad's ever going to happen to her because of this pig!"

Hmmm. The fact is, I do get deathly sick.

Jennicca Gallagher, Lincoln High School

Prom season is soon over, and with all the hype focusing on graduation my stomach is in knots. Being a graduate is a very emotional experience. Questions like "Where are you going to go next year," "what are you going to study" and "how are you going to pay for college?" constantly loom in my mind as well as the deadlines for scholarships, college applications, ACT and SAT testing and financial aid forms.

But I have decided that even though I have so much to think about this last month, I am going to enjoy it. If I stress and worry too much, I'll miss this time and never get it back. Hmmm, miss... It's a sad word. I often wonder what I will miss next year as I start college. The first thing that I know I will miss would be my surroundings.

This area has been my home for the past eighteen years and leaving it will be difficult for me. I was raised on a farm, and it has taught me to appreciate nature and its beauty. There is nothing in the world like seeing acres and acres of golden wheat and barley blowing in the wind, or watching the sun come up and set on our flat horizon. Sure, I'll see other fields and sunsets, but nothing will ever compare to home.

Next I'll miss my friends and family. Now I know that I will go to school in the fall and meet a pile of new people, but no one can take the place of the life-long friends I have made here, old and young alike. My teachers, coaches, friends, peers, youth leaders and just those of you who have touched my life in some way, believe me when I say, I am really going to miss you.

Next, to be perfectly honest, I know that I'll really miss my dog, Loopy. For those of you who don't have a close pet, it might sound a little strange, but I feel a special bond with my dog. She is little and white with brown spots and always has time for me. After a long day at school when I drive in my driveway, Loopy sees my car and jumps as high as she can in our yard so I see her. It's her way of telling me that she is glad I'm home. And when I park and get out of my car she can hardly walk because her whole back end is shaking from her wagging tail. I wish they allowed dogs at college, but her place is on the farm with my parents.

And last but certainly not least I'll miss my "family." These people seem to know me better than I know myself sometimes, and as I get older I realize more and more how much I really do need them.

My parents were raised in different parts of the country so we don't have many relatives that live here. So for me, my "family" extends a little farther than just my blood relatives. It's those few close friends (and you know who you are) who I consider my "family", and will miss next year more than anything. I'll miss my parents, whom I love dearly and even though we have had our times we always seem to compromise. And, yeah, I'll even miss my brothers who tend to rub me the wrong way sometimes, but I love 'em just the same. And in all, my family has been there for me when others have failed me, and I guess it is them I will miss the most next year.

So as I graduate and then leave for college, I know that I am anxious and excited to leave but also that this place is my home and I will always miss and love it.

Lincoln science entries place high in Rochester

Lincoln high school entries fared well at the Minnesota Academy of Science State Science Fair conducted April 17-19 in Rochester.

Kristin Muzzy and Kelly Poissant led the 10 Thief River Falls entries in the project area of competition with a purple ribbon. Eight other entries received blue ribbons and one a red ribbon.

In the papers division of the competition, one Lincoln entry received a blue ribbon and one a red ribbon. Only two papers written by Lincoln students had advanced to the state from regional competition. At the state level, participants must present their papers orally.

In addition to their purple ribbon, Kristin Muzzy and Kelly Poissant received a special award for best first year project in the team category. Each student received a $50 savings bond from Seagate.

Katy Olson also won a best in botany award for her project and received a $50 savings bond.

Competing in the state science fair were 385 students in grades seven through 12 from across the state. Projects in ribbon categories were judged on the basis of scientific thought and procedures. In the special awards category, projects were judged by special interest or sponsor groups which presented the awards.

"Lincoln high school students did extremely well," commented Lincoln science fair coordinator Patti Johnson, "especially when one considers it was a first year experience for all of them at the state level. Of the 11 Lincoln students who attended the state science fair, 10 were in grade nine and one in grade 10."

Mrs Johnson added that only 20 projects from across the state of Minnesota advance to the International Science Fair. Of these 20, only four are selected at the state competition and 16 are selected at regional science fairs.

Composition of music was discussed by Stephen Houtz, chair of voice, speech and theater at MacPhail Center for the Arts in Minneapolis as he worked the second week of a divided two-week residency at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls.

Students learn composition techniques from a real pro

Music students in the magnet arts program at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls received exposure to music composition by someone who composes for a living during visits by Stephen Houtz in January and April.

Houtz, who is chair of voice, speech and theater at MacPhail Center for the Arts in Minneapolis, spent a week at Lincoln in January instructing and assisting in the techniques of composition. He recently completed a second week-long visit to check progress made by students during his absence and provide additional help.

Composition is part of the music theory course taught in the Northern Expressions School of the Arts at Lincoln. There are 16 high school students enrolled in the program, including two from outside the Thief River Falls district.

Houtz, who will usually conduct six such residencies a year, called the program in composition at Lincoln "amazing." The quality and interest of the students and the availability of technology is virtually unique for a high school setting in the state, he said.

Instrumental music instructor Bruce Felt explained that Lincoln high school has 10 Musical Instrument Digital Interface (MIDI) computers available for use by the students. "That's more than at most colleges in Minnesota," he said.

Houtz made his Thief River Falls residency appearances through a MacPhail grant of $40,000 to School District 564 which is being used to provide specialized music and drama instruction for a two-year period or more.

"Living room opera" is what Houtz calls his main area of composition—writing pieces commissioned for performance in homes for special occasions. The operas are written for four singers and a piano and vary in length from about 45 to 70 minutes. Two of his operas will be recorded this summer.

When he was at Lincoln in January, Houtz worked with the drama area of the magnet arts school and taught composition using the piano. He said that use of the MIDI computer programs makes his teaching clearer and allows the composers to get more done.

"With the computers you can play back and hear what you have written, but you can also print out the music and rehearse rather than hand writing each note," he said.

Students in the music theory program will have a recital on May 3 at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln band room, featuring the pieces they have written. Included will be some songs played on the computer, some played live by high school musicians and some presented as vocals. The recital will be open to the public.

40 give blood at drive held in Middle River

Fifty people volunteered to donate blood and 40 were able to give during the April 20 blood drive at the Middle River school gymnasium, according to Rhonda Ellefson of United Blood Services.

Ione Tuura coordinated the drive and the Middle River Community Club sponsored and assisted with recruiting donors, publicity, providing refreshments and registering donors. Others who assisted with the drive were Emma Anderson, Mae Geer, Madelyn Skoglund, Christine Veselka, Kim Peterson, Isabelle Hanson and June Young.

"Sponsoring a blood drive is a very important responsibility to ensure a safe and adequate blood supply," Ellefson said. "Donations help meet the blood needs of many patients in 46 area hospitals served by United Blood Services. Our donors truly have given the gift of life."

Gov. Arne Carlson signs anti-fraud clarification bill

Minnesota Governor Arne Carlson has signed legislation which clarifies Minnesota Statute to allow recovery for defrauded Minnesota businesses. The anti-fraud clarification language, passed this week in a special legislative session, becomes effective immediately with the Governor's signature.

"The language in this statute was not clear as to what the state allowed regarding the recovery for fraud," said Gov. Carlson. "This clarification bill makes the law's intent much easier to interpret."

Section 604.10 of Minnesota Statute deals with economic loss arising from the sale of goods. The bill adds a paragraph that states, "This section shall not be interpreted to bar tort causes or action based upon fraud or fraudulent or intentional misrepresentation or limit remedies for those actions."

The need to clarify this statute was brought to the Governor and Legislature's attention by Marvin Windows and Doors of Warroad. The company is currently involved in litigation with a Pennsylvania company over the sale of allegedly defective products. The new language clarifies Marvin Window's ability to recover damages. However, the clarification in law will apply to any Minnesota business in a similar situation.

Rep. Tunheim reflects upon capitol session

Rep. Jim Tunheim is calling the latest legislative session, one of the most productive in terms of tax relief in Minnesota history.

"There are many achievements to talk about now that the 1998 Legislative session has come to a close. Although the Governor vetoed a number of important measures related to economic development, housing and early childhood and family education, other accomplishments were made this year. In fact, in the 1997 and 1998 legislative sessions, we have provided the most tax relief in Minnesota history — $2.7 billion.

"In addition to giving more than half of the state surplus back in tax relief, the 1998 Legislature also did significant work in the areas of education, investment in the state's infrastructure and the environment during this 'supplemental' funding year. The Legislature also approved a bill providing more than $8 million in relief to northwestern Minnesota wheat and small grain farmers. That bill is waiting for the governor's signature.

"Among the Legislature's accomplishments were:

• 1999 Property Tax Rebate: House negotiators succeeded in getting a 'second round' of property tax rebates for homeowners and renters by providing $500 million from the state surplus for a 1998 property tax rebate.

• Reducing School Tax Levies: The Legislature increased the state share of basic educational costs from 65 percent to nearly 70 percent, thereby making a permanent reduction in property taxes for all classes of property owners. This adds to the increase from 60 percent to 65 percent already achieved in 1997.

• Permanent Property Tax Reform: Lawmakers continued the process of property tax rate reductions begun with the property tax initiative of 1997, providing an additional $425 million in property tax cuts for rental housing, farms, homes and businesses.

• Making College Affordable: Legislators increased funding to Minnesota higher education by $73 million with the goal of making college more affordable. Students' share of costs within the financial aid formula was dropped from 50 percent to 47 percent — a move that will boost student financial aid and work study funding also received a boost under the supplemental higher education bill.

• Investment in Education: Lawmakers provided $110 million in additional funds to reduce class sizes, help K-12 students meet graduation standards and improve classroom technology.

• Accountability in Education: A compromise education K-12 bill gave school districts and individual schools additional flexibility in implementing the Profiles of Learning graduation standards, but rewarded those schools that moved ahead with implementation.

• Expanding Child Care: House DFLers passed an expanded child care tax credit for middle-income families and provided new incentives for businesses to offer on-site child care. Unfortunately, this bill was vetoed by the Governor along with other funding for young children in the peak years of their brain development.

"Many of the important bills of the session were passed near the end of the session, including a $1 billion capital investment bill that significantly shores up Minnesota's public infrastructure. Capital investment projects are generally building projects such as roads, bridges, schools, state park buildings, regional treatment centers, correctional facilities and improvements to existing buildings. The Legislature usually considers a significant capital investment bill in even-numbered years and the state's two-year budget in odd years.

"The funding mechanism by which this year's Capital investment bill is financed is also notable. The $1 billion bill is funded by $500 million from the state's general fund, $26 million in user-fee financed bonds (higher education), and about $483 million in general obligation bonds that may be replaced with cash as the November 1998 budget forecast allows.

"All in all, this has been a very productive session at the Legislature. We provided tax relief yet were able to make significant investments in our kids and our future.

"Anyone with questions about the session can contact me at home at 218-671-4480 or at the Capitol at 612-296-9635."

Afternoon with the Arts is a showcase for talent

be a full production of The Jungle Book at 3 p.m in the school auditorium. Designed and directed by Connie Stock, the production is based on the Mowgli stories by Rudyard Kipling but also includes musical performances of Bare Necessities, I Wanna Be Like You, Colonel Hathi's March, Trust in Me and My Own Home.

Although the actors and actresses will be in full animal costume and make-up, the intent of the production design is to give a cultural impression of India. The India stories are framed by a look at the English school life of young Rudyard Kipling, played by Dan Carpenter, as he creates his jungle book characters through encounters with his schoolmates Rob Russillo and Wendy Tomsich, the headmaster, Nicolas Collard, the chaplain, nate Keller, and his teacher, Adam Quesnell.

The story then transfers to India where the jungle comes alive. We first meet Akela, the father wolf, played by Nathan Dieken, the mother wolf, played by Gretchen Hanson; and the cubs, portrayed by Wendy Tomsich and Bridgette Stock. The young Mowgli, played by a newcomer to the Lincoln stage—seven-year-old Sam Mattison—is then found in the jungle.

The discovery of a man cub is complicated by the unfriendly appearance of the tiger king, Shere Khan, played by Yvonne Asp, and her not-so-faithful sidekick, the jackal Tabaqui, played by Josh Hendrickson. Members of the wolf pack include Wade Chiodo, Kyle Waterworth, Mike Johnson and Kelli Muzzy.

Finally, Mowgli is adopted and protected by the two endearing characters of Bagheera, the panther, played by Meghan Reed, and Baloo, the bear, played by Kyle Rokke.

Time passes and the audience is introduced to other characters in the jungle. Kaa, the snake (Marisa Holmstrom), Colonel Hathi, the elephant (Adam Quesnell) and his elephant brigade (Rachel Harger, Emily Mugaas, Cortney Haugen, Mandi Bitzegaio, Jessica Krankkala, Beth Olson and Leslie Swanson); and Rann, the kite bird, played by Ryan Viktora.

Of course, the jungle would not be complete without a group of obnoxious, chattering monkeys including Ben Owen, Rob Russillo, Josh Mathson, Shannan Lofberg, Nicolas Collard, Alice DuRose, Lisa McKercher, Marsha Lubitz, Kelly Poissant, Teresa Friend, Amy Rominski, Heidi Young, Taryn Pream and the king of the monkeys, King Louie, played by Nate Keller.

Even though Mowgli is saved from the monkeys, even Bagheera and Baloo cannot save him from love when he encounters his mother, Gretchen Hanson, and the young Dari, Bridgette Stock, on his journey to get man's red flower and save Akela from overthrow by Shere Khan.

Pianist for the production is Paul Dehnert. Other musicians include Cody Hempel, Brad Dekkers and Colin Browning. Soloists are Kyle Rokke, Matt Bitzegaio, Nate Keller, Marisa Holmstrom and Bridgette Stock.

Lighting technician is Scott Bornholdt, assisted by Belle Lenius, who with Cody Hempel also choreographed pieces in the production. The Jungle Book promises to provide entertainment to storylovers of all ages.

Scout Exposition draws good crowd on Sunday in TRF

Good weather and good participation from Cub Scout packs and Boy Scout troops from around the area resulted in a good turnout for the annual Boy Scout Exposition conducted Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls.

Fifteen out of 16 packs and troops taking part in the exposition received Award of Merit and Honor ribbons for their displays and activities.

In addition to the packs and troops setting up displays to show scout activities and interest areas, several other exhibitors received participation ribbons. They included the District Scout booth, council fund-raising booth, Order of the Arrow concession stand and National Jamboree promotion booth, and the always popular Thief River Falls Archery Club booth.

Received ribbons of Award of Merit and Honor were Pack 44, Crookston; Pack 50, Warren, Packs 57, 59 and 199, Thief River Falls; Pack 58, Newfolden; Pack 89, Win-E-Mac; and Pack 160, Plummer;

Exposition chairman Art Heinze of Thief River Falls thanked the area scout groups for taking part in the exposition and demonstrating some of the many scout projects and activities; the Kiwanis club for its assistance with set-up and clean-up; and the public for attending and being involved in the activities.

The exposition was canceled a year ago due to the flooding in a number of communities which would have reduced participation and which resulted in a number of scouts and their families assisting in sandbag filling and other flood relief efforts.

Putting was easy to find at the annual Scout Exposition in Thief River Falls Sunday afternoon as two troops used miniature golf as their project activity.

Fingerprinting was one of the activities presented by scout packs and troops participating Sunday in the annual Boy Scout Exposition at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls.

Local American Cancer Society holds Crusade

Thief River Falls' chapter of the American Cancer Society will conduct its Community Crusade fund-raiser from April 27 to May 10. During that period residents of Thief River Falls will receive phone calls from volunteers requesting donations and visits from their neighbors going door to door.

The Community Crusade is one of the American Cancer Society's largest statewide volunteer effort. It is also one of the best methods of raising funds, and educating the public on the organization, who they are, and what they do. In addition, they will be providing educational material on how everyone can better protect themselves against cancer.

The theme for this year's educational effort during this campaign is "Doing Our Part So Kids Don't Start". The message, which includes a call to action, describes five easy steps that anyone can do to make a difference. The first easy step asks residents to thank clerks and merchants who refuse to sell or make accessible, their tobacco products to youth. The second easy step asks merchants to remove or reduce tobacco advertising and promotional materials such as merchandise catalogs, shopping baskets with tobacco ads and cartoon characters promoting cigarettes. The third easy step asks residents to thank restaurants and other locations for their no smoking policies. The fourth easy step involves asking health care providers (physicians, nurses, dentists, dental hygienists) to talk with teens about prevention and quit smoking messages. Youth, while often difficult to reach with prevention messages, do rate physicians as highly credible sources of information. Finally, all Minnesotans are asked to serve as role models and mentors and encourage and support friends and family members trying to quit.

Kids who smoke become adults who smoke. Nearly 90 percent of adult smokers today began smoking before the age of 18. If kids are allowed to smoke today, there will be a price to pay tomorrow. Kids will pay with their health and their lives, and the community will pay with its dollars. In 1995, the total estimated economic cost attributable to smoking in Minnesota was $1.3 billion.

The American Cancer Society has a local chapter in Thief River Falls. Even though there are many cancer organizations, there is only one American Cancer Society. Follow the sword, which appears on all its materials, in the battle against cancer.

Pioneers split with Ironmen

Northland bounced back from a 9-3 first game loss to beat Vermilion 8-6 in the second game for a Minnesota Community College Conference baseball doubleheader split Sunday afternoon in Thief River Falls.

Vermilion bunched 10 of its 15 Game 1 hits into the third and fourth innings, producing three runs in the third and pushing four more across the plate in the fourth when Nate Anderson hit a two-run home run.

"We didn't play very well in the first game," said Northland coach Chris Mills. "Arthur Hamilton didn't pitch that bad, but we didn't do a whole lot to help him."

Hamilton came back with a 2-for-2 effort at the plate in Game 2 when Nic Thompson and Chane Keefe came through with key pitching performances.

Kevin Grobowska was the scheduled second-game starter for the Pioneers, but he was injured in a collision with a fence post while playing center field in the opener.

Thompson pitched 4 1/3 innings for the win and Keefe worked 2 2/3 innings for the save. Neither had seen much duty on the mound recently.

"We came back and played pretty well in the second game," noted Mills. "Nic Thompson stepped in and pitched a great game. He worked himself out of trouble a couple of times, then Chane came in and finished up."

The split put the Pioneers at 8-10 for the year and 4-4 in the MCCC Northern Division heading into a scheduled division-counting doubleheader today (Wednesday) against Itasca in Thief River Falls – Northland's only outing of the week.

Northland softball team third

■ Pioneers go 4-1 at Itasca Invitational

Northland Community and Technical College softball team went 4-1 Saturday and finished third in the Itasca Invitational played at Grand Rapids.

The Pioneers beat Mesabi Range 9-2, the Itasca Alumni 2-1 and Riverland 16-4 before finishing the pool play portion of the tournament with a 15-14 extra-inning loss to Itasca.

That matched Northland against Vermilion – the second place team in the other pool – in the third place game, with the Pioneers winning 11-1.

It was the first road trip of the year for the 11-4 Pioneers, who opened the season by going 7-3 in a series of five doubleheaders played in Thief River Falls.

In the lone Northland loss of the day, Itasca erased a 10-7 deficit when a two-out, bases-loaded fifth inning error on an infield ground ball led to six unearned runs.

"We had a good day," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "Outside of that one inning against Itasca, we had a great tournament."

Northland has a shot at an NJCAA Region 13 playoff berth that will be determined following doubleheaders Friday against Mesabi Range in Virginia and Saturday vs. Vermilion in Ely.

TRF boys golf at Fergus Falls...

Adam Nordin medalist in Prowlers' first meet

Adam Nordin of Thief River Falls was meet medalist with a 75 Thursday as the Prowlers opened their 1998 boys high school golf schedule at the Fergus Falls Invitational.

Nordin, a senior, turned in a first-round 40 and followed that with a eye-catching second-round 35 for a one-stroke victory over runner-up Jake Sand of Bemidji.

Moorhead won team honors with a 316 – six shots ahead of second place Wahpeton. The Dick Tyler-coach Prowlers were sixth in the 22-team field with a four-man 331.

"It should be a successful season – if we can do a good job of course management," offered Tyler, referring to the ability of the golfers to read the holes and weather conditions in order to make good decisions on how and where to hit their shots.

Headed by Nordin, there is a solid group of seniors to lead the 1998 Prowlers, pointed out Tyler. "We're looking for outstanding leadership from Adam," he said. Other seniors who are capable of doing well if they follow the advice on course management, noted Tyler, are Jon Lee, Eric Barber and Craig Lawrence.

Among the younger golfers on the team, freshman John Sjoberg and sophomore Casey Enge lead the way.

Track teams score points at Crookston

Absences due to Senior Banquet took some points away from the Thief River Falls boys and girls high school track teams Monday, but the Prowlers still scored well in the Crookston VFW Invitational at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

"We didn't have our seniors, but we had some people step forward and score some points for us," noted Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson.

Thief River Falls girls finished third in a field of 17. Points have been harder to come by this spring for the Thief River Falls boys, but they did finish tenth after failing to pick up a point at the Beaver Relays in Bemidji Friday.

"The boys were missing our senior sprinters, so that took a few points away," mentioned Olson, "but the distance kids did a nice job."

There were a number of highlights for the Thief River Falls girls, including first place school record efforts by Nicole Kopari in the shot put and Chelsea Haviland in the pole vault.

For Kopari, who hit 41-11 3/4 in the shot put to shatter her previous school mark of 41-4, it was her sixth school record in either the shot or discus in six outings this season.

"She (Kopari) keeps improving week after week," pointed out Olson. "You just keep shaking your head every time she sets a record. It's unbelievable."

The pole vault is a new event for the girls this sprint, so each time Haviland turns in a personal-best, it's a school record for the Prowlers.

Kopari also won the discus, where teammate Taya Hunt broke the 100-foot mark for the first time, and Haviland added a win in the 1600-meter run.

Rachel Mathson was another double-winner for the Prowlers in the 200 and 400, where she became the first Thief River Falls girl since Toni Chiodo in 1994 to break the one-minute mark.

Crookston girls won team honors with 157 2/3 points, followed by Park Rapids Area with 90, Thief River Falls 69, Roseau 63, Red Lake County Central 42, Fertile-Beltrami 24, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 23, Fisher 21, Marshall County Central 21, Dilworth-Glyndon-Felton 20, East Grand Forks 9, Warroad 4, and Lake of the Woods 3. Kittson Central and Norman County were both scoreless.

Dilworth-Glyndon-Felton boys won with 92 points, followed by Warroad with 80, Park Rapids Area 78, Crookston 64, Stephen 64, East Grand Forks 39, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 34, Lake of the Woods 31, Roseau 30, Thief River Falls 14, Fertile-Beltrami 8, Kittson Central 8, Win-E-Mac 6, Marshall County Central 4, and Norman County 2.

Nuisance Goose Problems

Melting snow and soaring temperatures herald the return of one of Minnesota's more regal snowbirds: the resident population of Canada geese. Once thought to be extinct, the "giant" subspecies as these are known to scientists, are now the most numerous subspecies on the continent. In Minnesota, the breeding flock has grown more than tenfold in two decades to more than 200,000 breeders. It's one of Minnesota's major wildlife management success stories.

But with this success has come some problems, especially in urban areas and farm country. Canada geese are prolific grazers, preferring succulent plants like soybean seedlings or short lawn grass. This invariably means they end up in areas frequented by humans. Further, because they are a highly social bird, they tend to congregate in large groups. Their huge appetite and resultant large output of droppings (two pounds per goose per day) make them unwanted guests to some farmers and urban residents.

"They really are a magnificent bird," said Tom Landwehr, Wetland Wildlife Program leader with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. "But too much of a good thing can pose problems."

Minnesota and many other states are wrestling with how to deal with high goose populations, especially in urban areas where hunting isn't allowed. "Geese are productive and long-lived in Minnesota because they have no real predators other than humans," said Landwehr. "Hunting is one of the few ways to reducing their population growth. Without it, we'd be overwhelmed with geese in a few years."

To keep the overall population at a reasonable level, the DNR and federal officials manage the goose population with carefully-regulated hunting. In the Twin Cities metro region, much of which is closed to hunting, communities also reduce local goose concentrations by contracting with the University of Minnesota Extension Service to remove the geese in the summer.

Despite these effort, many lakeshore property owners and farmers get hassled by geese. To help these Minnesotans, the DNR offers two brochures – one for farmers, another for urban residents – containing tips for what will and what won't work to keep geese off property. Geese Unlimited, a Minnesota conservation group, helped underwrite the cost of the brochures.

Among the tips offered:

■ Swan decoys and noisemakers usually don't work.

■ Fencing an area to prevent geese from entering is the most effective deterrent.

■ Reflective mylar tape strung around a yard can work well.

■ Geese are more afraid of dogs than people, so a dog in the yard will keep geese out.

■ Landscaping that features bushes and long grass is less attractive to geese than lawns.

"One of the main problems with goose deterrents, whether it's the use of dogs or fencing, is that it just chases the problem to someone else's property," Landwehr said. "We will always have to use some sort of population control, whether it's hunting or direct removal, just because geese keep reproducing."

To get a copy of either brochure, contact the DNR at 1-888-MINNDNR.

Posthumous Honors

Gary Westby, a 21-year veteran of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources who was killed in an automobile accident last October, has been posthumously honored as the DNR Conservation Officer of the Year for 1997.

The award was presented to Westby's Widow, Cynthia, by DNR Division of Enforcement Director Leo Haseman during a banquet in St. Paul.

Westby, 51, died when the van he was driving and a Paynesville police car involved in a high-speed chase collided at an intersection near the Stearns and Kandiyohi county line. The accident occurred Oct. 15, 1997 as Gary and Cynthia Westby and a passenger were on their way to St. Cloud to watch one of the Westby's sons play football.

Westby was widely known and respected not only for his professional accomplishments, but also for his personal commitment to family, church and community. "We are proud of Gary as a conservation officer just as his family was proud of him as a husband and father, and his community valued him as a tireless volunteer and activist," Haseman stated. "Gary was an uncommon man who is missed by many."

Professionally, Westby was instrumental in the drive to establish the Prairie Woods Environmental Learning Center near Spicer. He also helped lead the "adopt-a-warden" project that supports rangers in Indonesia in their efforts to protect the rare Java rhinoceros from poachers. Westby made two trips to Indonesia to help equip and train rangers there. He was also heavily involved in activities on behalf of the DNR and other conservation-related programs and for his experience and expertise.

"Young people were always a high priority with Gary," said Mike O'Brien, a close friend of Westby's and a fellow DNR conservation officer. "He was very concerned about the future of kids and that was reflected in the many youth activities he was involved in. But nothing was as important to Gary as his family." The Westby's had four sons – Brian, Ben, Adam and Stephen – and one daughter, Andrea.

Capt. Randy Evans, Westby's regional supervisor at New Ulm, said Westby's "dedication and commitment to his community through the numerous projects he was involved in served as an example for all conservation officers. Gary just seemed to have a gift in the way he was able to interact with others, especially in difficult and controversial situations. He always listened and tried to be constructive rather than critical or defensive. He was just one of those people who you couldn't help but like and respect."

Westby lived in Renville and Willmar as a child and then moved to Minneapolis with his family, eventually graduating from Roosevelt High School in 1963. In 1967, he graduated from St. Cloud State College with a bachelor's degree in psychology. From 1967 to 1971 he served with the United States Marine Corps and then returned to college at the University of Minnesota. He began work for the DNR as a conservation officer at Fort Snelling in 1976 and married Cynthia in 1978. Westby was stationed for two years at International Falls and then moved to the Owatonna station in 1980 and to Spicer in 1988.

Sons of Norway, Snorre Lodge 70, observed its 90th anniversary Wednesday, April 15, at the Eagles hall in Thief River Falls. Joining in the observance (from left) were Tim Johnson, Mentor, District 1 financial consultant; Thief River Falls Mayor Mark Borsheim; Robert Hoover, Detroit Lakes, District 1 counselor and guest speaker for the evening; Charles Josephson, president of Snorre Lodge 70; and Don Schiel, Deputy District 1 Director.

Sons of Norway lodge notes 90th anniversary

Snorre Lodge 70 of the Sons of Norway in Thief River Falls observed its 90th anniversary at its meeting Wednesday, April 15, at the Eagles hall.

President Charles Josephson served as master of ceremonies and gave the welcome. Music was provided by Vernon Iverson, Orlin Hanson and Dick Miller of Goodridge and guest speaker was Robert Hoover, Detroit Lakes, District 1 counselor.

Snorre Lodge 70 was organized shortly after the turn of the century and received its charter April 10, 1903, with 36 names listed as charter members. The first meetings were held in the homes of members. In 1921 the lodge purchased Lots 1-4 in Meehan's Addition and built its own lodge hall.

Meetings were conducted in the Norwegian language until 1942. In 1946 the lodge hall was sold to the Eagles Lodge, and the Sons of Norway continues to meet there under rental arrangements with the Eagles.

Vaarblomsten Lodge of the Daughters of Norway was a companion organization for many years, but disbanded in 1978 and 16 women transferred their membership to the Sons of Norway.

Through the years the organizations conducted one social and one business meeting per month. In the past several years, however, due to declining membership, a combined business and social meeting has been held on the third Wednesday of each month.

Highlights of the lodge year are the annual smorgasbord in October and serving Norwegian foods at Northern State Bank on Syttende Mai (May 17), Norwegian Independence Day. A lodge bus trip is also arranged each summer.

Present membership includes 60 paid members, 20 Life Members and 30 juvenile members. Life membership is granted when a person has been a member for 30 years and reaches the age of 65.

Officers of Snorre Lodge 70 for 1998 include: Charles Josephson, president; Edna McEnelly, vice president; Dorothy Chapman, counselor, Vivian Brekke, secretary; Ethel Josephson, financial secretary; Leonard Brekke, treasurer; Betty Swan, marshall; and Mildred Wick, historian;

Also Rosemary Wegner, inner guard; Vernon Swan, outer guard; Ethel Sanders, musician; Kermit Finstad, Loretta Stowe and Jean Nelson, trustees; Ardelle Ostgarden, social director; Edna McEnelly and Dorothy Chapman, Sunshine committee.

Living past presidents include Dorothy Chapman, Marvin Gustafson, Edna McEnelly, Gladys Odegaard, Oscar Odegaard, Charles Syverson, Mildred Wick, Robert Stroble and Albert Sjolvold.

Disturbances reported to local law enforcement

Law enforcement officials responded to a number of incidents in the past week including several disturbances.

Accidents. On April 21 at 6:21 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report of an accident near the intersection of Highway 59 and County road 62. Rory Howard Hoven, Thief River Falls, was driving north when he lost control of the vehicle he was driving and it went into the east ditch where it rolled. He received a cut to the back of his head. The vehicle was considered a total loss. Hoven was taken to Northwest Medical Center.

On April 21 at 8:01 a.m. police received a report of an accident at Eighth and Dewey. Ed Jesme, Middle River, was driving a semi and waiting, facing south to turn onto Eighth Street when Tami Lynn Hemmesch, Thief River Falls, traveling south, pulled along the side of the semi and was about to turn in the same direction onto Eighth Street. When the semi began to turn, Hemmesch tried to back up, but a tire on the trailer caught the left front of the Hemmesch vehicle. Police estimated damage to the Hemmesch vehicle at over $1,000.

On April 22 at 11:31 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report of an accident in the Golf Course parking lot. Bruce Keith Saustad, Thief River Falls, had parked a car in the lot and when he returned, discovered damage to the driver's side. Police estimated damage at $800. The next day, Timothy Scott Erickson, Thief River Falls, reported that as he was backing out of a parking spot his vehicle collided with the Saustad vehicle. Damage to Erickson's Suburban was estimated by police at $400. Erickson was cited for leaving the scene of an accident.

Harassment. On April 22 police received a complaint of a disturbance at an apartment complex. Robert Lavern Sandsmark, 77, Thief River Falls, was cited for violating a harassment order.

Disturbance. On April 22 at 7:32 p.m. the sheriff's department was dispatched to a trailer court in the county regarding a loud noise complaint and a possible fight. While the deputy was entering the area he observed a vehicle approaching him and knew that the driver was not old enough to drive a vehicle. He turned around and the driver of the vehicle stopped the car at a residence, got out of the vehicle and ran away. The owner of the vehicle, Michael Moreno, 23, was a passenger in the vehicle. He was taken into custody on a warrant for burglary out of Clay County. He was also cited for open bottle, and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The 15-year-old male driver of the vehicle faces charges of no Minnesota driver's license, and obstruction - fleeing on foot.

Consumption. On April 22 at 8:03 p.m. Nathan Wayne Ptacek, 19, Thief River Falls, was cited for consumption by a minor.

Driving while intoxicated. On April 22 at 8:03 p.m. police received two different calls regarding a pickup tearing around near the area of Abundant Life Church. An officer responded and found the vehicle. The driver, Wayne Michael Rahn, 19, was charged with driving while intoxicated, and criminal damage to property.

On April 27 at 9:48 p.m. Delores Elarne Thompson, 75, Thief River Falls, was charged with gross misdemeanor driving while intoxicated.

Thefts. On April 23 18-year-old Charles Anthony Klotter, Thief River Falls, was cited for gross misdemeanor sale of stolen property. The charge stems from the sale of a television and VCR taken from St. Bernard's in September of 1997. The theft loss was estimated at $500.

Assault. On April 24 at 9:55 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a possible domestic assault at a residence in St. Hilaire. Charges of assault are pending against Jeffrey Dean Asp, 34, St. Hilaire.

On April 25 at 9:25 p.m. police received a report of an assault. Charges of assault are pending in juvenile proceedings against a 13-year-old male for allegedly assaulting another male juvenile.

On April 25 at 9:31 p.m. the police department received a call from the Emergency Room at the hospital where a 12-year-old girl was being treated for numerous cuts and bruises. Charges of assault are pending in juvenile proceedings against a 14-year-old female.

Fire. On April 26 at 2:19 a.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a fire at an abandoned residence in section 1 of River Falls township. Fire completely destroyed the house, which is located east of St. Hilaire. The fire remains under investigation.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Policing program nets results, and two arrests

Thief River Falls Community Policing Program has been in place for about two years. Police Chief Ken Froschheiser reported Tuesday that two arrests made recently regarding vandalism on Abundant Life Church property were the result of neighbors utilizing the reporting system set up through the Community Policing Program.

Chief Froschheiser explained that eleven neighbors reported the vehicle "tearing around on church property" to the block captain and provided a license number. That information was relayed to police who were able to make an arrest. As a result, two individuals face a variety of charges including consumption under age, driving while intoxicated, and criminal damage to property.

This is not the first time the Community Policing Program has been successful. Chief Froschheiser noted that it is one of the first times the reporting system established by the program has been effectively utilized.

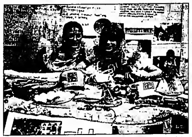
Chief Froschheiser said there are eight or nine organized blocks within the City of Thief River Falls. He said two are in the process of being organized. The residents participating in the block watch which reported the incident at Abundant Life Church are very active and have had a number of meetings.

Literary arts students under the instruction of Loleli Dyrud will participate in an Afternoon with the Arts Sunday, May 3, from 1 to 5 p.m. at the school. They will display some of their writing in the hallway and Jennicce Gellegher, Jenne Tsukichi, Bath Olson, Jessica Krenkkela, Den Corpenter, Teresa Friond and Eavo Young will read some of their writing beginning shortly after 1 p.m. in the Lincoln auditorium.

Gerber Baby Food information called incorrect

According to the Thief River Falls Police department, information being distributed in the community about a Gerber Baby Food class action lawsuit and refund is incorrect.

Investigator Tim Miller said he had checked into information about the rumors of a $500 savings bond for individuals joining a class action lawsuit. The information was incorrect. Miller said the refund was for only $30 and the offer expired 18 months ago. He explained that the class action lawsuit involved a claim that Gerber Baby Food used preservatives in its foods between the years of 1985 and 1997. Miller said the post office had agreed to return requests from local citizens.



The Philippine Islands were the geographic area selected by these students to be emphasized during the Festival of Nations Thursday, April 23, at Franklin middle school.

Warning letters sent to residents about junk vehicles

Sixty-seven letters regarding the removal of junk vehicles were sent to residents in Thief River Falls last week. Owners of these vehicle have about 15 days or until May 4 to remove the vehicles.

Junk vehicles are described as vehicles with expired license tabs, no registration, not in running order (missing major component parts), and not in a garage or building. Covering a vehicle with a tarp or portable cover is not okay.

More letters are expected to be sent in the coming weeks. The 67 letters sent this week represent about one-third of the town.

February's Unemployment rate lowest in MN history

Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 2.5 percent in February, the lowest rate on record. February's rate is down from 2.7 percent in January and 3.4 percent a year ago.

The statewide rate stands in contrast to a Region 1 unadjusted average of 6.3 percent. Region 1 includes the counties of Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau. Although the regional rate is significantly higher that the statewide average, it is lower than last month's average rate of 7.2 percent and the average of one year ago, which was 8 percent.

Marshall county posted the highest unemployment rate at 12.5 percent among counties in the region. It was followed closely by Red Lake county at 10.8 percent. Both counties recorded declines in their unemployment rates from last month and even more the year before. The lowest unemployment rate for the month of February was posted in Polk county at 4.5 percent. By county then, Kittson posted an unemployment rate of 5.9 percent, down from 6.9 percent in January; Marshall 12.5 percent, down from 13.5 percent; Norman 6.1 percent down from 7.0 percent, Pennington 7.0 percent, down from 7.1 percent; Polk at 4.5 percent down from 5.1 percent, Red Lake 10.8 percent down from 13.3 percent; and Roseau 5.1 percent down from 6.7 percent.

The state's unadjusted rate was 3.0 percent in February, the lowest unadjusted rate for the month of February. The 0.6 percentage point decrease from January's 3.5 percent rate is the largest January-to-February decrease since 1984. And, this February's unemployment rate is a full percentage point below last year's 4.0 percent rate. Unseasonably mild weather, which allowed more construction work than usual, contributed to continued high employment.

All regions of the state experienced decreases in their average unemployment rates in February. The highest rate, 7.2 percent, was in the area around Brainerd and Little Falls (Region 5), down from 8.3 percent in January. The lowest rate, 1.9 percent, was for the seven-county Twin Cities area (Region 11), down from 2.2 percent in January.

Individual counties also decreased in unemployment rates over the month. Clearwater had the highest unemployment rate at 15.9 percent. This is down from a year ago when the rate was 17.4 percent. The lowest county, again was a tie between Dakota and Hennepin, where the unemployment rate was 1.8 percent. This also is down from a year ago when the rates were 2.1 percent.

DHS study shows link between drug abuse and home life

A recent study published by the Minnesota Department of Human Services (DHS) shows a strong link between multiple-drug abuse by adolescents and a home life that involves parents who engage in physical and sexual abuse and drug abuse. The study shows the most serious adolescent drug abusers also have extremely high rates of truancy, vandalism, sexual activity, psychological problems and suicide attempts.

The report, "Substance Use in Adolescence: Patterns and Profiles," by Patricia Harrison, Ph.D., was based on 1995 Minnesota Student Survey responses by 50,403 students ages 11 and 12; 45,057 students ages 14 and 15, and 29,164 students ages 17 and 18.

"The study shows it's critical to reduce these risk factors which affect serious substance abuse among adolescents," said Harrison. "While all young people may be at risk of using drugs, those with serious psychological stress at home are at much greater risk. Education about the dangers of drugs isn't enough to deter troubled kids from using. We need to provide intervention services that help them keep drugs out of already difficult lives."

Some 28 percent of young adolescents, 52 percent of middle adolescents and 70 percent of older adolescents reported using alcohol or other drugs at least once in the 12 months before the survey. Alcohol was the most commonly used substance, followed by marijuana, stimulants, other people's prescription drugs, inhalants and LSD. Adolescents rarely use cocaine or heroin.

Most young and middle adolescents didn't use drugs, but older adolescents were more likely to use. Only three percent of young adolescents used frequently, compared to 21 percent of middle adolescents and 40 percent of older adolescents. Only one percent of young adolescents, seven percent of middle adolescents and 12 percent of older adolescents used two or more substances, but Harrison said, "While only a small proportion of students are severe drug users, they're the ones likely to place huge demands on schools, social services or the juvenile justice system, if they receive no help curtailing their substance use."

Teens who are multiple drug users showed the highest rate of risk factors at home and risky behavior of their own. Young male multiple-drug users were 25 times more likely than non-users to have been sexually abused (50 vs. two percent), young female multiple-drug users were 13 times more likely than non-users to have been sexually abused (65 vs. five percent). Teens who used multiple drugs were eight times more likely than non-users to have been physically abused and have parents who used drugs.

Sexual activity, especially for mid-teens, was highly associated with multiple-drug use. Almost 90 percent had had sexual intercourse, compared to 10 percent of non-users. Among multiple-drug users, suicide attempts were 20 times more likely for young teens, eight times more likely for mid-teens, and five times more likely for older teens. the more severe the drug use, the more likely users were to drive under the influence. While 25 percent of infrequent users drove after using, the rate more than doubled to 60 percent for one-drug users, and 80 percent for multiple-drug users.

Teens with higher levels of substance use felt more alienated from their families and had a more negative attitude toward school. Truancy, vandalism, physical fights, shoplifting, and association with gangs were much higher. Multiple-drug users reported much lower self-esteem and much higher psychological distress. Most teens said they used drugs to get high and have fun at parties, escape problems and deal with anger and loneliness.

Harrison said she believes the report is significant in pointing out the need for services to help teens cope with problems at home without turning to drug abuse.

Brothers Benji (left) and Denny Sayler earned a superior rating for their violin duet at MSHSL orchestra competition April 7 in Fergus Falls. They are members of the Lincoln orchestra directed by Derek Druse.

Grandpa and Grandma Thompson drove into Thief River Falls Wednesday afternoon, April 8 to pick up Amber Wilson who came to spend her Easter vacation helping Grandma. We always have a good time together. Harvey Skyberg was invited over for supper that evening and also on Thursday and Friday evenings. On Friday, Sam and Lisa Spearhawk, Jeremy, Jayme and Mackenzie came over and had supper with us. Amber made the supper that evening for Grandma and it got real good. Overnight guests Friday evening were Sam and Lisa and their children. On Saturday, Grandpa, Curt, Sam and Harvey went to work at the Bible Camp. Lisa took the two boys home. Harvey was a supper guest also Saturday evening. Lisa made the supper that evening so Grandma got out of that a few times. Mackenzie decided she wanted to stay overnight with Grandpa and Grandma and on Sunday we went to Worship Service and then all of the above mentioned except Harvey were Easter dinner guests at the Roger Mathsan home. We enjoyed a very delicious dinner and we also celebrated Jeremy's 17th birthday. Grandma baked his favorite chocolate cake and homemade chocolate frosting. Lisa and Mackenzie had baked two Easter bunny cakes here on Saturday so we took one home and one to the Mathson on Sunday. We took pictures and Jeremy opened his nice cards and gifts. In the afternoon we played pickenardy. There was ten of us. Grandpa and Grandma played also even though they didn't really know the game. But it was fun. The Thompson families always have a great time when we get together. After the game we had birthday cake, and Easter cake and cookies and ice cream and the children's favorite bars that Aunt Robbin makes so very good. When Grandpa and Grandma go home we ended our wonderful Easter day with a video "Holy Ground" with many of the old Easter songs on. We went to bed with the beautiful message of Easter still in our hearts.

Lillia Olson visited with Bud and Ruby Moan in Thief River Falls on Tuesday.

Thursday afternoon Carl and Helen Arvoson of Kennedy were coffee guests at Isaac Thompson's. In the evening Pearl Thompson and Donny and Merlys Lofreeth visited there.

We have been wondering what bird will take up residence in the new birdhouses. A big robin took a look at that small hole and must have decided that it would be difficult to get his fat mama through such a small door and maybe those fat young ones would never be able to get away from home. He stood on the roof and is trying to get Mrs. Robin to come and start building their nest on top. We had hoped for smaller birds.

Weather in northwest Minnesota can be compared in all ways with any state in the USA including Hawaii. The temperature barged right up to over sixty degrees by early afternoon and there is just a very gently breeze, enough to make you wish to be outside. Roy is out fixing up that eight foot high fence that he gets the beans to climb on so he won't have to bend over to pick them. Next I suppose he will try to make a cordless Bunjie gizmo so he can jump off the roof of the shop when the beans get that far up.

Why Turn Celebration Into Tragedy?

Several of us older folks were talking about young people the other day—not about today's young people but about some things that we recalled about being young ourselves. We agreed that it was a lot easier being a young person then than it is now, despite all the modern developments and conveniences.

We had peer pressures way back then—many of the same type kids face today—but not as many ways to cause harm to ourselves and others. When we talked about illegal drugs it was about opium dens in big cities, not cocaine at a friend's party or marijuana in the next gym locker. Few kids had ready access to vehicles. We had no television to show us how backward we were (yes, we're that old!) and the movies didn't need a rating system.

Like today's young people, however, as we approached the end of our high school years we thought we had the world by the tail. We felt we knew as much as anybody—were especially smarter than our parents—and we were both invincible and immortal.

We wish that we knew as much now as we did when we were 18. It has taken us this long to learn how little we really know and caution has dulled our spirit of adventure. While attempting to jump a 12-foot-wide ditch once never required a second thought, stepping out of a bathtub is now a matter of careful planning and execution.

Therefore, when we received the following letter from the Minnesota Prevention Resource Center, we knew we wanted to use it but really doubted its impact on young people. As we said, we really were young once ourselves. We would hope young people would take the message to heart, but parents should be especially aware. We are publishing the letter as a guest editorial.

There's no place for alcohol at prom or graduation celebrations.

Prom time is here and high school graduation day will soon be here. Prom is a time to celebrate dreams and the joy of friendships. Graduation is a time to commemorate achievements and to look forward to new endeavors and accomplishments.

For some, however, these are tragic times.

Most years in some Minnesota city or small town, at least one high school student dies after prom or graduation. After the prom in one small town, Susan got into a car with her boyfriend who was drunk. She died in the crash that followed; he lived. Tim was drinking at a graduation party and continued to drink after the party. He crashed his car on the way home and became permanently paralyzed. Doug, who was 17 years old, finished his job at a restaurant on the night of high school graduation. On his way home, he was killed in a crash caused by a graduating senior who got high on marijuana in celebration of her new freedom.

Often these young people whose lives are irrevocably altered or ended by a night of celebration do not drink or use drugs heavily. Their normal good judgment gives way in the giddy party atmosphere after prom or graduation.

Even if no one dies, there can be serious consequences. Injuries can be disfiguring or cause life-long disability. The guilt of hurting someone else leaves emotional scars. If an underage driver is charged and convicted of a driving violation as the result of consuming alcohol, his or her driver's license would likely be revoked or suspended under the "not a drop" law. Insurance coverage could be canceled and, later, buying risk insurance can be expected to at least double insurance costs.

Drinking also reduces inhibitions about sexual activity. Young people who would normally say "no" may say "yes" under the influence of alcohol and the excitement of prom or graduation. The consequences could follow them for life.

Parents, too, face personal risks related to post-prom and post-graduation drinking. Teenagers may pressure parents to serve alcohol at celebration parties. Like the parent in St. Paul who hosted a New Year's Eve party for young people that turned tragic, parents often don't understand their risks when they buy alcohol for minors, serve beer at graduation parties, or allow alcohol to be served in their homes.

Serving liquor to a minor (except to one's own child in the family home) is a gross misdemeanor. If serious bodily injury or death results, it becomes a felony. Along with criminal penalties, if an adult serves or provides alcohol to a minor who is then killed or kills another person, that adult is likely to be sued in civil court for the full cost of any injuries sustained.

Some parents actually express gratitude that their kids "just use alcohol, not drugs" and even encourage alcohol use, hoping it will keep their kids from using other drugs. They forget that the biggest drug problem in this country is alcohol.

Contrary to what some people believe, young people are influenced by what their parents say to them about alcohol and drugs. Teenagers whose parents talk with them about alcohol and give them a message such as, "Don't let alcohol take your dreams away from you," are much less likely to drink than young people whose parents keep quiet about the issue.

Even more than what parents say, young people are influenced by what their parents and community members do. Adults can model responsibility by using alcohol only in moderation or not at all. Even if alcohol would only be served to adults at a high school graduation party, keeping alcohol away from the celebration gives an important message. It tells young people that alcohol isn't a necessary ingredient for a fun party.

TO DECIDE:
In Less Than One Month the Jones-Meehan Case
WILL BE SETTLED.
The Arguments Were Made Tuesday.

"The following special telegram appeared in the Minneapolis Tribune of Tuesday:

"Washington, D. C. April 26. In the supreme court today the case of Ray W. Jones against P. & J. Meehan of Thief River Falls came up. It involves a constitutional prerogative of the secretary of interior and his rights as to setting aside a treaty stipulation made between an Indian chief, Moose Dung, and private parties over a mill site on the Red Lake river. Judge Nelson held that the secretary has exceeded his powers in interfering and setting aside the lease. James A. Kellogg represented Jones and Senator Davis the Meehans. The case will be decided during the month of May, if not earlier."

VOLUNTEER!
That's What Thief River Falls Patriots Do.
THE NATION'S HONOR
Will by Them Be Defended.

"C. A. Robbecke received a telegram from Capt. S. M. Decker of Crookston Wednesday morning stating that General Clough had accepted his company of volunteers. The dispatch also states that the company was a few short of the required number and asked if ten men could be raised up here. Mr. Robbecke got an American flag and a drum and in less than three hours had the required number and a few were added to the list later, making a total of 14 volunteers from this place.

"The following are the volunteers in the order they enlisted: Samuel Bardelson, Harry Jones, Joseph Johnson, J. J. Flynn, Frank Wiley, Albert LaBree, Samuel Torgerson, Andrew Stenseth, Charlie Kivel, Roy Mallory, Arne Arnesen, Christ Nygerd, C. A. Traverse and W. E. Canning.

"'Capt.' Robbecke got his little company together last night and to the music of a fife and drum, marched them about the city on dress parade for several hours. They are a fine lot physically, healthy, strong and young, and that the citizens of this place feel proud of them is manifested by many volleys of cheers. At noon today they were the guests of Landlord Robbecke at the Ogahmah, where a sumptuous dinner was served. They were escorted to the depot after dinner had been served by a large body of citizens, old soldiers and the band. At St. Hilaire they joined five more volunteers and it is understood that, at the suggestion of John Kivel, who accompanied the boys to Crookston to do the talking, they will ask the new company for some of the offices. The whole company leaves for Lake City at once, where they will remain and drill for two or three months. When they go to the front we will be sure to hear from them.

"A telegram was received this morning asking that the men sent from this city be supplied with one day's rations. A subscription paper was circulated and the soldiers have the rations."

I.O.O.F. 79th Anniversary

"The members of the St. Hilaire Lodge No. 147 I.O.O.F. made a special effort to celebrate the 79th anniversary of the founding of the order in America. The committee left nothing undone in their arrangement to make the occasion an entire success. At seven o'clock the members, almost 40 in number, met at the lodge room and formed in line to march to Hotel Markham, where they held exercises appropriate for the occasion after which they retired for their ladies. Upon the return of the brothers with their ladies, the spacious dining room was converted into a dancing hall and the only regret was it wasn't large enough to accommodate the number of dancers, there being sixty couples. It is needless to state that the musicians were given but little time to rest until the announcement of supper. The guests and members were comfortably seated and served with a sumptuous repast such as Landlord Markham is noted for preparing. After supper dancing was resumed and at the conclusion of which the Odd Fellows congregated upon the floor and Past Grand Markham made an address. The closing ode was then sung after which the Home Sweet Home Waltz was danced at the conclusion of which all took their departure for home."

Ten Wolves

"While Ed Whaley was taking a walk in the country the first of the week and having with him his trusty rifle he happened to stumble into a wolf den. The surroundings looked a little suspicious, so he got a long stick and began to investigate. A few pokes with the stick and Ed was perfectly satisfied so much so that he went to a farm house and borrowed a spade. He was not long in finding the seat of trouble where all the snarling came from. No sooner was mother wolf spied when Ed drew a dead line and sent her and two of the young ones to the place where there is no trouble finding food. For a minute or two Ed thought he was in Klondike for the first nugget he got out was worth five dollars, and then he began to pick out two dollar nuggets until he reached No. 9. Seven of the small ones scarcely a week old were brought home alive and were the center of attraction for a few hours. Mr. Whaley took the lot to the county seat Monday where he received as bounty the sum of $23.00 for his trouble."

From the Editorial Page

"In one field of activity we are getting back on a pre-war basis faster than we want to. In 1941 motorists produced a total of 626 traffic deaths in Minnesota, but with the war, production went into a slump—In 1943 the total dropped to 274. From that low, however, we have recovered steadily and the figure from last year was 570 and still mounting. Under the circumstances maybe we should all cooperate to the fullest extent with the officials who are trying to enforce safety rules and traffic regulations. Have you had your brakes checked lately and how are your lights?"

Warm Weather Finally Makes Appearance Here

"Long-awaited warm spring days finally arrived in this locality last week and have been taking most of the remaining snow drifts in shaded spots and giving the grass a greenish tint. Cites City Ordinance

"This is the second in a series of condensed interpretations of local ordinances published at the request of G. E. Ahre, superintendent of police, for the information and guidance of all concerned.

"Ordinance No. 202: Regulating the use of highways within the city of Thief River Falls, and imposing penalties for the violation thereof:

"Speed. The speed limit on all streets and highways in the city is 30 miles per hour, or no faster than is reasonable and prudent, depending upon existing conditions.'

"Operating and turning vehicles. It is unlawful to make a 'U' turn upon any street or highway in the city except at street intersections unless such intersections have posted a 'No U-turn' sign.'

"'Keep to the right. When making turns or passing another vehicle, use proper warning or hand-signals.'

"No person shall hitch a toboggan, hand sled, bicycle or similar vehicle onto any motor vehicle.

"When two vehicles approach or enter an intersection at approximately the same time, the driver of the vehicle on the left shall yield the right-of-way to the vehicle on the right. Provided that the driver of any vehicle travelling at an unlawful speed shall forfeit any right-of-way which he might otherwise have.

House passes higher ed bill

A bill that is now on its way to the Governor will provide an historic $73 million supplemental boost to Minnesota's higher education system.

According to State Rep. Gene Pelowski, "This is the largest supplemental bill for higher education in the last 12 years. Most significantly, it gives $36 million each to the University of Minnesota and Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU), with $23.6 million increase in each system's funding base. In recent years, the legislature has all too often sent one-time funding to our public campuses. Unfortunately, that makes planning for our campuses for two, four or 10 years out very difficult, and it has not allowed funding for our colleges and universities to keep pace with what their students need, whether its technology or instructors or books."

The bill includes:

- $1.5 million extra for work-study programs to assist students with the costs related to higher education.
- Within the financial aid formula, students will now be responsible for 47 percent of costs rather than the current 50 percent. This will provide an increase in financial aid awards for Minnesota students attending both private and public institutions.
- The University of Minnesota is provided with a supplemental budget of $36 million for Fiscal Year 98-99. This funding is for academic initiatives in digital technology, molecular and cellular biology, an equipment base adjustment, a faculty set-up and equipment fund and for faculty and staff compensation.
- $20 million to reduce the funding variances between MnSCU institutions. A total of $36 million will go to MnSCU.

$10 million for MnSCU will be used to build partnerships between businesses and higher education institutions, including increasing the number of students enrolled in on-the-job internships.

- $3 million to assist MnSCU colleges of education with the development of new programs to train teachers for implementation of the graduation rule.
- $3 million to MnSCU libraries for the acquisition of library materials and equipment.

$3 million to MnSCU schools to redesign their curriculum, develop new programs and improve the delivery of teacher preparation. It includes training teachers for implementation of the graduation rule.

- A credit change for half-time students. For the purpose of financial aid, the term "half time" means six instead of eight credits per quarter.

Pelowski noted that the supplemental bill complements a larger biennial omnibus bill passed in 1997 that began to counter the trend of higher education receiving a dwindling share of state resources in recent years. Over the past decade, the share of state resources going to higher education has declined from 15 percent to 11 percent.

Democrats endorse Olson and Tunheim for legislature

Sixteen-year incumbent Jim Tunheim in District 1A and newcomer Lori Bergland Olson in District 1B were endorsed by the Senate District 1 DFL at the endorsing convention conducted Sunday, April 19, at the Newfolden elementary school. Both received unanimous endorsement from the delegates.

Tunheim, a Kennedy resident, was nominated by Norma Hanson of Goodridge with the seconding speech given by Butch Fossell of Kennedy.

Olson, a rural Thief River Falls resident, was nominated by Arlene Tucker of Crookston with seconding speeches given by Rick Nelson of Thief River Falls and Dave Lundeen of Red Lake Falls.

Seventh District chair Norma Hanson called the meeting to order and was elected convenor to preside over the remainder of the convention's business session. Speeches were presented by the two endorsed candidates and U.S. Congressman Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes.

Elected to two-year terms as officers of Senate District 1 were Norma Hanson, Goodridge, chair; Butch Fossell, Kennedy, vice chair; Velma Oakland, Red Lake Falls, secretary, and John Johnson, Thief River Falls, treasurer.

Alternates elected to the state DFL Central Committee were Dr. Jim Langland and Judy Lindquist, both of Thief River Falls.

State Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls concluded the convention with his comments and a summary of the 1998 legislative session.

Curious about what could be seen in the microscope set up during the doll and teddy bear clinic at Challenger elementary school April 20 during Week of the Young Child activities was Koleb Torgerson, son of Mike and Carie Torgerson. Many of the children bringing their dolls or stuffed animals to the "clinic" had an opportunity to look in the microscope.

American Institute for Cancer Research conducts fund campaign

American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR) is now conducting its Thief River Falls Area Annual Fund campaign.

The AICR should not be confused with the American Cancer Society. They are separate non-profit organizations.

The AICR, which was founded in 1982, focuses specifically on issues of diet, nutrition and cancer. According to information about the organization, its purpose is to provide funding support for research into the relationship between diet, nutrition and cancer and to expand consumer knowledge about the results of such research as it relates to cancer prevention and treatment in the United States and worldwide.

For fiscal year ending September 30, 1997, the institute's expenses totaled $27,806,859. Of that amount, 21 percent was spent directly in support of cancer research, and 47 percent of expenses went in support of the Institute's public education programs in cancer prevention. Together, research and public education programs accounted for 68 percent of all expenditures by the Institute. Fundraising costs for the year were 21 percent of total expenses and 11 percent of expenses went to administrative costs.

The weather in northwest Minnesota has been unbelievably beautiful this spring making it hard to think that we may get a frost sometime in the next couple of weeks. That is what keeps us from doing our planting at this time. The weather man had forecast rain over the weekend so Roy got out with his fertilizing spreader and waited for the rain to come and wash it into the ground. I suppose there were many folks praying for a nice weekend so they could go to the auction and it turned into a day where sunburn was seen on several red noses. Roy was out early this morning watering the lawns as there is no rain in sight. Roy says the birds thought the fertilizer was some kind of food and as he hadn't labeled it he couldn't guarantee that they wouldn't get sick eating it. But now that it is gone out of sight, the birds are back to nest building and up in the birdfeeder instead.

sealed bids will be received at the office of the Middle River-Snake River Watershed District 453 North McKinley Street, Warren, Minnesota 56762 until 4:00 o'clock PM on May 22, 1998 for the rental of fully operated excavation equipment. Proposals are being requested for dozers, blades and crawlers mounted draglines or backhoes. The draglines and backhoes may range from 3/4 cubic yards and larger and must be equipped with a boom, bucket and counter weights appropriately matched for the type of machine. All equipment must be equipped with a servis recorder.

The works to be done consist of but is not limited to the clearing and disposal of trees and brush and the removal of sediment from drainage channels, disposal of rocks and the leveling of spoilbanks. The work required and the locations of the work will be designated by the engineer of the district.

The equipment must be modern and in good operating condition and furnished with capable and experienced operators. Deficient operations or maintenance which results in reduced production or poor workmanship will be cause for contract cancellation.

All equipment proposed will be considered and evaluated based on many factors including but not limited to the following: price, horsepower, machine rating, machine weight, track length, track width, track gauge, buckets available, boom lengths available and counter weights available.

Work will be paid by the hour and payment will be based on the time recorded on the Servis Recorder discs which must be turned over to the Engineer. Payments will be made on a monthly basis. The minimum hours per week will be 40 unless delayed by weather or equipment operating problems.

In addition to the payment for hourly work, the contractor will be eligible for a demobilization payment. The amount will be equivalent to 5 hours rental rate for each type of equipment authorized for use by the Engineer.

Demobilization payment will be included in the last payment for hourly work satisfactorily completed.

The District may cancel the contract at any time without cause by paying the demobilization payment.

The contractor may cancel the contract at any time without cause but forfeits the demobilization payment.

The type of equipment best suited for this project is dependent on the weather and other unknown job conditions. The district intends to rent equipment which in its opinion will perform the required work at the least cost. Its evaluation factors will depend on conditions expected and encountered which will likely change along the course of the work. The District will release and rent different equipment from time to time as it deems necessary to economically perform the required work.

The contractor, in making this proposal, promises to furnish the equipment listed for the prices shown subject to its availability. He does not promise to make or keep the equipment available to the district. He understands, however, the equipment availability may be a factor in the district's evaluation of equipment.

The contractor will be required to furnish certificates showing that he has workman's compensation insurance and liability insurance.

The Middle River-Snake River Watershed District reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to award contacts to other than the apparent low bidder.

Harvey Returns to Gully

Harvey Aas decided to come back to the hometown on Sunday afternoon to celebrate his birthday. Dick and Janice Aas brought a large decorated birthday cake and we had a chance to greet Harvey at the Gully Cafe for his 81st birthday and wish him well and have cake and coffee with him. When Harvey lived in Gully with his folks, he was a "handyman" around town and would help with the mowing of lawns or shovel snow in the winter time, etc. Harvey moved to Crookston in about 1956 and lived there until 1960-something. He spent much time living at the Wayne Hotel and also at the Oak Court Apartments. While he lived at the Wayne Hotel, former neighbors, Otto Olson and Leonard Esposoth also lived there. Now Harvey is making his home at the Good Samaritan at Clearbrook in Room 212. He enjoys seeing some of the same people there who used to come to the Aas Hardware Store in Gully where his Dad, Louis Aas stocked every kind of hardware anyone would need and his mother would bake the luscious angel food cakes and come to one of our birthday parties. Among those who showed up on Sunday because they know the Aas family were Vivian Halvor Rikje, Bob and Vivian Rouland, Effie Handy, Lyn Turonna, Emma Nyland, Kay Erickson, Frank and Phyllis Sloba, Grace Nyland, Arlo and Luverne Fora, James Olson, Soffi Carlson, Brian Carlson, Joel, Jason, Kyle and James Molander, Bomler Karssen, Don Dyrdohl, Kenneth Forsberg, Wally Rutkowski, Bloyd and Alice Ness, Brad Ness, Carol, April and Robin Thoroldson, Edna Edlund, Wendt and Cathy Sanger, Ethel and Dorlene Rouland, Kevin Skima, Arnold and Sonna Brovold and Duane and Arvilla Rouland.

Carol and Tanya Thoroldson hosted a Partylite demonstration party at the Gully Cafe on Sunday afternoon. Cathy Bergerson demonstrated different arrangements of the candles and complimented accessories for various table settings.

Kenneth and Alice Forsberg have had much company at their "Windy Hills" home south of Gully this week. On Saturday evening Carol Burella, Opal Hoogenson and Elaine Bergman of McIntosh and Elaine's sister and brother-in-law, Glenn and Dee Iheingers of Madison WI, and Erick and Arlene Bergman of Clearbrook visited them. On Thursday Alvin Bergman of Clearbrook was a dinner guest and visited them.

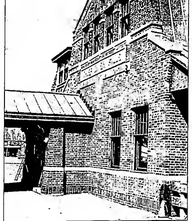
More PROGRESS in Thief River Falls
Congratulations!

Thief River Falls Credit Bureau was purchased about a year and a half ago by Wes Welch and Steve Ekman. About a year ago they moved the credit bureau to the Rohl Professional building in downtown Thief River Falls. Welch and Ekman are both attorneys in the law firm of Kopperud, Welch and Ekman of Park River and Grafton. They also own another credit bureau in Grafton. Welch and Ekman aren't exactly sure, but believe the credit bureau in Thief River Falls began in the 1920s. Its business includes collections and credit reporting. There are six staff members at the office. Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors, Dave Clausen and Roxy Sorvig, presented a More Progress to Ekman and Welch. Pictured from left are Dave Clausen, Steve Ekman, Wes Welch and Roxy Sorvig.



City employees are expected to begin moving into the renovated Soo Line Depot during the second week of May. Substantial completion has not been approved, but administration has developed a schedule to move into the building. Over a period of about three weeks, several city offices will be moved into the building. A punch list of all those items which need to be completed yet is being prepared. City offices are expected to occupy the building by June 1. Officials also are in the process of planning an open house and celebration. Tours of the building are not being allowed until substantial completion is approved.

Greetings once again to good friends who read the Plummer news! We arrived home on April 3rd from our winter in Texas in the Rio Grande Valley. We drove in rain through Oklahoma and Kansas but otherwise the roads and weather was good. We spent two days at daughter Elaine Palmer's home and had an overnight visit with friends at Charles City, IA, and also visited with Willis and Mabel Byer at Norwood, MN. On the last leg of our journey we saw piles and patches of snow as we came north but were glad to find none here at Plummer. We kept close watch on the weather reports from here while in TX and rejoiced in your mild winter. We, too, had a wonderful winter down there, with mostly shirt-sleeve weather. However, it's good to be at home again and I want to thank Kathy Juneau for filling in for me with the news. I will again be your reporter and ask that you please call me at 465-4375 with your news.

It was a shock to hear of all the deaths in our community in recent days. I was very sorry that we couldn't be here for the funerals and want to express our deep sympathy to all of those who lost loved ones. I have known Ruby Westlake, Alice Konickson, Lillie Halvorson, Charlotte Leining and Wilhelmina Gallant and will miss them all.

Out of town relatives who came for Charlotte's funeral were Francis and Bernice Leining of Wadena, Debbie Leining of Moorhead, Lori Leining of Moorhead, Jeff Leining of Vermillion, SD, Wayne and Barbara Leining of Austin, Bruce, Beth and Erin Dollenjenbruns of Hayward, Scott, Gayle, Miranda and Kyle Leining of Williston, ND, Dale, Kelly, Angela, Justin and Travis Flatgard of Austin, Lyndon and Mary Leining of Austin, Melinda Leining of Rochester and Sara Leining of St. Cloud. Gladys Laing of Hallon, ND, Curt and Isabel Honson of Hallon, Rick and Bev Fuller of West Fargo and Eric Hanson of Fargo, Janice Amundson and Jennifer Aason of Portland, ND, Janie Culshaw of Grand Forks, Karen Amundson of Portland, Alice Vorke, Betty Thompson and Joy Vaagene, all of Hallon, Gary and Debbie Vaagene of Hallon, Paul Vaagene of Fargo and Rita Bristlin of Detroit Lakes, Willard and Eleanor Laing of Grand Forks, Dale and Luella Halvorsen, Norm and Sally Borg and Julia Borg, all of Roseau. The following were also here to attend Alice Konickson and Ruby Westlake's funeral: Ray and Annie Van Den Einde of Fertile, Dennis and Audrey Brinkman and Deb Greelis of Thief River Falls, Laurie Wagner of Crookston, Steve Konickson of Thief River Falls, Helen Jaeger of Thief River Falls, Ken Konickson of Aberdeen, SD and Patricia Wright of Grand Forks. Many friends from the surrounding area filled the church for the services in their honor.

Relatives from a distance who attended Lillie Halvorsen's funeral were nieces Arla and Duwayne Ronck of Climax, Juanita Samuelson of Crookston and Margaret Adelman of Red Lake Falls, Lee Halvorson's mother Isabel Thompson of Devils Lake and Terry and Arlene Thompson and daughter, Amy of Doyon, ND. May God bless their memory.

LWR Shipment

Immanuel Quilters sent off the quilts that had been finished during the winter on Saturday, April 4, designated for Lutheran World Relief. Clayton Larson had the honor of hauling them to Thief River Falls where they were trucked to a Minneapolis warehouse. The load numbered 137 quilts, representing a lot of hard work. They had been on display on the church pews and were sent off with a prayer.

Pastor Clarence Johnson assisted in the funeral for his wife Alice's sister, Olive Graber recently. She had been in a nursing home but was from Forrest City, IA. The funeral was held at Thompson, IA. Again, we offer deep sympathy to her family.

Arnie and Wilma Aill returned home from Rochester on Thursday where he had gone for medical testing. We all hope for a return of good health, Arnie.

Birthday

Fern and Amelia Eskeli, Melvin and Eddy Eskeli helped Wilma Huotari celebrate her birthday on Thursday at Pioneer Memorial Home in Erskine. They brought cake and ice cream to share with the residents.

Short biographies of each of the candidates follows:

Robert O. (Bob) Baker
Athlete

Bob Baker graduated from Lincoln High School in 1945. While in high school, he participated in football, hockey, basketball, baseball, and track. Although he excelled in every sport he played, Baker was best known for hockey. He played five years of varsity hockey and in 1945 led the Prowlers to the finals of the first Minnesota State High School Hockey Tournament. Although his team lost by one goal, he was selected as the tournament's Outstanding Player and was named to the All State Hockey Team.

After high school, he served two years in the military and in 1948 was asked to play on the United States Olympic Hockey Team that competed in St. Moritz, Switzerland. After his Olympic appearance, he returned to Thief River Falls and played two seasons with the Thief River Falls Thieves. In 1951, Baker married, and started his family of three children.

In 1957 he joined the IBM Corporation in Rochester. While in Rochester, he played hockey for the Rochester Mustangs and was a member of the United States Senior Championship Team in 1958. In 1965, Baker was transferred to Raleigh, NC, where he worked for 30 years in the Production Control Department with IBM.

Baker played 14 years of semi-professional hockey and as of today is the only Thief River Falls native to have played on an Olympic team. As a former teammate states, "He is the 'hockey player' that all other Thief River Falls players are compared to! He looked like Bobby Smith, played like Bobby Orr."

Council debates pay issue

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Tuesday evening, disagreement at a city council meeting about pay for an unnamed city utility employee resulted in a heated debate and may mean future discussions regarding how to handle pay increase requests for all city employees.

Dale Wennberg, ward three representative on the council, challenged the $1 per hour pay increase request for a system managers job position in the utilities department. Wennberg said when the job description was approved at the last council meeting he asked whether it meant a pay increase. The answer, at the time, he said, was no. Two days later he said he received a letter from the labor committee recommending a pay increase.

Wennberg argued that this pay grade 8 position should be treated as a pay grade 8. He explained that there are at least seven other city employees who manage other people while this position doesn't have any managerial responsibilities — other than over possibly one other individual. How, he asked, could they justify a one dollar per hour increase?

(This pay grade 8 position will pay $18.97 per hour with the $1 increase, which is still within pay grade 8.)

Considerable discussion and debate erupted over the chain of events that led to the recommendation. Jean Heinrichs, representative at large, maintained that the pay increase was the result of a separate negotiated agreement with the Teamsters. Heinrichs and Dave Carlson, ward 2 representative, said that the individual was a grade level 7 being paid at a grade level 8 before the job description was approved. Also, the pay increase had been negotiated before the job

Dennis Bendickson

Bendickson named Dean of Student Services at NCTC

Dr. Orley Gunderson, president of Northland Community and Technical College (NCTC) in Thief River Falls, announced Monday that Dennis Bendickson had been selected as Dean of Students Services of the college.

Bendickson is a long-time employee of the Thief River Falls college serving in the admissions department since 1969 and has been the interim Dean since the beginning of fall quarter.

Bendickson was selected from among 72 applicants for the position.

Dr. Gunderson said he was pleased the selection committee forwarded Bendickson's name. "It's to the benefit of the college that we are able to have Dennis in this position. He has demonstrated a real sense of responsibility, commitment and leadership in his years of service to Northland."

"I want to thank Dr. Gunderson and the selection committee for their confidence in me," stated Bendickson.

Bendickson went on to say he wants to focus on several priority items in the next few weeks. "We

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Months of planning and years of discussion and preparation culminated in a successful open house celebration for Altru Clinic in Thief River Falls Friday. The new clinic opened on the Northwest Medical campus several months ago, but Friday was the first opportunity for the public to get a look at the new clinic and visit with one of the family practice physicians recruited to work at the clinic.

Sue Knutson, Altru Clinic manager, said Altru Clinic staff were real excited to be open for primary care and to be in Thief River Falls.

Knutson and Dr. John Youngs, chief medical executive for Altru Hospital, who was also at the open house and grand opening, added that they were interested in hearing any comments the public might have on how they can meet their needs.

Dick Spyhalski, president and chief executive officer of Northwest Medical Center, said Northwest Medical Center was excited that Altru Clinic will be on campus. It will offer more patient options, he said.

Spyhalski also said that Altru's philosophy, which is based on "community hospital", is compatible to the mission and goal of Northwest Medical Center. It is their belief, he said, that there is a need and place for community hospitals. He also said that they attempt to avoid duplication and competition where there are ancillary services.

Dr. Judith Campbell and Dr. Greg Houlihan are the first two doctors recruited to staff the facility. Several more are expected to join the staff this summer or next fall.

Dr. Campbell said Friday that Thief River Falls was a great community and she has enjoyed every minute because she has been made to feel welcome and accepted. She added that it's a beautiful, clean and safe community. So quickly has she become a member of the community, that while waiting for her visa to be processed, Dr. Campbell became a member of the cast in "Murder on the Mind", a dinner theatre production presented by That's Entertainment.

Dr. Campbell recently moved her family practice and her family from Winnipeg. Dr. Judith Campbell, MD, is a 1979 graduate of the University of Manitoba, and certificant of the College of Family Practice of Canada. Her specialty interest is in geriatrics, women's health and preventative health. Dr. Campbell and her husband, who was a special education instructor, have three boys, ages 11, 9 and 6.

Visitors and guests at the open house held at Altru Clinic last Friday, were given a tour of the clinic office space. Many were surprised at the amount of space located in that area of Northwest Medical Center.

Seventh District DFL endorses Peterson at TRF convention

Congressman Collin Peterson listens to nominating and seconding speeches on behalf of his candidacy for reelection during the Seventh District DFL convention Saturday at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls. He won endorsement of the party on the second ballot.

Mike Sullivan, seeking the endorsement of Seventh District DFL delegates in a bid for U.S. Congress, listened to nominating and seconding speeches while awaiting his turn to address the convention held last weekend at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Hubert H. (Skip) Humphrey wins straw poll among candidates for state gubernatorial endorsement

Congressman Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes won endorsement for reelection at the Seventh District DFL convention Saturday in Thief River Falls, although it took two ballots to get it done. Also candidates were Mike Sullivan of Stearns county and Patrick Fish of Lake of the Woods county.

On the first ballot Rep. Peterson received only 54 percent of the ballots cast, falling short of the 60 percent needed for endorsement. Although Sullivan conceded the endorsement to Peterson, Fish did not concede and the second ballot was required.

In a straw poll taken following presentations by a number of the candidates for DFL endorsement for governor, Skip Humphrey captured 44.8 percent of the votes cast by the delegates, according to Norma Hanson of Goodridge, who chaired the Senate District 1 steering committee which hosted the convention.

Mike Freeman received 34.7 percent of the vote and Mark Dayton trailed with 7.7 per cent. Other candidates, including Ted Mondale and Doug Peterson, received a scattering of votes.

The convention considered 189 resolutions submitted by the 26 counties in the Seventh District, consolidating a number of them to send on to the state DFL convention June 5-7 in St. Cloud. All counties in the district except Traverse were represented at the convention.

John Meuers of St. Cloud was reelected Seventh District chair. Norma Hanson of Goodridge was elected vice chair to succeed Lori Olson of Thief River Falls, who is the endorsed candidate for the state legislature from District 1B. Al Patton of Sauk Rapids was elected treasurer to succeed Ane Hanley of Fergus Falls and David Lundeen of Red Lake Falls was reelected secretary.

Convention activities also included a fish fry Friday evening at the National Guard armory with Bob Bergland of Roseau as guest speaker. State Sen. Roger Moe of Erskine was guest speaker for the convention banquet Saturday evening at the Best Western Inn. Convention business closed Sunday with final action on resolutions.

Program for the convention was dedicated to the memory of Coya Knutson of Oklee who served the district in the U.S. Congress from 1955 through 1959.

Dr. Greg Houlihan recently moved his practice from Kansas City. Houlihan obtained an undergraduate degree from Southwest Baptist University in Bolivar, MO. While at Southwest Baptist University he worked five years as an EMT in Springfield, MO. He obtained his medical degree from the University of Health Sciences School of Osteopathic Medicine in Kansas City. He completed his residency in four years instead of three years, he said, because he likes doing procedures. He explained that during his residency, his wife died of colon cancer. That experience, he said, gave him a whole new perspective on medicine and has since then caused him to focus more on the needs of the patient and patient's family. Dr. Houlihan said he really cares about his patients and wants to get to know them and their families.

While in medical school he joined the 2nd Battalion 135th National Guard as surgeon. After his residency, Dr. Houlihan switched branches of the military and served in the Air Force for four years. He was sent to Cairo, Egypt, and did a tour of duty during the Somalian war. He was chief of staff of the mobile field hospital.

Dr. Houlihan later re-married. He has two children, Molly, age 8, and Katelyn, age 5. Dr. Houlihan and his wife Mary Helen have been married seven years now. He enjoys fly fishing, downhill skiing, painting and running.

Dr. Houlihan said he likes the community. He and his family have been treated very well here, he said. He added that Dick Spyhalski has been a real friend.

Altru Clinic in Thief River Falls will be open from 8 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Staff include Patty Anderson, RN, formally working in Warren and living in Thief River Falls; Sheila Wiskow, LPN, formally working in Roseau, and living in Goodridge; and Deanne Benson, LPN, of Thief River Falls. Benson will be working sharing duties between Altru Clinic and Northwest Medical Center. The clinic also has two office staff, Jackie Mauch and Melanie Glass.

have to look at filling coaching positions in women's basketball and volleyball, finalize our conversion to semesters, get ready for construction on our new student services area, prepare for a new state computer system and get ready for graduation and a new academic year next fall."

"I have always been student oriented. My door is open and I would like for students to feel free to drop in anytime. I want to provide access for students and I will listen to student concerns. We are here for the students, they are not here for us," said Bendickson.

Bendickson and his wife Sue and son Ryan live in Thief River Falls. Ryan is currently a sophomore at NCTC.

Dean of Student Services is not the only position that needed to be filled. Dr. Gunderson said he expects to the fill the position of Dean of Academic Affairs at Northland Community and Technical College in the next few weeks.

description was approved.

Wennberg argued that the council had gone through the difficult comparable worth process, and now it was allowing individual negotiation. "We've turned the key," he said and warned that everyone will be requesting individual contract negotiations.

Wennberg then recommended that the request for a pay increase be denied. That motion was seconded by Ken Schmaltz, alderman at large representative. Upon a vote, the motion failed 5-2, with Mayor Mark Borsheim, a city utility employee, abstaining.

Dave Carlson agreed with Wennberg stating that the city had become a victim of its own system and it will probably get more appeals. But, Carlson said that under the present circumstances, he saw no reason to vote against the request.

Other council representatives noted that the city seems to be losing a lot of line people and it's got to stop somewhere. (Council and utility department representatives are concerned that once an employee has received training they might chose to leave the city's employ and take a job with a co-op or private company which pays more.)

Mayor Borsheim suggested that the city council consider setting a dollar rate per grade level.

Another motion to approve the recommendation for a pay increase passed.

The council approved a recommendation to call for bids on a reroofing project at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. The cost of the project, which involves removing the existing built-up roof and replacing much of the top and installing eight new roof drains, was estimated at around $200,000. Bids will be opened May 20.

Wennberg said the project is a maintenance project, which should have been done years ago. This project will not address problems with cracked walls.

The Parks and Recreation department has seen to it that some money for the project has been set aside for the project over a three year period.

A special revenue fund to address golf course matching fund donations was approved by the council. There is $15,600 as a match. There are no city dollars involved.

In other business, the council: approved a variance request for Larry and Janice Olson, 311 Cardinal Avenue, to construct a garage; appointed Mark Bieganek to the position of public works maintenance; approved a salary progression raise for Sid Fossan, building official; approved a farm land rental contract with Pete Carlson for 50.9 acres of Gilbert Industrial Park Property; called for a bid on a two an done-half ton truck for the street department; approved a premises permit application from the American Legion for pull tabs at the Evergreen Eating Emporium.

Following long careers, Deone Cerny and Pat Beauchane retire at end of school year

Times Reporter

While spring marks the beginning of many things, it marks the end of the school year. Teachers and students alike look forward to the much desired and needed summer break. Seniors graduate from high school and college, and a few educators retire.

Along with the retirement of Principal Glenn Espe, Challenger Elementary School will lose two long-time teachers as Pat Beauchane and Deone Cerny also retire.

Pat began her teaching career in 1961 in Greybull, Wyoming where she taught for four years. Her second job took her to Devils Lake, ND where she taught music in three country schools and to fourth graders and junior high school students in town. Pat detested all of the running around involved with the Devils Lake position, and it almost put an end to her career in teaching. However, when a friend got a job in Thief River Falls, Pat discovered that there was also an opening for a music teacher here. She applied and got the job in 1967.

In Thief River Falls, Pat taught music at Washington and Northrop Schools as well as Knox "for a year or two" before moving to the new school. She is particularly fond of the Challenger facility. "Thanks to the voters of Thief River Falls, I have a room!" she enthusiastically states. "I don't have to push a cart from room to room!" Pat's room is one of three large music rooms at Challenger School.

Pat cited technology as the biggest change in education that she's seen over the years. "Teaching hasn't changed," she says. "It's easier."

Pat operated a compact disc player on Monday morning as the third graders sang along to recorded music. The youngsters had voted for their favorite songs and were practicing for a program to be held later in the month. And while much has changed, some things remain the same. Two of the songs the children had chosen were "Polly Wolly Doodle" and "Take Me Out to the Ballgame" — ageless songs that Pat herself sang as a child in Sioux Falls, SD.

Pat's retirement was prodded by a single car accident she was involved in last June. Injuring her feet, wrists and sternum, Pat has difficulty standing for long periods of time. "If I hadn't had the accident, I wouldn't have quit," Pat says. "I could have taught for six more years."

Pat's husband, Ken, was a long-time custodian at Northrop School. Licensed for adult foster care, they share their home in rural Thief River Falls with John who's been with them for "nine or ten years" and Brian who has been part of their family for "six years or so" as well as a dog, two cats and 240 young chickens. The chickens' days are numbered, however, and according to Pat, they will be in the freezer in about eight weeks.

When asked what she has planned for retirement, Pat simply says, "I don't know. I guess I'll be a housewife. It will be nice to be able to do my laundry during the week!" Many of the activities Pat had looked forward to in retirement have, too, been curtailed by her injuries. She does look forward to spending time at the Beauchane cabin on Union Lake this summer.

As one observes Pat leading her students in an action song, they would doubt that the still-energetic lady will lead a quiet life in retirement.

Deone Cerny wasn't anxious to answer a lot of questions. Obviously her quiet, soft spoken ways extend beyond the classroom.

She is wrapping up a career nearly half a century long. Deone began teaching in Mahnomen 46 years ago. She then taught in Owatonna, Richfield and East Grand Forks before coming to Thief River Falls in 1968. When asked if her teaching years have been good years, Deone beams as she softly says, "Oh my, yes."

Decorated in bright primary colors, Deone's kindergarten classroom at Challenger School is spacious, and everywhere one looks there are numbers, letters and shapes — the things kindergarteners learn about. Toys, puzzles and books line the shelves that surround the room. Bins hold blocks and art supplies.

Returning to the classroom from a milk break in the nearby cafeteria on Monday afternoon, Deone's students immediately went to a large cushioned mat that centers the room. The mat is like a giant puzzle whose pieces contain letters. Each student sat down on his or her letter on the mat, a spot that had been assigned at the beginning of the school year.

The children only had ears for Miss Cerny as she explained the activity that they were about to do. Once the children understood the directions, they lined up to receive materials and went to their places at the child-size tables where their backpacks hung neatly on the backs of their chairs.

The activity involved selecting four plastic shapes from a bag, matching them to shapes on a laminated mat and then using those pieces to make a rectangle. Deone and her aide Carol DeLap circled the table offering help and encouragement, often bending and kneeling to the level of the youngsters. As they completed their task, they raised their hands, and after praising their efforts with a smile and enthusiastic "You did it!" Deone gave them each a new assignment using different shapes, the second task a bit more difficult than the first. The process was repeated until it was time for the children to go to a science activity in another room.

The observer is amazed at how the young children cheerfully and obediently respond to Deone's soft-spoken manner. It seems almost magic — Deone Cerny is like a good fairy who has cast a spell on a room full of energetic five and six-year-olds.

When Deone began teaching the emphasis for kindergarteners was to learn social skills. Over the years that emphasis has changed to academics. Youngsters at that age, however, have not changed. "Kindergarten children are enthusiastic, eager to learn and fun," Deone says. "They are still very innocent."

In recent years, Deone's classes have averaged about 25 students. Her largest-ever class included 42 children. Her long career has spanned two generations as she has taught the children of former students.

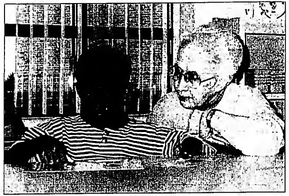
Miss Cerny notes the "sharing and planning" among teachers as the advantage she has enjoyed at Challenger School. The recent referendum made possible a full-time aide along with the hiring of two kindergarten teachers for next year, reducing classroom sizes.

When asked about her post-retirement plans, Deone laughs as she says, "I'm going to clean my basement." Her basement, it seems, contains the overflow of her long career. "I want my basement to be empty!" she adds. She also plans to work on projects that she hasn't had time to get done and perhaps, travel some.

Deone's interest in her students doesn't end when they leave her classroom. She regards her students as her children, and she takes pride in them as she watches them grow. "I've always enjoyed attending awards banquets and programs," she says. That interest and obvious love for children is not apt to stop with retirement.

Yesterday, May 5, was National Teacher's Day, and an appreciation banquet was held in Thief River Falls to honor area "Teachers of the Year" and retiring educators.

With the retirements of Principal Glenn Espe, and teachers Pat Beauchane and Deone Cerny, Challenger School will lose 123 years of educational experience. Thousands of children benefitted from that experience. For those children, their parents and the community, we thank Deone, Pat and Glenn and wish them well.



Deone Cerny has taught kindergarten for 46 years. In a kind, soft-spoken way, she has taught many, many small children over the years the social and academic skills they need to begin their school careers. Miss Cerny will retire at the end of the 1997-98 school year.

Music teacher Pat Beauchane keeps time to the music with her students in her classroom at Challenger School. Beginning her career in 1961, she has taught in the Thief River Falls system since 1967. Pat is one of several educators in Thief River Falls who will retire at the end of the 1997-98 school year.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Are You A Nosy Neighbor? I Am.

It seems that every street has its share of nosy neighbors. Nosy neighbors are those who keep watchful eyes open and seem to know everybody and everything that is going on in the neighborhood. If you are lucky enough to have a nosy neighbor on your street, bake them a cake or send them flowers. You are lucky.

First, since I am very much in favor of them, I might find a better name for these curious neighbors. Maybe I will call them neighbor watchers. I realize that there is a Community Policing Program in effect and some of our neighbor watchers are members, but the nosy neighbors I am talking about are all of those people in town who keep an eye on their neighbors and neighborhood. These people are a good thing for our town.

We have recently had two incidents where neighbor watchers saw things in their area that didn't seem right and they notified the police. In one incident, eleven neighbor watchers (who were also members of the Community Policing Program) reported a vehicle driving recklessly. Their reports and astute descriptions of the car resulted in two people being arrested for vandalism to a church. In another incident, it was reported that someone in a vehicle was watching children on a playground. Even though this incident was proven to be something other than a kidnapping attempt, the fact that those neighbor watchers were on their toes could have prevented something bad from happening to our children.

It is definitely a good thing to have neighbor watchers. Those people who have the time and care enough to keep an eye out can make a big difference in crimes in our town, and it is one of the things that makes a small town a good place to live.

Neighbors keeping an eye on neighbors is not a bad thing - it is a thing that sets us apart from large cities. People can live in isolation in cities, no one knowing or caring what happens to them. Small town people don't live like that. They know who their neighbors are and they care about them. Even if they don't socialize or have much in common, neighbors are there when needed.

And we can all be neighbor watchers. If we have the opportunity, we can become members of the Community Policing Program, or, we can just plain be watchers on our own. If more people kept on eye on their own streets and neighborhoods, watched for strange, loitering vehicles and persons, investigated any unusual noises, and kept an eye out when they knew neighbors were away from their homes, we would all be better off. The bad guys better go away and stay away, because we're watching - and we're watching out for each other, too.

And it isn't a bad thing to be a nosy neighbor at all.

THANKS TO ALL OF YOU

Deciding "it's time to grow up," Eunice Rolandson of 307 North Knight prepares to part with a portion of her vast doll collection. Growing up in the Brooks-Oklee area, Eunice never owned a doll as a child. She began her collection a number of years ago and has had as many as 300 dolls in her collection at once. Every doll is different, and Eunice says "remind me of a friend or relative. And, they always have a smile on their faces." The doll Eunice is holding for the photograph is a 35-year-old baby doll given to her by an aunt and uncle.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Teresa Friend, Lincoln High School

When I think of birthdays, I am reminded of the thoughts of an 11-year-old girl told in the story "Eleven" by Sandra Cisneros:

"What they don't understand about birthdays and what they never tell you is that when you're eleven, you're also ten, and nine, and eight, and seven, and six, and five, and four, and three, and two, and one. And when you wake up on your eleventh birthday, you expect to feel eleven, but you don't. You open your eyes and everything's just like yesterday, only it's today. And you don't feel eleven at all. You feel you're still ten. And you are underneath the year that makes you eleven.

"Like some days you might say something stupid, and that's the part of you that's still ten. Or maybe some days you might need to sit on your mama's lap because you're scared, and that's the part of you that's five. And maybe one day when you're all grown up, maybe you will need to cry like if you're three, and that's okay. That's what I tell Mama when she's sad and needs to cry. Maybe she's feeling three.

"You don't feel 11. Not right away. It takes a few days, weeks even, sometimes even months before you say Eleven when they ask you. And you don't feel smart 11, not until you're almost 12. That's the way it is."

Hmmmm...birthdays. I remember when I was younger, I would begin the countdown, day by day to May 4th from nearly three months away. It used to be so easy to make off an entire list of what I wanted. I would name off five of the newest Barbies that just came to market, stuffed animals, accessories I hardly needed for my Maple Town collection, and many other items that stacked the K-Mart shelves. But---Please---anything but clothes! When my special day finally arrived, I'd dance around in my play clothes with my friends---same friends as last year and every year before---and cheer to everyone I meet that "I" am a year older today. We would play our pleasureful pastimes with pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey, clothes pin drop, and rummage through our party bags that were filled with candy and small toys. Then, of course, how can I forget the birthday cake. The lights were dimmed, and Mom would bring out the glorious ever-so-important Birthday Cake—important because it said my name, in bright frosting on top of the white (I didn't like chocolate) cake.

It was my cake, my birthday, and my day. The candles were lit and my heart would begin to race. The singing, the smiling, the clapping, and when the moment was right, the wish. The wonderful Birthday Wish and the climax of the entire day. All hours of preparing boiled down to this moment, this perfect moment, and, somehow, I was not quite a year older until the wish was made and the candles blown out. With all of my friends huddled around me, eager to take their part in extinguishing the tiny flames that melt the wax onto my cake, I would have no trouble in blowing them out. But I'd hope that I wouldn't have to. I didn't want the moment to end...but it always did. The lights would be turned back on, everyone cheered, and I would smile. I didn't feel a year older.

When you're older---not old older---birthdays change. for the last three years, I haven't realized that my birthday was near until it was only two weeks away. Why is it, that when they are older, people want and ask for things all year long, but when they are actually asked what they want for their birthday, they can't think of a single thing? When my birthday finally comes, it's not as important to me as it used to be when I was younger. Presents are fewer and so are guests. I still have the cake, but with no Cookie Monster or Big Bird theme. Presents are often cards with money. No more fun parties or balloons or party hats. No more pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey. Birthdays just come, year after year. It's not that I don't like getting older, I just wish it didn't have to happen so quickly. I long for the birthdays that I used to have. Now, I only see birthdays as a signal that I am getting older, things are changing, and that I'll never be a little girl again.

I still love the time I get to spend with my friends, the gifts that I do get, and the Happy Birthday song. And...the moment. The moment when I look into the fire of those candles, search my heart, for all my hopes and dreams, and make my special Birthday Wish.

Through the years, a lot has changed, but that special moment of my own wonderful secret wish never has. I have had 16 birthdays, and I can not remember one birthday wish I ever made, but you know, it really doesn't matter. In a few days, I will be 17. I will have a small party with friends and candles. They will gather around and sing "Happy Birthday" to me, and I will smile, and be the part of me that's five, and make a wish that the moment would never end.

Question of the Month

Do you really take suggestions in the suggestion box seriously? Yes. Each suggestion is reviewed at bi-weekly staff meetings and then taken to the monthly local board meeting. These suggestions are carefully weighed when making up the budget for the following year and in writing for grant monies. From the suggestion box has come the installation of a public Internet workstation and because of current comments, we are working towards securing an additional Internet workstation for the public. Specific book recommendations have been very welcome and reviews for those book titles or subject areas have been sought. If they've met the NWRL materials selection guidelines, they have been purchased. The Dial-a-Story unit was purchased with a donation solicited from the Eagles Club in response to the suggestion box requests. Many useful suggestions on making the library more user friendly have also been implemented such as how we list the telephone books, signage in the reference area and more. The workshops held on the Electronic Library this spring were in response to requests for PAC, Internet and other automated databases training. The suggestion box is an extremely useful tool to us to help serve you better. It is your library and the only way to serve you properly is to know what you need.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Paper Bag Caterpillar

Give paper lunch bags to your child to fill about three-quarters full with pieces of crumpled newspaper. Staple each bag closed about three inches from the top. Have your child paint the sides and bottoms of his/her bags green. Allow the bags to dry. Then lay them down in a line with the flat top part of one bag under the stuffed bottom part of another bag, and tape all the bags together to form a "caterpillar." Let your child glue eyes and antennae cut from black construction paper onto the caterpillar's head to complete this project.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need construction paper, a hole punch, liquid starch and tissue paper.

Too Much Television?

When it comes to television, parents need to be role models and help their children learn critical television viewing skills, according to the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP). In a revised policy statement, the academy says that children who watch a lot of television may score lower on academic tests and are more prone to violent or aggressive behavior and obesity.

"By the time the average child reaches age 70, he or she will have spent seven to ten years watching television, the academy says. Families should choose the programs children watch, and parents should limit their children's television viewing to no more than one to two hours per day."

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Parents also should take advantage of high-quality video cassettes and watch television with their children to help interpret what they see, according to the academy.

The News From Here

Allyson Mann

Dietary Tactics

It took all the resolve I had, but this afternoon I managed to get out of the grocery store, my diet intact.

First, I should tell it to you straight. I never really diet, per se. What I do instead is make broad, sweeping commitments to my body involving the absence of some type of food, say anything with sugar in it. That way when I see a bag of jelly beans I just have to eat, I always feel better about diving head first into a bag of chips.

Where's the diet, you ask? Exactly, I say.

And because in real life I don't have much of a sweet tooth, this arrangement works fine, except for days like today when I wake up with sugar on my brain --

I was clumsily fastening the bicycle padlock to the cupboard doors when my 13-year-old daughter Francis came into the kitchen and stopped short. "What are you doing?" she asked.

"Hiding the cookies," I said.

"It's a sugar-on-the-brain day, huh?" she asked, casually munching the candy bar she held in her hand.

My own hands flew to my face. "Get that candy bar out of here immediately!" I gasped.

"What? This?" she asked, stepping toward me with malicious intent.

"Out of here!" I cried, protecting myself.

She sat down at the kitchen table instead. "You know," she said. "I think you should try being like everybody else for a while."

"I should ditch the bicycle padlocks and buy stock in liquid meals?" I asked.

"No," she said reasonably, shoving the last of the candy bar in her mouth. "I think you shouldn't be so hard on yourself! Everybody eats sweets now and then."

"Oh, I know, but it's always such a shock to me when suddenly my jeans don't fit. I'd rather lock the cupboards occasionally than suffer from bouts of intermittent cardiac arrest."

"Well, I guess," she said, "but you've got to figure out a better way to do it than locking the cupboards and throwing away the key. Why do you throw away the key?"

"Insurance against back pedaling," I explained.

"But doesn't it get expensive?"

"Sure, it does," I agreed. "But that's not the point. The point is to always fit into my jeans."

"You are unreal," she said, shaking her head. Adding, "Next time we go into town, I think we're going to need to pick up another hacksaw blade."

I knew she was right, remembering with how much difficulty we had removed the last lock. "Maybe we should pick up a three-pack this time," I suggested.

"Blades or locks?"

"Well, I suppose both," I said.

She reached into her sweatshirt pocket for another candy bar. "So, tell me again, how far back was it that you became obsessed with your weight?"

"I was twenty years old," I explained, "on my own, having a hard time making ends meet, when I woke up one morning, tried to get dressed and found my clothes didn't fit. Since I couldn't afford a larger wardrobe, I resolved to take a cheaper route — staying away from junky food and buying padlocks with what little money I had."

"And then you met Dad?" she asked.

"Yes," I continued. "That's when I met your dad."

"And you married him — "

"Strictly for financial reasons," I said. "He had a good job and could support my padlock habit."

"I love that part," she laughed. "But that's not the real reason you married him, right?"

I gave her an incredulous look. "Of course not! What a thing to suggest!"

Q. My wife is going to be 62 soon and plans to retire. I am past that age but still employed. Can she file for Social Security from her own work and then go on mine when I retire? Will my current earnings lower her retirement amount?

A. For Social Security purposes you and your wife are two separate individuals with individual SSA records and benefit possibilities. Making the assumption that your wife has worked enough to be insured for a SSA benefit on her own record, she can receive SSA retirement whether you do or not. Your earnings do not involve her retirement benefits. Once you retire, the agency will consider both of your records to determine if she can receive as a spouse on your record, you can receive as a spouse on her record or if the two of you will remain on your individual records.

Q. If I understand what the SSA representative told me, I can continue working pretty much like I have been doing and still receive Social Security retirement. Can this be true?

A. Your particular case will depend on what you told the SSA representative but, in general, it is certainly possible for some of our clients, especially if they are working part-time or do not earn a lot, to receive retirement without major change to their work habits. For example, a beneficiary less than age 65 can earn $9,120 in 1998 before there is any reduction to benefits payable in the year. If a person earns over that, we would withhold from benefits payable. For example, if you earn $100 over the limit, SSA would hold back $50 from your benefits. For someone between the ages of 65 and 70, this amount is $14,500 with only one-third of earnings over this amount held back. So, for example, a person age 63 and earning no more than $9,120 in gross wages or net self-employment during the year could keep working as usual and still receive SSA benefits during the year assuming all other requirements are met. Someone reaching the age of 65 during the year would use the higher earnings limit. Since people retire all during the year, there is also a monthly work test during the year of retirement which can provide for the payment of benefits after retirement even if earnings were high up to the point of retirement. For more information, call the national number, 1-800-772-1213 and ask about the annual retirement test.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Yes, It Could Be Me

Sometimes I come across something on the internet that tickles me no end. The following conversation is one of those "little nuggets."

I think I find it so funny because the person calling the hot line is so much like me. I may use this machine, but I surely don't know much about it, and when I get into trouble, watch out. I don't have a clue what I am doing. Not only do I know nothing much about how this machine works, but I have always been afraid to call the help line because I figure they'll know I'm really dumb about it.

Anyway, here is the story - hope you can relate to it too. If you can, at least we'll know we aren't alone in our stupidity:

"Ridge Hall computer assistance, may I help you?"
"Yes, well, I'm having trouble with WordPerfect."
"What sort of trouble?"
"Well, I was just typing along, and all of a sudden the words went away."
"Went away?"
"They disappeared."
"Hmm, so what does your screen look like now?"
"Nothing."
"Nothing?"
"It's blank. It won't accept anything when I type."
"Are you still in WordPerfect, or did you get out?"
"How do I tell?"
"Can you see the C:\ prompt on the screen?"
"What's a sea-prompt?"
"Never mind. Can you move the cursor around on the screen?"
"There isn't any cursor. I told you, it won't accept anything I type."
"Does your monitor have a power indicator?"
"What's a monitor?"
"It's the thing with the screen on it that looks like a TV. Does it have a little light that tells you when it's on?"
"I don't know."
"Well, look on the back of the monitor and find where the power cord goes into it. Can you see that?"
"Yes, I think so."
"Great! Follow the cord to the plug, and tell me if it is plugged into the wall."
"Yes, it is."
"When you were behind the monitor, did you notice that there were two cables plugged into the back of it, not just one?"
"No."
"Well, there are. I need you to look back there again and find the other cable."
"Okay, here it is."
"Follow it for me, and tell me if it's plugged securely into the back of your computer."
"I can't reach."
"Uh huh. Well, can you see if it is?"
"No."
"Even if you maybe put your knee on something and lean way over?"
"Oh, it's not because I don't have the right angle - it's because it is dark."
"Dark?"
"Yes, the office light is off and the only light I have is coming in from the window."
"Well, turn on the office light then."
"I can't."
"No, why not?"
"Because there's a power outage."
"A power...a power outage? Aha! Okay, we've got it licked now. Do you still have the boxes and manuals and packing stuff your computer came in?"
"Well, yes, I keep them in the closet."
"Good! Go get them and unplug your system and pack it up just like it was when you got it. Then take it back to the store you bought it from."
"Really? Is it that bad?"
"Yes, I'm afraid it is."
"Well, all right then, I suppose. What do I tell them?"
"Tell them you're too stupid to own a computer."

According to rumor, this was a real conversation between a WordPerfect help line employee and a user who called. The employee in the story was terminated and is presently suing Word Perfect for "Termination Without Cause." At least I'll be sure to check the power before I call a help line from now on.

SPEAKING OF EDUCATION

Jerry Robichean, Superintendent School District 564

Dear Citizens of Independent School District #564:

It's hard to believe that we are fast approaching the end of another school year in Thief River Falls. The year has brought about many changes and many wonderful opportunities for student. We have had a number of students who have competed academically, athletically and in fine arts and have demonstrated a high level of excellence and represented Independent School District #564 in the highest manner. Our hands are extended to them in friendship and in thanks for doing the best they could do in representing themselves, their families and the school district. The continued pursuit of excellence is so evident in the students who attend our school.

We have also seen a number of changes in personnel in our school district this year. Most recently, Chris Mills has been appointed principal at Franklin Middle School to be effective July 1. Mr. Glenn Espe, who has served the district and touched the lives of many children, is retiring at the end of this school year after nearly thirty years in Independent School District #564. Glen Peters, Pat Beauchane, Deone Cerny, Cecelia Stoltman and Joanne Kohler are also retiring after a collective 100+ years of experience in touching the lives of students' in Independent School District #564. We wish each and every one of them the greatest of success in their retirements and we know they take with them some wonderful memories of students they worked with during their careers in public education.

Those of us who remain in Independent School District #564 are excited about all the wonderful opportunities for new staff that will come as a result of the confidence and trust you, the citizens of this district, have bestowed upon us for the care of your students and the education of your children.

Some of the new initiatives in 1998 will be the resurrection of an agricultural education program. We will also be developing a program for gifted and talented students. Our class sizes will be reduced significantly, especially in the primary grades where it is critically important to make sure that students are given a good start in their educational program.

All of this tied together with all the wonderful and high quality instruction that is taking place in each and every classroom in Independent School District #564 makes this, without a doubt, one of the best school systems in the State of Minnesota. It is one of the best because your commitment and your willingness to partner with us, the school administration, staff, and School Board, in providing the quality educational system that we can be proud of. We still have much to do and we will do it together.

Let me now say to those seniors who are graduating in less than thirty days--you are now about to embark on a new adventure. Commencement means a new beginning. You will move into an area either in post-secondary education or to begin a career in the world of work. It is our hope you will take with you the skills and the knowledge that some of the top teachers in the State of Minnesota have given to you. You have been prepared to make the decisions that are right for you and we wish you the very best.

I encourage you to read the book by Dr. Seuss, Oh, The Places You'll Go, because now, as you prepare for graduation, it's the places you've been that have prepared you for the places you'll go. I want to thank each and every one of you who are graduating for allowing us to be a part of your life and for allowing us to, hopefully, make a difference in what you do and where you go and who you become. Be good to yourself, take care of yourself and stay healthy. As Alicia Havliand said at the National Honor Society induction ceremony. "The gift of unconditional love is the gift you receive and the gift of unconditional love is the one that each one of us can give." Remember that gift and share it.

As we approach the end of the year and as we begin to develop plans for the upcoming school year, I invite you, the citizens of Independent School District #564, to give me a call, drop me a note and let me know how we can improve your school system to make it even better for the children of our community.

OJIBWE OF THIEF LAKE AND RED LAKE RIVER IN 1890

In 1890, The Ojibwe people of northern Minnesota were a migrating people, traveling to different camps in the spring, summer, and fall. In the spring they headed for their maple groves--it was their time of sugar making, trapping, hunting, and building their birch bark canoes. By summer they traveled by canoe to their open village sites where they had their garden plots. They stayed in their villages then for their religious ceremonies, especially the Midewiwin ceremony.

During the fall they headed for lakes where wild rice grew, set up harvest camps, and continued their regular hunting and fishing. The coming of winter caused them to break into family units to head for their individual hunting grounds in forested areas. In deep winter they had to travel on snowshoes and haul supplies by dog sled. By 1850 the Red Lake bands sometime moved their winter camps west to the prairie to hunt buffalo, just as their predecessors, the Dakota and the Woodland people had for hundreds of years.

The people who lived "Where the Two Rivers Meet," now the land of Centennial Park and Northland Community and Technical College, also followed this pattern. An early settler left us a description of these villagers of the Thief and Red Lake Rivers.

Charles Berg was 13 years old when he came in 1890 with his Swedish father, John, and his brother, Gustav, to the Thief Lake area. They were the first white settlers in what is now Thief Lake Township, Marshall County. Charles grew up as a neighbor of the Ojibwe people who lived there, and later was interviewed by Edna Thygeson of Middle River:

"Early In the fall of 1890 a good sized band of Indians came north to the Thief Lake territory as had been their custom for many years, to spend their winters at their old established encampment site on the sand ridge about two miles north of the Albert Anderson farm.

"They came with ponies and sleds following their winding trail which jutted in here and there forming the best natural highway by land.

"The Sand Ridge camp consisted of about ten families. They lived in well-built log houses. The cracks between the logs were filled with mud and moss. Their bunk beds were made from split cedar logs. There were very few furnishings in these homes with hard packed dirt floors.

"The women were always busy tanning the many deer and moose hides and making plain and beaded articles to wear and for sale. The jackets and pants would be made from deer hides but the tougher, heavier leather of the moose hides would be used for their cleverly fashioned moccasins.

The men were an industrious group also. One would rarely find them at home in the daytime as they spent their time away hunting, trapping or fishing.

The Reservation at that time was large. It extended from the present Red Lake to Thief River to lower Mud Lake, then diagonally north to Roseau county.

"The Sand Ridge Indians encampment always moved south, sometimes in March and before the frost left the ground. They always used their same well-defined trail which led south and east until it came to Thief Lake River just south of where the Thief Lake Dam is located today. There they had a natural fording place. They would cross over but would follow the river south past our home, often making camp and staying overnight on this land.

"In the evenings after they had pitched their teepees they would play their drums and dance.

"The next stop would be at the T O Moe place. Here they would do their trading at the Ware store, the only one in the territory. They bought mostly flour, matches, other necessary things, and tea (they never drank coffee). Then they continued southward following the Thief Lake River until they arrived at Mud Lake where they were most careful to keep on the east side of the reservation line.

"Eventually the little group would arrive home to their Great Chief Miscoconay's Camp, which was located at the fork of the two rivers: Thief Lake River and Red Lake River, just east of the present city of Thief River Falls.

"There would be much merry making and celebrating at their return. But in a few days the group would split up again and this time the journey north would be by boat. There would be some of the old faces but many new faces added to this migrating group. They came up the Thief Lake River in strong, and large, yet light canoes, beautifully and artistically decorated. Some of these canoes had unusual trimmings made from split roots wound about the top edge, forming geometrical designs. They all took great pride in their canoes' appearances and would come up in the river so silently. The settlers living along its banks oftentimes never were aware of their moving.

"Their summer camp was located on the bank of (what is now) Thief Lake Game Refuge. This camp was much larger than the winter camp and everyone lived in tepees.

"The men trapped muskrat from the rat-houses on Thief Lake. The hides were removed, dried, and the carcasses were cleaned, salted and hung in the sun to become dried meat for food.

"The fishermen were very busy too, for Thief Lake was almost over-supplied with large northerns, suckers, bullheads, and other fish. They fished with hand made gill nets. The surplus fish were salted, smoked and dried for future use."

Building a wall 2,000 feet underground poses challenge

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Every once in a while you come upon a truly unique occupation or job that leaves you not even knowing what questions to ask. About six weeks ago, Harry Oxford, a brother to Cathy Erickson of Middle River, and the son of the late Verlin and Mary Oxford of Waubun, completed one of those unusual, head-shaking, unique jobs.

Oxford of Oxford Construction of Aurora, recently completed work on the Soudan 2 Underground Laboratory, an underground research site for physics, located in an old iron mine in northeastern Minnesota. The physics laboratory is operated by the School of Physics and Astronomy of the University of Minnesota in the Twin Cities.

Oxford said he has lived in the area for 30-plus years and had never been there. They have tours all summer long, he said. One of the tunnels or "drifts", he explained, shows what miners did when the mine was in operation. Other tunnels are dedicated to science research.

According to information provided to visitors, the Soudan Laboratory is one of a handful of deep underground physics laboratories located at sites around the world. The literature says the major reason for the deep underground location is to shield the sensitive energy detectors from cosmic rays raining down on the earth from outer space — makes sense doesn't it. Of course everyone knows that these cosmic ray particles deposit tiny flashes of energy in all matter which they traverse, making it necessary to conduct the experiments in underground facilities — 2,300 feet of dirt and rock helps.

According to barely understandable explanation (for laymen), experiments at the facility focus on three major topics: the stability of matter (nucleon decay), the nature and interaction patterns of the cosmic rays, and the properties of particles called neutrinos, which provide a sensitive test of the mechanisms of the fundamental interactions — uh huh.

How does Harry Oxford of Oxford Construction fit into this story? Recently a large collaboration of scientists proposed a major new initiative to measure neutrino masses. In this undertaking a beam of neutrinos produced at a particle accelerator at Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory, near Chicago, will be directed to the Soudan laboratory traversing 730km of dirt and rock. To complete this experiment or study, a new laboratory and detector will be added to the current facilities at the Soudan Laboratory when this plan is implemented.

Okay, in very simple terms, in order to build the new laboratory they needed someone to build a blast wall to protect sensitive equipment — some 2,000 feet underground.

Oxford said they used a hoist operated by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources to take material and equipment to the site 2,300 feet below the surface. There was a ladder all the way to the surface in case there were some problems, which there wasn't.

At 2,300 feet below the surface they constructed a couple of walls, one was 12-feet wide by six-inches thick. Another wall was about eight by 10. The walls were designed to protect other areas of the facility from blasting which will take place during construction of another tunnel for the new equipment.

The work, while unusual, didn't pose too many difficulties. Oxford said workers didn't have to take any extra special precautions while working in the facility. At that depth, the temperature was about 50 to 60-degrees Fahrenheit, which made it comfortable for that time of year.

All in all it was a just rather unique job at a unique facility.

Grygla Lions, Lioness sponsor blood drive

Blood drive coordinator, Rolph Rundell, along with the Grygla Lions and Lioness, have sponsored another successful blood drive in Grygla. Seventy-five people volunteered to donate, and 65 were able to give. Thirteen people gave blood for the first time. Once again, participation by the staff and students from the Grygla school had a major impact on the turnout.

According to Rhonda Ellefson, community relations representative for United Blood Services, "Communities like Grygla/Gatzke/Skime make a regional blood program work. People volunteer to donate when there has been a well organized campaign, informing the public of the need for blood."

Those who assisted with the drive were Ione Aune, Roy Nordby, Hazel Aune, Hazel Holthusen, Alva Sparby, Randy Homme, Lynette Jelle, Ida Stanley, Phyllis Wikert, Ardell Roen and Eunice Stavness. Space to hold the drive was provided at the Grygla Community Center.

Stanley Sahlstrom receives UMC Equine Award

Stanley D. Sahlstrom, founding provost of the University of Minnesota at Crookston (UMC) was presented with the UMC Equine Award at the Northwest Minnesota Equine Conference held recently on the Crookston campus. The award was presented to Sahlstrom, who is the first recipient of the award, for exemplary service to the equine industry.

The award will be named the STAN award to commemorate the spirit, talent, attitude and neighborliness of Sahlstrom. In the future, the award will be presented to individuals who bring those same attributes to their service in support of the equine industry.

NJCAA Region 13 softball tournament...

Pioneers earn playoff berth

First-ever appearance at the National Junior College Athletic Association Region 13 tournament awaits the Northland Community and Technical College softball team as the Pioneers head to Willmar for the five-team, round-robin event that will be played Friday and Saturday.

There are still regular season games to be played in the Minnesota Community College Conference, along with the May 15-16 MCCC state tournament in Grand Rapids, but the top two teams in the Northern and Southern Division standings at the close of play over the weekend became regional qualifiers.

Itasca and Northland advance from the Northern Division with 8-2 and 7-3 MCCC records, respectively. North Hennepin earned the No. 1 seed in the Southern Division, with a second-place tie developing between Ridgewater and Rochester.

Northland draws Montana representative Dawson Community College at 6 p.m. in Friday's opening round Region 13 draw. Itasca will play the Southern Division runner-up and North Hennepin draws a bye, awaiting the winner of the Northland-Dawson game.

The Pioneers clinched a spot in the regional tournament with a 19-2, 12-3 Northern Division doubleheader sweep over Mesabi Range Friday at Virginia. Saturday, Northland lost both ends of a divisional twinbill against Vermilion at Ely, 4-0 and 12-9. The Pioneers committed four errors and gave up four unearned runs in Game 1, then picked up eight more errors in Game 2.

"We're pretty excited about the opportunity to play in the regional tournament," noted Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "Up until Saturday, I was feeling pretty confident. Friday, we played excellent ball – real crisp. Saturday, they just weren't there, we were real sluggish. I'm hoping that was just something that happened, and we got it out of our system."

Friday's two victories gave the Pioneers 10 wins in an 11-game stretch. Saturday's outing was just the second time this spring Northland lost both ends of a doubleheader – the last time also coming against Vermilion in a 10-0, 9-2 twinbill at Northland back on April 10.

The Pioneers are 15-6 overall.

Region 13 champion will advance to the 1998 NJCAA Division III national tournament May 21-23 in Rochester.

Despite cool and windy conditions, runners turned in good times for the 1998 Health in the Long Run in Thief River Falls last weekend. The number of entrants in the 1998 Health in the Long Run was also down from the previous year. A total of 167 people participated in the 2.1 or 6.2 mile races.

Overall winner in the 2.1 mile event was Evan Jones, who turned in a time of 14:45. Renee Tastad turned in a 15:44 for the event to win the women's 2.1 race.

TRF boys in pair of Park Rapids meets

■ Boys high school golf

A Friday trip to Park Rapids for boys high school golf meant a pair of meets for the participants, who competed in the usual team fashion at the Headwaters course and also played a two-man scramble format at Blueberry Pines.

Bemidji won the team event at Headwaters with a 307 and a four-stroke victory margin over runner-up Detroit Lakes. Thief River Falls tied for eighth in the 29-team field at 328.

Joe Motzko of Bemidji was medalist with a 70. The Prowlers were led by a 77 from Adam Nordin, which earned him a tenth place medal.

At Blueberry Pines, participating schools fielded three two-man teams for the scramble, an event won by a Bemidji tandem with a 61. Thief River Falls' John Sjoberg and Nordin combined for a 63 and a tie for second place in the medal standings.

Although no official team scores were kept in the scramble, combining scores of the two-man teams fielded by each school would have produced a first place tie between Thief River Falls and Roseau at 196, pointed out Prowlers coach Dick Tyler. Fergus Falls would have been a third place finisher at 199.

The Prowlers, who were scheduled to golf at East Grand Forks Tuesday, will play host to a Friday invitational at the Thief River Golf Club beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Moorhead no-hits Prowlers' softball squad, win by 5-1

Thief River Falls was held without a base hit, but still played Moorhead tough in Monday high school softball, losing to the host Spuds 5-1.

"The kids did an excellent job," reported Thief River Falls coach Ken Fletcher. "I was real happy with the performance."

Thief River Falls gained a 1-0 lead in the third inning when Sonia Carlson drew one of her three walks and scored on a three-base error off a ball hit by Stephanie Leach.

Moorhead didn't score until the fifth inning when a walk and an error were followed by a triple.

The Spuds tacked on three sixth inning runs to protect the 2-1 lead in the North Sub-Section 8AA match-up.

"We played right with them," noted Fletcher. "We were swinging the bat – not just standing up there looking for walks – but we're just not finding the holes."

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 3-10.

A play at the plate resulted in an out as Thief River Falls catcher Joey Pribula applied the tag to Red Lake County runner Dusty Buse in the fourth inning of Monday's high school baseball game at Irv Wilson Field. Buse was thrown out by left fielder Wade Chiodo as he tried to score from second base on a single by Matt Hruby. The Prowlers won the game 2-1.

Prowlers win in the seventh

Thief River Falls outfielders threw out Red Lake County runners at third base and home plate Monday, leading to a 2-1 win for the Prowlers in a high school baseball game played at Irv Wilson Field.

It was a tough day on the bases for the visitors, who lost four runners – on a stolen base attempt in the first inning; a pick-off play at first in the second inning; at home when left fielder Wade Chiodo gunned down Dusty Buse trying to score from second on a single down the line by Matt Hruby in the fourth inning; and at third when center fielder Jeremy Swanson nailed Aaron Cardinal as he tried to advance two bases on a fifth inning single by Randy Raymond.

Those plays cost the Red Lake Falls/Oklee/Plummer cooperative potential runs and left the Chris Nelson-coached squad with a 1-0 lead through 5 1/2 innings. The run was unearned as Mike Roff reached base on an error to open the fourth, moved up on a single by Buse and a sacrifice bunt by Chris Swendra before scoring on the single to left by Hruby that also led to the out at third.

Thief River Falls tied it during an interesting sixth inning that began with Andy Harbott drawing a walk and stealing second. Jarod Reierson put down a sacrifice bunt that produced a throw to third base – too late to get Harbott, and giving the Prowlers two runners with no out.

One out and a Reierson steal of second later, Mike Dowers drove a ball back at Raymond on the mound. Harbott was caught off the bag on the play, but as the throw went to third, he broke for the plate, and wound up scoring when the ball popped out of Roff's glove.

Reierson went to third on the play, and moments later was caught in the same position as Harbott when a hard-hit Joey Pribula ball up the middle was fielded by Raymond. This time the runner was caught in a rundown between home and third and was tagged out.

The base running errors continued when Dowers was picked off second for the third out of the inning.

Thief River Falls came back to score the game-winning run in the seventh following a lead-off walk issued to Andrew Solem. An attempted sacrifice bunt by Derek Berg resulted in a force out at second base, but Chiodo singled to center to move Berg to second. That prompted a pitching change as Nelson, a Thief River Falls graduate, brought Mark Lorensen in for Raymond. Swanson, the first batter to face Lorenson, sliced a 2-1 pitch down the right field line for a tie-breaking single.

Both Raymond and Thief River Falls pitcher Casey Skjerven pitched strong games, with Raymond giving up only three hits and Skjerven scattering six. They both struck out seven.

It was just the third win in 10 starts for the Prowlers, who lost a season-opening 15-5 decision to Red Lake County in Red Lake Falls. It was the first loss of the year for the visitors, who are 7-1-1.

"It was a good baseball game," said Thief River Falls coach Brent Polum. "It was fun to watch. We made some stupid base running mistakes, but it was a really nice win for us. Everybody contributed at some point in the game, either in the field, at bat or on the bases."

DNR NEWS

New Fishing Regulations

Minnesota anglers need to be aware of new fishing regulations when they venture out for the start of the 1998 fishing season, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. New special or experimental regulations will be in place on Mille Lacs Lake and Upper Red Lake, as well as 15 other lakes around the state.

On Mille Lacs Lake, there will be a 15-inch minimum size limit for walleye, with only one walleye over 20 inches allowed in a person's possession limit. This is the same walleye size limit that was in place during the 1997 season. New for 1998 on Mille Lacs is a "protected slot limit" for northern pike. The slot limit requires all northern pike from 26 inches through 36 inches to be immediately released, with only one over 36 inches allowed in a person's possession limit. The night fishing ban on Mille Lacs will start at 10 p.m. May 11 and end at 12:01 a.m. June 8.

On Upper Red Lake, the possession limit for walleye has been reduced from six to two. This step was necessary to protect Red Lake's depleted walleye population.

New experimental regulations will be in place on other lakes across the state, and people with a taste for fresh snapping turtle should be aware that it is now illegal to harvest one in Minnesota during the months of May and June. This restriction is intended to protect snapping turtles during their egg-laying period.

White Pine Care Kits

White pine care kits are now available to private landowners through the partnering efforts of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and some of the state's soil and water conservation districts—The DNR nurseries gave 1,300 kits to participating SWCDs for distribution to private landowners who purchase at least 25 white pine seedlings.

The free care kit includes a White Pine Planting and Care Guide that provides the landowner with tips and information on how to successfully plant and protect white pine seedlings, 25 wire marker flags that will help the landowners locate small seedlings for follow-up care, and bud-capping paper that can be used as a sleeve to protect a small seedling's terminal bud from being browsed by deer during the winter.

The 20 counties participating in the program are Aitkin, Anoka, Beltrami, Benton, Cass, Chisago, Clearwater, Cook, Crow Wing, Goodhue, Hubbard, Kanabec, Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, eastern Otter Tail, Washington, and Winona. Landowners interested in obtaining white pine seedlings and a free care kit should contact their local participating SWCD office.

"The number of available kits and white pine seedlings is limited," said Gaylord Paulson, DNR white pine management coordinator. "Interested landowners should contact their local participating SWCD office as soon as possible."

The care kits are part of the state's initiative to increase the amount of white pine in the landscape. Their purpose, according to Paulson, is to get as many of the state's private landowners involved as possible in planting and caring for white pine. "We're not looking for large plantations of white pine," he said. "We're just trying to get 25 or more white pine per acre growing scattered throughout the forest landscape where it grew naturally in the past."

Lands currently in private ownership account for almost 50 percent of those areas where white pine was common in pre-European settlement times.

Copies of just the White Pine Planting and Care Guide are available by calling 1-888-MINNDNR toll free. More detailed information on bud capping and pruning white pine is available in field sheets that can be obtained by calling 612-215-5925 or by contacting DNR forestry offices.

Lincoln choir to get early start for New York flight

New York director conducts four-hour rehearsal Thursday

A 2:15 a.m. departure time from Lincoln high school awaits the 71 members of the Lincoln concert choir who will leave Thursday for a six day concert, educational and sight-seeing trip to New York City.

"A year's worth of work will be paying off for these dedicated students," notes choir director Darcy Reese. "They will leave Lincoln for Fargo, ND, where they will board two separate planes and arrive in New York City by 1 p.m. Events will start as soon as they arrive at the Grand Hyatt hotel."

Mrs. Reese has arranged for three performances to take place while on this fast-paced tour. On Friday from 11:30 a.m. to noon they will perform a half-hour concert in St. John the Divine cathedral—the largest Gothic cathedral in the world and located in Harlem, across from Columbus University.

Saturday they will sing for 15 minutes before mass begins, during communion and during the recessional at St. Patrick's Cathedral on Madison Avenue. Their selections will be in English, Latin and Russian.

Final performance of the tour will be at Carnegie Hall on Monday, May 11, at 8 p.m. At this concert they will be performing Mozart's Mass in C Minor along with four other high school and college choirs from four states. Dr. Griffith, head conductor for MidAmerica Productions out of New York City, will conduct the combined choirs in the concert after rehearsing with the students for 10 hours while they are in New York City.

Last Thursday, April 30, Dr. Griffith was in Thief River Falls to work with the choir for a four-hour rehearsal. He gave them last-minute pointers and said he felt very good about what he heard when he worked with the singers. He said he was very impressed with their abilities and is confident that all the choirs will bring their developed talents together and present an outstanding performance.

In addition to their rehearsals and performances, the students will attend two Broadway shows and one opera while in the Big Apple. The Broadway shows are Bring in the Noise, Bring in da Funk and Titanic. The opera will be at the Metropolitan Opera House where the students will see and hear the Kirov Opera Company from Russia perform Ruslan and Lyudmila.

The students will also be using the subway system a lot and walking everywhere else, Mrs. Reese said. They plan on covering as much of Manhattan as possible during the six days.

Grams calls for hike in funds for PILT program

Sen. Rod Grams of Minnesota has called for an increase of $15 million in the federal government's Payment in Lieu of Taxes (PILT) program by sending a letter to the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Interior requesting the change.

Grams said he wrote the letter "due to the fact that several northern Minnesota counties lose a portion of their tax base because they have significant amounts of public lands within their borders."

"All Americans pay taxes to help defray the cost of maintaining our federal public lands, but most Americans do not realize that every acre of federal land in a county is one less acre local governments can assess to maintain the very public health and safety services everyone expects and demands when they visit these areas," he said.

The PILT program is used to offset costs incurred by counties for services provided to the users of public lands. Congress provided $120 million to fund the program for fiscal year 1998. In his letter, signed by 19 of his Senate colleagues, Sen. Grams requested that funding for fiscal 1999 be increased to $135 million.

"We understand the subcommittee is operating under significant budget limitations. We share your concerns for fiscal integrity and believe this item would be a responsible priority within a responsible Interior Appropriations bill and a balanced budget."

Most of the gymnasium floor was covered with tables for seating delegates who endorsed incumbent Collin Peterson for U.S. Congress and gave Hubert H. (Skip) Humphrey III a majority of support in a straw poll among candidates for Governor. Resolutions were adopted and other business transacted at the convention.

Collin Peterson as candidate for Congress. Peterson received the endorsement on the second ballot.

Legion Auxiliary is set to distribute poppies in TRF

Distribution of American Legion Auxiliary poppy cards to Thief River Falls business and professional places will take place May 7 to 9, according to Loretta B. Stowe, who is chairing this year's local event.

Street distribution of American Legion poppies will be conducted May 21-24, which have been designated as Poppy Days by Auxiliary Unit 117 in Thief River Falls.

Planned to be conducted near the Memorial Day holiday, the annual event pays tribute to all of America's veterans of five wars and two conflicts. It serves as well as honors the veteran with all proceeds from the distribution invested in local programs for the veteran and his or her family.

Each nine-piece poppy is made by veterans in Auxiliary-sponsored poppy shops that supplement physical and psychological therapy needed by hospitalized and disabled veterans. The Auxiliary provides the materials and the volunteers. The veterans make the poppies and are paid a small amount for each one. For some it is their only income.

No matter what the cost of maintaining and supplying the poppy shops, the memorial poppy is never sold but given in exchange for a contribution.

The poppy program has been part of Auxiliary programming for more than 70 years. It has been estimated that approximately 25 million Americans wear the poppy to honor America's war dead and all veterans, contributing over $2 million for rehabilitation and welfare programs.

In proclaiming May 21-24 as Legion Auxiliary Poppy Days in Thief River Falls, Mayor Mark Borsheim asks all citizens to pay tribute to those who have made the ultimate sacrifice in the name of freedom by wearing the memorial poppies.

"America is the land of freedom, preserved and protected willingly and freely by citizen soldiers," he said. "Millions who have answered the call to arms have died on the field of battle. A nation at peace must be reminded of the price of war and the debt owed to those who have died in war.

"The red poppy has been designated as a symbol of sacrifice of lives in all wars, and the American Legion Auxiliary has pledged to remind America annually of this debt through the distribution of the memorial flower."

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Several animals held in TRF animal pound

Several dogs are being held in the Thief River Falls Animal Pound. They will be kept for a minimum of 10 days. They can be claimed by their owner or adopted by any individual willing to care for the pet. For more information about the following pets call the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center at 681-6161: a male shepherd, impounded April 27, on South Markley; a female dalmatian, impounded April 27 in Marshall County; a female lab/setter, impounded May 1 in St. Hilaire; and a female doberman, impounded May 2, along Highway 59.

Five arrested after burglaries investigated

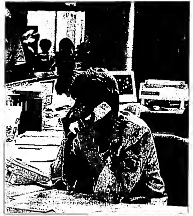
Four juveniles and one adult were arrested after law enforcement officials investigated two burglaries that occurred sometime during the evening of April 29 or early morning of April 30.

At about 4:30 a.m. the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center received a report of a burglary at a Rocksbury township business. Someone had entered the business and had taken an undetermined amount of cash and product. As officers were conducting their investigation, dispatch at the law enforcement center notified them of a report of a burglary at another nearby business. Again cash and other property were taken. Upon investigating the second burglary officers became concerned about the graffiti left behind and requested assistance from other law enforcement agencies. Eventually, officers from the Minnesota State Patrol, Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, Thief River Falls Police department, Pennington County Sheriff's department and enforcement division of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources cooperated in the investigation.

On the afternoon of April 29 four juveniles, three ages 15 and one 16, all males of Thief River Falls, and one adult, Shannan Lee Martin, 19, Thief River Falls, were arrested. Charges against these individuals are pending.

Through their continued investigation of the case, officers learned of another burglary which had occurred at a local residence. Alcohol, cash, jewelry and a handgun were taken.

Officers report that some of the stolen property have been recovered, and that the investigation is continuing.



Despite all the activity surrounding the open house held at Altru Clinic in Thief River Falls Friday, it was business as usual. Several calls were coming in and appointments were being made as people visited the new clinic office space on the Northwest Medical Center campus.

The THE TIMES SECOND FRONT

Volume 87, Number 18 Wednesday, May 6, 1998

Student council awards were presented recently at the Goodridge high school awards and honors program. Award recipients from left include, front, Dena Wiseth, secretary of the Goodridge student council and Jennicca Gallegher, treasurer of the Northwest District— Minnesota Association of Student Councils; back, Ben Henson, Goodridge council president; Kristin Halvorson, treasurer; and Amie Kotrbe, vice president.

Special session in Minnesota helps all businesses in state

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf is saying the so-called "Marvin Windows" bill will be good for all Minnesota businesses which are potential victims of fraud.

"By now you've probably heard about the special session to pass the so-called "Marvin Windows" bill. While it's true we became aware of the federal court's misinterpretation of state law because of the Marvin Windows and Doors case against one of their suppliers, PPG Industries, the bill we passed will be good for all Minnesota businesses who are potential victims of fraud.

"The Governor called a special session of the state Legislature so that we might have an opportunity to correct a federal court's misinterpretation of Minnesota State Statutes dealing with legal remedies for fraud. One of the state's largest employers — Marvin Windows — has reason to believe it has been defrauded by one of its suppliers, PPG Industries.

"Marvin believes that a wood preservative product sold to them by PPG did not perform as claimed, and now thousands of their windows manufactured between 1985 and 1989 are rotting prematurely. In its defense, PPG claimed in federal court that a 1991 state law protected them from paying damages to Marvin, even if Marvin could prove that PPG actually did commit fraud. They asked the court to dismiss the case on these grounds.

"As it happens, I was the author of the 1991 law that PPG is using as a defense. I can tell you that at no time, when the 1991 law was considered in several legislative committees, did the idea of providing a "safe harbor" for business fraud come into the discussion. Really, the idea that our state government would make it easier for businesses to commit fraud in our state is quite ridiculous. Marvin asked the Legislature simply to clarify the actual intent of the 1991 law. After about 20 hours of hearings and debate in the House and Senate over the past several weeks, the clarification language was passed and the Governor promptly signed the bill into law.

"Because Marvin Windows is vital to the economy of northwestern Minnesota, the Legislature and Governor felt it was important that we make this clarification now, so that their lawsuit could go forward. Marvin Windows employs more than 3,200 people in Warroad, and having their suit dismissed might have affected the ability of the company to continue operations.

"However, it is very important to note that this new law will only have an impact on businesses that have been found guilty of fraud. The clarification will not make it easier for any business — including Marvin Windows — to prove it was defrauded. Without this legislation, however, Marvin Windows probably would not have been able to get its day in court to prove it was defrauded.

"I was honored to be the chief Senate author of the clarification. I'm glad we could convince the rest of the Legislature to do the right thing."

Government begins direct deposits of Social Security and SSI benefits

Starting next year, almost everyone who gets Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) will get benefits electronically. This means that instead of sending a paper check, the government will "direct deposit" benefits into your bank account.

The news of direct deposit has frightened many Social Security and SSI recipients who do not have bank accounts, according to Community Legal Education Program in Minneapolis. Knowing that people are afraid, some check cashing stores and finance companies have tried to sell expensive "direct deposit accounts" to them. Don't be fooled into wasting your money on an overpriced "direct deposit account." If you do not have a bank account, and you get SSI or Social Security, here is some good news.

1) You will not lose your benefits because you don't have a bank account. It's that simple. You will not lose your benefits because you don't have a bank account.

2) Direct deposit will not start until January 1, 1999. So, you have time to decide what you want to do. If you decide to open your own bank account, choose one carefully. Try to find an account that will have no fees or very low fees. For example, many banks have "thrift" savings accounts that are very cheap for direct depositors. For more information on selecting a bank account, call the Legal Aid Society of Minneapolis and ask for an information sheet on banking: (612) 588-2099.

3) If you don't have a bank account on January 1, 1999, the government will set one up for you. The government will pick a bank for you and give you a special account there called an "Electronic Transfer Account" or ETA. Your benefits will be put into your ETA account each month automatically. You will get a debit card that you can use to withdraw your benefits at an ATM machine or to use your benefits to purchase things at certain stores. ETA accounts will probably be more restricted than other kinds of bank accounts; for example you probably will not be able to deposit your own money into the account. And they will probably be cheap, but not free.

4) Some people will be able to keep getting paper checks. If you can't use a bank account or an ETA, you may be able to get a waiver. A waiver means you will keep getting your benefits by paper check — rather than through direct deposit. For example, if you live in a rural area and there are no banks or ATM machines near you, you may be able to get a waiver. Or if you have a physical disability that would make it difficult for you to use a bank or ATM, you be eligible for a waiver.

Finally, if you owe someone money, be careful. People to whom you owe money can sometimes take money directly out of your bank account through a process called "garnishment." But they are not supposed to garnish your Social Security or SSI benefits. This money is "exempt" — or protected — from garnishment. (However, SSI benefits are not exempt if you leave them in your bank account for more than 60 days.)

When a creditor tells your bank that they want to garnish your account, the bank will send you a set of forms. In order to claim your SSI or Social Security exemption, you should fill out the forms and immediately return them to your bank and to the creditor. Hand deliver them if you can. If the creditor objects to your exemption, call a lawyer right away. Also, call a lawyer if you think you are entitled to an exemption, but the garnishment has already started. For more information, call or write the Legal Aid Society of Minneapolis and ask for a fact sheet on garnishment. Our phone number (612) 588-3099, and our address is Community Legal Education, Legal Aid Society of Minneapolis, 2507 Fremont Avenue North, Minneapolis MN 55411.

Worker Shortage A New Minnesota Problem

"For most of Minnesota's history, there have not been enough employment opportunities to satisfy demand. That's changed."

This statement in a Blandin Foundation report entitled Worker Education for the 21st Century says in the most succinct terms what the situation is in Minnesota employment today. At long last, according to reports, it is more difficult for employers to find suitable workers than it is for workers to find suitable employment.

We don't know what the writers of the report know about Minnesota history, but we have experienced some of it. Back in the 50's finding employment wasn't all that difficult—but neither was the work to be done. Skills required were simpler and a good work ethic and honest approach to life went a long way in getting and keeping a job. While technology may have made life easier, it has also made work more complicated.

The key point in the Blandin Foundation report is that for Minnesota business to continue to develop and provide employment opportunities for Minnesotans, it must have a supply of workers who are not only trained to start a job but willing and able to continue learning while employed.

In a survey, Dun & Bradstreet recently found that 56 percent of the Minnesota small businesses it surveyed cannot find an adequate number of skilled workers. To the amazement of some, it was the top concern of Minnesota's small business owners.

While much of the public policy debate seems to focus on how to train workers just entering the workforce, many employers appear to be more concerned about retraining current workers, the Blandin report notes.

Minnesota State Economist Thomas F. Stinson points out that more than 80 percent of the people who will make up the state's labor force in the year 2005 are already in the labor force today. "New entrants to the labor force are important," Stinson says, "but their numbers will be small compared to the numbers of those already working."

It is also pointed out that training programs must take more into account than employers' needs. Employees understand that they bare primary responsibility for being prepared for work and they are ready to take charge of their lifelong learning paths. But they face obstacles.

"People have so many demands at work and at home," says Christine Matuzek-Rivas, education director for the Minnesota AFL-CIO. "People are having to work harder and harder to make ends meet, and making time for training is tough."

The National Research Council has determined that the average worker's skills now become obsolete in just three years. Workers cannot be expected to bear the entire burden of financing their training needs nor finding the edfication they need that can be received on their own time.

"Worker training must be a partnership," Matuzek-Rivas says. "Workers will take the initiative, but employers are going to have to make time for training, and government and employers will have to provide adequate financial assistance. Minnesota workers are embracing the challenge to be lifelong learners, but they can't be expected to go it alone."

The Blandin report calls attention to at least a couple of businesses that haven't waited for the government to find solutions. The Shooting Star Casino in Mahnomen has two full-time, in-house trainers and a tuition program that provides up to $1,500 a year for employees. Last year the Lund Boat Company at New York Mills went so far as to establish the Lund Corporate University in conjunction with Northwest Technical College.

"Government and education are bureaucratic organizations that are too slow to change," states Mark Oeckter, vice president of operations for Lund Boat Company. "As soon as they have made a course correction, they look up and find that industry has charted a new course. Government can no longer view education at K-12. It's more like K-88."

Some educational facilities are responding to the challenge with innovation. Minnesota West Community and Technical College at Canby uses a 48-foot semi-trailer outfitted with 14 welding stations to travel from community to community to train workers. "The days of waiting around for the workers to come to us are gone," college vice president Roger Fransen says. "We're bringing the training to the workers."

Since metropolitan communities have a larger labor pool to draw from and more educational facilities available, non-metro communities are at a disadvantage until they find ways to create more well-trained workers.

"Rural areas face unique challenges because of their distance from higher education institutions that provide much of the job training," says Ann Glumac of the Iron Mining Association of Minnesota.

"The workforce in Greater Minnesota as a whole is aging and retiring," adds Mary Eaton, vice president of Northwest Technical College in Bemidji. "Many of these individuals are key managers. Companies need to capture the knowledge these employees possess to ensure critical skill retention."

Who provides training and who pays for it is a constant subject of debate. But Ann Glumac of the Iron Mining Association articulates a broad philosophy that many leaders from various sectors share.

"In terms of basic skills training," she said, "the individual, in combination with the educational institutions that receive public financial support, has the greatest responsibility to pay because the skills remain with the individual and become an asset that will help that worker prosper into the future.

"To the extent that an employer requires specialized skills unique to that workplace, the employer should bear much of the burden for that training because it isn't a transferable skill."

Minnesota employers may not see it that way, but the current problem is a nice problem for the state as a whole to have. There is no guarantee it will last for the long term, but it is an encouraging and positive situation.

For workers, it is a seller's market. They should capitalize on the shortage of qualified people in any way they can, both to profit in the present and position themselves for the future.

In many instances we believe the claimed shortage of workers must be interpreted as a shortage when doing business as usual. If this means low wages, part-time status, few benefits, inconvenient hours and other conditions which are more easily imposed when worker supply exceeds demand, one wonders if the "shortage" is rather worker reaction.

We would suspect that businesses which truly value their workers, pay them what they are worth rather than the least they can get by with paying, and take a humanistic view of workers as people have fewer problems with "shortages" than others. We didn't see that in the Blandin report, but if we had a tendency to gamble we wouldn't hesitate to "make book" on it.

Gully

Brenda Odegaard from Minneapolis has been here the past week to be with her folks, Elmer and Millie Brovold while Elmer was a patient at the Fosston and Bemidji Hospitals.

We enjoyed a fun birthday party for Patty Carlson at the Gully Cafe on Wednesday afternoon. Pam Dyrdahl and Pearl Waine had carefully planned a surprise party and it seemed a miracle we didn't let Patty know. When Edna offered her a treat and Patty stepped into the cafe it was full of "well wishers." The hostesses treated us all to birthday cake, ice cream and coffee. The very young added noises and shrieks of joy as they celebrated Grandma Patty's birthday.

Arnold and Sanna Brovold visited at the Harry and Nora Hanson home on Sunday afternoon. Others there were Olaf and Alvera Olson, Ragna Gunderson and Joann and Wyatt.

Several from Gully attended the Clearbrook volunteer Fire Department Firefighter's fish fry and fund raiser at the Clearbrook American Legion on Saturday evening. Few of us realize how important the "Firemen" are to the community and how much time and effort they are willing to donate for us.

The rice paddies north of here are flooded and the swans have moved in for an unusual sight for us to see. Rev. Bob Dahlen from Goodridge reminded us on Sunday how unusual this is. In their flight across the country from the East Coast, how, in their long journey up into Canada should the swans happen to stop and stay in this area long enough for us to enjoy the unusual sight and beautiful part of nature.

Mr. and Mrs. Marty Levine of Fosston visited her grandmother Effie Handy on Sunday evening.

Lyn Turonne and Effie Handy attended the birthday party for Virgia Kraning's 85th birthday at Longby on Thursday. On Sunday forenoon, Mr. and Mrs. Marty Levine, Delores Spencer, Elaine Noss and Ed and Lyn Turonne visited with Effie.

Gladys Haugen of Proctor has been here visiting her sister, Irene Carlson and other friends and relatives. She rode up with Don and Shirley Ann Sundquist who had been there visiting.

Last Sunday was the last day of Sunday School for Lund for this session. The teachers and pupils put on a review of some of the year's work during the 9:30 a.m. service which was very interesting. Candy Bruggeman, superintendent, handed out certificates to those with perfect attendance. Cory Carlson played the guitar and led the singing. He was one of the teachers along with Tammy and Laurie Carlson.

Brotrud Clinic To Move To New Quarters May 1

"The Brotrud clinic will move its offices Saturday from its present quarters on the main floor of the St. Luke's hospital building to a new location in a completely remodeled building across the street at 109 LaBree avenue South, it was announced today by Dr. Theodore Brotrud, who added that the formal opening will be held later in May.

"The clinic's new home, formerly the Harris apartments, has been completely rebuilt under plans prepared by K. Russell Anderson and executed by Rudolph Fick. The 20-room layout provides four waiting rooms for patients, together with office facilities for ten doctors. There are at present nine doctors on the clinic staff, Dr. Brotrud stated. He added that the laboratory and X-ray departments will remain in the hospital.

"The removal of the clinic from St. Luke's hospital, where it has been located since the opening of the institution in January, 1931, will permit an acutely needed expansion of the hospital's facilities, it was revealed.

"With other changes to be made on the main floor of the hospital, space will be provided there for a total of 24 additional beds. Equipment for the rooms has already been ordered by the hospital association, and it is anticipated that the added facilities will be ready for use about July 1."

Garden Club Will Be Formed May 4

"A Thief River Falls Garden club, similar to the one that functioned in this city about fifteen years ago, will be organized at a meeting next Tuesday evening, May 4, at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Albert Swanson, 522 Second street West.

"Sponsors of the club express the hope that a representative attendance will be present so that officers may be elected and plans made for future activities.

"The purpose of the organization is to discuss gardening problems, flower arrangement and other matters of mutual interest."

Civic Group Sees National Guard Movies Thursday

"Motion pictures depicting the status of the National Guard in a typical community were presented last Thursday evening at a well-attended joint meeting of the Civic and Commerce association and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"At the close of the program, Judge H. O. Chommie presided over a term of kangaroo court to hear the case of Jim Roche vs. Justus Larson, involving the use of Susie the Duck by the Junior Chamber in its membership drive.

"Following some legal hocus-pocus between Paul Lundgren and Stanley Mortenson, attorneys for the plaintiff, and L. W. Rulien, representing the defendant, it was announced that Susie was suffering from a mysterious malady and was unable to appear. Judge Chommie then announced that the trial will be put off until May 13."

MONSTERS FOR YOUR GARDEN.

Monsters

Many of the new varieties of plants introduced for the garden grow so fast and so large it is scary. Bergeson Nursery carries several of the best of these fast-growing behemoths.

Both in terms of size and performance, if any plant deserves the title of 'monster', it is the Purple Wave petunia. It blooms its heart out all summer, withstands the hottest sun, grows like crazy, yet rarely complains. All the Purple Wave and the newer Pink Wave petunias ask for is lots of sun and fertilizer. Last year in our gardens one plant spread to over seven feet in diameter, covered all season with brilliant purple blooms. This year, our goal is eight feet.

The Wave petunias aren't the only monstrous plants available at Bergeson's this year. Goldfinger Tithonia, also called Mexican Sunflower, is an annual that can create a hedge over five feet high by the end of the summer. Its bright orange flowers are irresistible to Monarch butterflies.

Marguerite Daisies are amazing annual daisies that grow to the size of a small shrub and are covered with flowers all summer. They are available in two varieties: 'Sugar Baby' makes a compact mound covered with little white flowers, and 'Butterfly' is a more vigorous plant that features larger creamy-yellow flowers.

One of the favorite plants in our gardens for the past two years has been Silver Cup Lavatera. Gorgeous pink blossoms cover mounding plants that grow over three feet tall by the end of the summer. This year we also feature Mont Blanc Lavatera, with pure white flowers.

Early Splendor Amaranthus is unlike any other annual. Its young leaves are maroon, but after a certain stage of growth the new growth changes to a brilliant, glowing red. They grow to irregular height, so plant them in a cluster rather than a row for a four foot high mass of color that will have the neighbors talking.

Bergeson Nursery Carries...

All of the old favorite flower and vegetable varieties as well. Because we grow our plants in pure peat in cool greenhouses with plenty of space, our plants are stout, stocky, and dark green.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given given that sealed bids will be received at the office of the Middle River-Snake River Watershed District 453 North McKinley Street, Warren, Minnesota 56762 until 4:00 o'clock PM on May 22, 1998 for the rental of fully operated excavation equipment. Proposals are being requested for dozers, blades and crawlers mounted draglines or backhoes. The draglines and backhoes may range from 3/4 cubic yards and larger and must be equipped with a boom, bucket and counter weights appropriately matched for the type of machine. All equipment must be equipped with a servis recorder.

The works to be done consist of but is not limited to the clearing and disposal of trees and brush and the removal of sediment from drainage channels, disposal of rocks and the leveling of spoilbanks. The work required and the locations of the work will be designated by the engineer of the district.

The equipment must be modern and in good operating condition and furnished with capable and experienced operators. Deficient operations or maintenance which results in reduced production or poor workmanship will be cause for contract cancellation.

All equipment proposed will be considered and evaluated based on many factors including but not limited to the following: price, horsepower, machine rating, machine weight, track length, track width, track gauge, buckets available, boom lengths available and counter weights available.

Work will be paid by the hour and payment will be based on the time recorded on the Servis Recorder discs which must be turned over to the Engineer. Payments will be made on a monthly basis. The minimum hours per week will be 40 unless delayed by weather or equipment operating problems.

In addition to the payment for hourly work, the contractor will be eligible for a demobilization payment. The amount will be equivalent to 5 hours rental rate for each type of equipment authorized for use by the Engineer.

Demobilization payment will be included in the last payment for hourly work satisfactorily completed.

The District may cancel the contract at any time without cause by paying the demobilization payment.

The contractor may cancel the contract at any time without cause but forfeits the demobilization payment.

The type of equipment best suited for this project is dependent on the weather and other unknown job conditions. The district intends to rent equipment which in its opinion, will perform the required work at the least cost. The evaluation factors will depend on conditions expected and encountered which will likely change along the course of the work. The District will release and rent different equipment from time to time as it deems necessary to economically perform the required work.

The contractor, in making this proposal, promises to furnish the equipment listed for the prices shown subject to its availability. He does not promise to make or keep the equipment available to the district. He understands, however, the equipment availability may be a factor in the district's evaluation of equipment.

The contractor will be required to furnish certificates showing that he has workman's compensation insurance and liability insurance.

The Middle River-Snake River Watershed District reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to award contacts to other than the apparent low bidder.

Dated at Warren, Minnesota this 20th day of April, 1998.

Brigadoon Comes to Life at Chanhassen Dinner Theatres

Chanhassen Dinner Theatres' Brigadoon with Keith Rice and Paggy Joyce.

Critics have praised Chanhassen Dinner Theatres newest production of Brigadoon, calling it, "splendid, exuberantly performed," "a musical feast for the senses," and "fresh as the heather and exhilarating as springtime!" Chanhassen is pleased to present Brigadoon, an enchanting love story written by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, creators of other great Broadway hits including My Fair Lady and Camelot. This year marks the 50th anniversary of Brigadoon.

While on a hunting holiday, two New Yorkers, stumble upon Brigadoon, a mythical Scottish village - a community of idyllic peace that comes to life only one day every hundred years and then dissolves again into the mist. It is an oasis of dreams, and the breaking of the peace by even one disgruntled soul will make it disappear forever. From this mystic and poetic legend, Lerner has spun the dreamy tale of a romance between one of the Americans, Tommy Albright, and Fiona, an 18th century girl still only 19 years old. The Americans are presented with the opportunity of remaining in Brigadoon forever, or returning to their modern day world.

Loewe has composed a sparkling, fresh musical score "The Heather on the Hill," "Almost Like Being In Love," "There But For You Go I," and many others. With its distinct Scottish background, the orchestrations include a number of spirited Highland Flings and other Scottish dances.

For further information on Brigadoon, or to make reservations, call the Chanhassen Dinner Theatres box office at (612) 934-1525 or toll free at (800) 362-3515. Information about Chanhassen Dinner Theatres may also be accessed on the Internet at www.chanhassentheatres.com.

Legion Auxiliary sponsors three students to Girls State

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 117 of Thief River Falls is once again sponsoring two delegates from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls and one from Goodridge high school to attend Girls State.

The 52nd annual Minnesota Girls State will be held June 14-20 at Bethel College in St. Paul. It is a participatory lesson in state and local government with delegates from throughout the state taking part in simulated local and state elections and offices.

Delegates selected to participate at the annual event include Bridgette Stock, daughter of Bill and Connie Stock of Thief River Falls, Lesley Ihle, daughter of Paul and Carol Ihle of Thief River Falls, and Dana Wiseth, daughter of Vance and Lori Wiseth of Goodridge.

Alternates are Rachel Greelis, daughter of Tom and Paula Greelis of Thief River Falls, Taya Hunt, daughter of Jeff and Vickie Hunt of Thief River Falls, and Wendy Kangas, daughter of Brad and Karen Kangas of Goodridge.

All of the students are completing their junior year in their respective schools where they are involved in a number of activities as well as being strong academically.

Chairing the Girls State committee for Auxiliary Unit 117 is Annabelle Cuppett.

The Constitution and the Statutes of the State of Minnesota are the patterns from which the fundamental laws of Minnesota Girls State have been developed. The participants learn government by "living" it, in mythical cities, counties and state. By carrying out the processes of government they learn, by doing, of both the privileges and duties of citizenship and are encouraged to become leaders of the future.

The entire program is a non-political, non-sectarian attempt to instill in these potential leaders a love of God and country.

Qualifications considered in determining eligibility to participate include leadership, character, courage, honesty, scholarship, cooperation and physical fitness.

Tree planting took place last week at Challenger elementary school where all students in kindergarten through fifth grade had an opportunity to help plant a tree to establish the school's outdoor learning laboratory. Some 350 trees were planted last year and another 1,300 trees of 30 different species were planted this year. Other plantings at the school have included 90 species of perennial wildflowers to create a butterfly garden. In the photo above, teacher Tom Schaefer distributes trees to students. Shortly later he helped each student plant his or her tree in the area northeast of the school.

MECC supports exclusive Pepsi agreement proposal

Joint Powers Board members with the Multi-Events Cultural Center went on record Wednesday in support of a proposed exclusive contract with Pepsi.

The agreement has not been finalized, but it is believed that for exclusive distribution rights at the Multi-Events Cultural Center and the local high school, the joint powers board will receive $100,000 in cash, another $10,000 per year for the next four years, a score board valued up to $35,000, equipment to distribute the products, a full-service agreement, and a share of the profits. Before the agreement is approved by the joint powers board the agreement has to be reviewed by the four participating members of the joint powers board, and their attorneys. The agreement itself is being drafted by the Minnesota Attorney General's office and is modeled after the exclusive marketing agreement between Coke and the University of Minnesota.

Representatives of most of the members of the joint powers board are not expecting a lot of opposition from their governing units. One of the members of the joint powers board, School District 564, is facing more opposition. Superintendent Jerry Robicheau said the matter would be discussed with students.

Some of the joint powers board members questioned what would happen in the event that the school district went on record in opposition to the agreement.

Rick Nelson, a Northland Community and Technical College representative, who serves as a project director, said the contract could be adjusted to exclude the high school. Nelson said the joint powers board can't control what happens in the school district. The agreement would have to be re-written, however.

Nelson added that the proposal was presented to the student senate at Northland Community and Technical College. He said they were in favor of the proposal.

Dr. Orley Gunderson of Northland Community and Technical College said he had received four calls from other colleges wanting to know what the joint powers board was doing with the agreement. Dr. Gunderson said he didn't plan to give out that information until the agreement was finalized. Dr. Gunderson said that it was clear that the joint powers board was charting new territory. In reference to any criticism, Dr. Gunderson said he believes what they're trying to do is good for the community, and a local business which hires many people.

Dr. Robicheau said School Board members had received letters from Coke representatives who would like to participate in the discussion.

Jobs Incorporated to continue efforts toward growth of TRF

Jobs Incorporated of Thief River Falls will continue its efforts toward structured growth for the economic benefit of Thief River Falls and its residents. At its annual meeting last week it reviewed its efforts and elected officers to guide it into the future.

Last year, the city council appointed Don Stewart, community development director and executive director of Jobs Inc., as project manager of the depot project. Stewart said last week that the project has taken up more of his time than anticipated. As a result other endeavors took a back seat. Nevertheless, project efforts of Jobs Inc. members continued to see progress.

Stewart said they continue to observe developments in the wheatboard industry. They have readjusted their focus and are examining an alfalfa plant project, which would strip plants of leaves and the stems could be used for a board similar to Wheatboard.

Jobs Inc. is continuing to work on housing initiatives that began in 1989 or 1990. Since then 400 new units have been built. Stewart said a number of projects are expected to begin this summer.

Jobs Inc. will be participating in the development of a new industrial park south and west of Digi-Key and Arctic Cat. The infrastructure is expected to go in this summer.

Stewart noted that the Viking-Voyageur pipeline will be going in soon and they are attempting to find housing for 400 workers. That's expected to benefit the Thief River Falls area.

Jobs Inc. is continuing to support job growth and development. It will continue to support the workforce center and be a sponsor of small business week and the job fair.

Vacancies in the downtown business district are a concern. Stewart said they will be examining that problem soon.

For a few years, Thief River Falls was host to a group of engineers, and individuals conducting cold weather testing on automobiles. This group has not been in Thief River Falls for the past two winters. Cold weather testing in Minnesota, however, is continuing to grow. Stewart then introduced Paul Nevanen, director of Minnesota Cold Weather Resource Center, the guest speaker for the meeting.

Nevanen noted that cold weather testing in the state of Minnesota is not new. It has been around for many years, but only became a promotional goal for the state when the non-profit cold weather testing center was developed in 1990. Last year, there were 46 cold weather testing groups in Minnesota operating in 10 communities. They hired 420 employees and contributed $6.1 million to the economies of those communities.

In promoting the continued growth of cold weather testing in Minnesota, the center has learned that it has had to promote it through traditional methods such as mailings and newsletters. It has focused on the automotive industry but has learned that it is considerably difficult to reach the automotive industry because of the many different divisions in each company. They are really structured and do not readily share information, Nevanen noted. Because the needs of each automobile manufacturer is different, the information provided to the automobile industry is rather general in nature. Nevanen said the center is providing the kind of information engineers need, such as weather information, and information about communities and available facilities.

Nevanen is optimistic about the "Health...Caring...Community", truly represents Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls. In today's rapidly changing health care environment, some things remain the same. Hospitals and nursing homes take care of communities and strive to make them healthier no matter what challenges they face. And that is something to celebrate.

National Hospital and Nursing Home Week is also an opportunity to thank our hard working staff on all the outstanding work they do and to focus attention on what hospitals do best...taking care of our communities' health.

"Hospitals and nursing homes are committed to the health of their communities, and they want people to know it. By celebrating our accomplishments with the community during National Hospital and Nursing Home Week, we build stronger ties with the people we're devoted to helping."

future of cold weather testing development in Minnesota. He said it looks very strong in the next two to five years. Beyond that, he said, it becomes more difficult to assess because of the rate of technological change. It will be the future challenge for competitive communities to provide quality facilities and make the investment in time and equipment to attract cold weather testing.

At the conclusion of the annual meeting, Jobs Inc honored Art Tranby for his service as president of the organization. They presented a plaque to him. Nominees to the board accepted at the meeting included David Beito, Jeff Hendrickson, Roger Reuter, and Stan Upham.

Madelyn Vigen, parks and recreation director for the City of Thief River Falls and a project coordinator for the city, reminded board members that whenever they want support for an event they go to Pepsi in Thief River Falls. They have always provided donations for events. Contact with Coke representatives, however, has been very limited.

Progress at the site of the future Multi-Events Cultural Center stalled during the winter, but with warmer temperatures residents can expect to see more progress. A representative from the architectural firm for the project, said site work began again last week. Within the next two weeks, work on the building pad and utility lines will begin.

About $400,000 has been raised since the project bids were approved. That additional money will be used to finish some of the elements of the project which had to be eliminated from the bid letting. Board members have been discussing proposals on how to use that money. A poll of joint powers board members taken at the end of March shows that they would like to see the stadium bleachers, and fencing completed first and a press box second. Other elements were ranked in the following order: baseball, softball and soccer restrooms and storage; lighting for the baseball field and softball field; service sidewalks and landscaping; concessions building and storage; two additional softball fields; lighting for the parking lot; and recreational soccer field, including fill and fine grading. Discussion of priorities and how to use the funds is likely to continue.

An amendment to the bylaws that reflects the use and handling of private donations was approved by the joint powers board.

A public meeting to allow the public an opportunity to ask questions and comment on the Multi-Events Cultural Center will be held in May. The tentative date set for the meeting was 6:30 p.m. on May 20 at the Heritage Community Center. The public is encouraged to attend. The public is encouraged to ask questions of board members in advance. Board members have received very few comments or questions about the project

Northern Tallgrass project authorized

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Regional Director Bill Hartwig will sign the Northern Tallgrass Prairie Habitat Preservation Area Record of Decision at a ceremony to be held Saturday, May 16, during the Festival of Birds in Detroit Lakes.

Hartwig is expected to select and authorize "Alternative B," one of three alternatives proposed in the Final Environmental Impact Statement (FEIS). Alternative B is the option preferred by many of its private and public partners.

The signing of the Record of Decision document and selection of this alternative will allow the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to begin working to permanently protect and enhance prairie remnants through voluntary partnerships, incentives, education, and cooperative agreements. The preservation project will span 85 counties throughout western Minnesota and northwest Iowa.

Other alternatives contained in the FEIS (but not selected) included a "No Action" option and third option in which the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service would act only as liaison to coordinate the efforts of other partners.

The signing of the event will be held at 8 p.m. during the Festival of Birds banquet at the Detroit Lakes Country Club in Detroit Lakes.

HOME OF THE JUMBO GERANIUM.

Nothing provides intense color like geraniums. The colors of their blooms are so vivid you can almost taste them. This year Bergeson Nursery is growing 45 flavors of geraniums.

Geraniums thrive in pots and planters. A window box full of geraniums can dress up an entire house. Just a couple of pots of geraniums placed amongst the shrubbery around the house can brighten an entire yard.

Our old favorite is the Sincerity geranium, which grows the largest of them all. Some years the orange-red blooms are the size of softballs.

But there are many more. Colors include light pink, salmon, grape, white, cherry-rose, and coral. The spectacular Starburst geraniums feature violet or red blooms mottled with white.

Geranium lovers not only enjoy the blooms, but the different colors of foliage as well. The Wilhelm Languth features variegated green and white leaves. The White Truffle's bright white blooms contrast vividly with the forest green foliage. The stop-light red blooms of the Red Satisfaction are set off by the plant's light green leaves. Skies of Italy and Mrs. Pollock geraniums feature leaves which contain splotches of red, yellow, light green and dark green, depending upon the temperature and soil.

The leaves of scented geraniums can smell like nutmeg, lemon, hazelnut, evergreen and countless other aromas. Their leaves come in different shapes and colors, and some have colorful blooms to boot. (The so-called "mosquito-plant," a scented geranium reputed to repel mosquitoes, should not be depended upon for that purpose. Our mosquitoes pay no attention to them.)

Geraniums prefer to be planted in pots. They love clay pots, and university studies have shown that they thrive in pots which are taller than they are wide. Why this is, we don't know, but when we added an inch of height to our geranium pots a couple of years ago, the geraniums nearly doubled in size.

When you start with healthy, jumbo geraniums, you get a show right away. Geraniums bloom all summer and late into the fall.

Author Gertrude Stein once commented, "never trust anybody who doesn't love geraniums." Don't risk being distrusted. Pick up some jumbo geraniums at Bergeson's this spring. Geraniums in pots and planters can be placed outside now. They would need to be moved inside in the event of a frost.

Folks at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village would like to give several Northland Community and Technical College students credit and recognition for completing some much needed and appreciated projects at the village. Their instructor is giving them extra credit.

For extra credit toward their grades, Dr. Pamela Parkinson offered her Minnesota History students the choice between a ten-page paper and doing a project at Pioneer Village. Five students — Emily Skoien, Andrea Johnson, Jason Hellerud, Tom Shelton and Delores Paulson — opted to do the project at the village, and according to Pioneer Village interim director Caryl Bugge, the students have tackled the tasks with gusto.

Emily Skoien has been busy mounting numerous Elks pins and firemen's pins on velvet backgrounds. Still working on her project, Emily comments, "It's fun."

Andrea Johnson arranged a display case of Norwegian artifacts. The result is a colorful eye-pleasing exhibit.

Jason Hellerud organized and arranged a large display case that holds an assortment of old tools, appliances and Native American artifacts. Jason stated that he enjoyed the project.

Delores Paulson has been working on her project at home, putting together memorabilia that will tell a story about the late Inga Geving. The memorabilia, mostly newspaper articles, will be displayed, along with the various plaques and commendations Ms. Geving received for her contributions to the community, in a special display case.

All of the work done by these four students is in the Inga Geving Museum, one of the 19 buildings at Pioneer Village.

Tom Shelton is big and strong and his browniness was taken advantage of as he helped move all of the farm equipment, antique cars, tractors and wagons housed in the Engelstad Building. Space in the building is rented for the storage of boats and campers over the winter months, and everything is moved and rearranged each spring, enabling the city to clean the floors. In addition to the physical work, Tom has done a lot of computer research for the village. With regard to the project he says, "I'm just glad to be able to help out."

Only Tom is originally from Thief River Falls with Emily and Delores from Roseau and Jason and Andrea from Karstad.

The students whole-heartedly agreed with their instructor as she said, "It sure beat writing a ten-page paper!" and Dr. Parkinson realized her goal and the goal of Northland Community and Technical College of getting students involved in the community.

Caryl Bugge is overwhelmed by the enthusiasm shown by these young people and claims what they have accomplished in a short while would have taken her much longer.

Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village is maintained by the Pennington County Historical Society, a non-profit organization supported through the donations and efforts of its members and friends. Serving on its board of directors are Charles Naplin, president, Pat Swanson, vice president, Bill Dee, treasurer; Linda Spyhalski, secretary; Dale Wennberg, city council representative; and board members Jim Dalager, Dave Strong and Gene Rondorf. Candidates are being sought to fill board vacancies — persons who, like the other board members, are interested in preserving the history and culture of our community.

It is said that Dale Wennberg often refers to Pioneer Village as "the best kept secret in Thief River Falls." Interim Director Caryl Bugge says, "I refuse to keep the secret!" Caryl is on a mission to let everyone know about Pioneer Village and what it has to offer.

A behind-the-scenes longtime volunteer, Caryl offered her services to the historical society as the interim director for one year, working without pay with the stipulation that the money the board would have used for salary be used for improvements to the village. However, more than money is needed to do what needs to be done. Realizing that the work at the village is too much for one person, Caryl is busy recruiting the help of volunteers.

Caryl recently made a list of ways volunteers can become involved.

By adopting a building or room in a building at Pioneer Village, you would be in charge of that building or room. After discussing your ideas with the interim director, you would make changes as you see fit and be identified in the building as its caretaker. A woman who once rented a room there has shown interest in becoming involved with the Hendrickson house, an early 1900's two-story home that has been restored and outfitted with period style artifacts and furniture.

This year, Pioneer Village will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. daily from Memorial Day weekend through Labor Day. It will also be open this weekend, May 16 and 17, for the Canadian Victoria Day weekend. Caryl is encouraging volunteers to work at the desk in the Engelstad Building for one calendar day of each month. For example, if you chose 15, you would work on June 15, July 15 and August 15 unless you called to say you were unable to make it. She is also looking for people to serve as substitutes. At the desk, you would register guests, collect admission and money for any purchases made by guests. If no one else is in the office, volunteers would also answer the telephone. Orientation will be provided for those who volunteer for this position.

People who are interested in doing repair and maintenance work are also needed. Whether you're handy with a hammer, a paint brush or a hoe, there's a long, long list of tasks waiting to be done.

Perhaps you have an idea of something else you'd like to do at Pioneer Village. If so, Caryl encourages you to "create your own involvement." She'll be glad to listen and help.

On Saturday, Pitch-in Day was held at the village with great success, and because of the diligent help from a number of volunteers, the village will be ready to open this weekend.

While Charles Naplin and Jim Dalager worked in the church, Robert Bakke cleaned up the barn and pool room. The Noper cabin was cleaned by Rolland and Enid Sande, and Fern Williams worked on the Olson cabin. As Bob Parnow readied the blacksmith shop, Mary Jane Gibson dusted down and vacuumed the old school house. Woody Mootz spent the entire day washing windows throughout the village. The barbershop was cleaned by Evelyn Callahan and her granddaughter, and as Linda and Hannah Homseth worked in the Swanson-Bray house, Mildred Wik swept the interiors of the Sons of Norway and Berg houses. Linda Spyhalski distributed cleaning supplies and worked in the Engelstad building.

After the church bell rang at noon, Madeline Vigen treated the hungry and delighted workers to lunch. Sitting shoulder-to-shoulder at three tables, they were served a "traditional" lunch of hamburger hotdish, Jello salad, coleslaw, rolls, brownies and coffee.

Later in the day, a group of young people from Pathfinders came to rake and clean up grass clippings around the grounds.

Over the course of the day, several volunteers made commitments to continue helping at the village. Bob Parnow has adopted the blacksmith shop. The general store has been adopted by Linda and Hannah Homseth, and Evelyn Callahan has adopted the statues at the corner of the village.

Pioneer Village offers endless opportunities for groups and individuals, young and old, to be involved in the preservation and improvement of this mine of historical riches.

If you haven't been to the village in a while, you will find many of the artifacts much more organized and "viewable." The items — all 4,837 of them — in the Inga Geving Museum have been numbered and have easy-to-read corresponding labels which identify the individual pieces. Leona Muzzy has helped with the label making.

An archival room now adjoins the office in the Engelstad building at the village, and Tony Dorn has been credited with very generously helping to furnish it. With a new computer and scanner, the society now has the capability to scan the thousands of photographs in its possession. The photographs can be viewed on the computer screen, and the originals can be stored without further handling and exposure. Volunteer Linda Spyhalski has been instrumental in helping Caryl scan the photos.

Activities for the 1998 season will include a couple of new events. Collectors day will be held on June 20, and anyone with a collection of any type is invited to display it at the village. Bountiful Harvest Day is planned for August 15. Homegrown items — vegetables, berries, flowers — will be sold in a farmer's market setting, and live music will be provided for an old-time barn dance.

Ice cream treats will be offered at Pioneer Village during the American Festival in late June, and two pioneer families, Inez and the late George Mostue and the Muzzy Family, will be honored that weekend. August will bring the reoccurance of Pioneer Camp, an exciting day camp for 8 to 12 years olds, sponsored by Pioneer Village and the Park and Rec Department.

As to whether the new events at the village will be successful Caryl says, "We won't know, if we don't try."

Caryl Bugge was born and raised in Thief River Falls, returning here several years ago after a long teaching career in the Twin Cities. She does not like to be in the spotlight and will probably cringe at the unavoidable mention of her name in this story. About her involvement in her hometown she simply says, "For me, it's payback time."

Through the recruitment of volunteers, Caryl is hoping to create an atmosphere of community ownership at the village.

She is also hoping that the students from NCTC who are so enthusiastically working on classroom projects at the village will return with families and friends, sharing their much deserved credit as they show them their contributions at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village.

Minnesota Department of Transportation advises motorists that work on Highway 11 from Baudette to approximately 10 miles west at Lake of the Woods County Road 66 was scheduled to resume on Tuesday, May 12.

According to Bob Kleinschmidt, construction superintendent for the MnDOT, the project is a carry-over from last year. Finishing work will consist of final bituminous paving and miscellaneous clean-up.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Just Too Much Trash

We're being buried in garbage! I've been hearing about the overabundance of trash lately and I started to pay attention to what is going into my black bags. I found it isn't my fault! I would estimate that only about one-quarter or less of my trash is actually trash and actually mine. Most of the stuff in the black bags is stuff that is generated somewhere else and just ends up in my bags. It is entirely unnecessary.

I don't buy all of the bags, plastic wrap and boxes that come with my stuff. That stuff is put on at the place where the stuff is manufactured or made and just sifts down to me. For example, look at what you bring home next time you buy groceries and other goodies. Nearly everything is wrapped in several layers of plastic and cardboard. Potato chips come in a huge cardboard box with two little bags stuck in the bottom, big boxes of cereal are half full. Everything comes in plastic, pasted on plastic, and/or plastered with plastic. And it is impossible to make those plastic containers smaller - they must go whole into the trash bag.

Want to buy a few candies for the holidays? Here - buy the big plastic bag half filled with more plastic-covered candy bars and boxes of little candies. Then the store will nicely place it in another bag so you can get it home. Just try recycling all of the wrappings that accumulate after you eat a few of those candies - if you can get the plastic open. Buy boxes half full of cake mixes, puddings, flour, spices and other dry goods. Nothing is ever filled.

Personal articles, such as cosmetics and toiletries also come double, triple and quadruple wrapped nowadays. In fact, they are so well wrapped that I must take the scissors to them in order to get them out of their packages. Look at how hard it is to get at a bottle of aspirin when you need one for the raging headache you got while trying to do your shopping. First break into the box, then struggle with the plastic coating on the cover, try to pry open the people-proof cover without cutting off a finger, then dig and dig to pull out the wad of cotton that takes up half of the bottle. Finally, you find a few little aspirins stuck in the bottom of the big bottle. Now you really have a headache.

Order a couple of outfits in the mail and what do you get? You get a huge and heavy cardboard box, lots of those nasty little packing peanuts along with excess paper and catalogs enough for the next 10 years, and, finally, some dresses that are wrapped around cardboard squares, swaddled in tissue and then, finally, shrink-wrapped in plastic. What a waste! Buy something larger by mail order, like a radio or a computer, and get monstrous chunks of white plastic that are impossible to get rid of except by cutting them up and trying to squeeze them into your garbage bag.

I got to wondering when all this overwrapping happened. I think it had something to do with deterring shoplifting. When the larger chain stores came in, they couldn't possibly have enough clerks to watch the counters and catch shoplifters in the act, so they started to put more and more packaging on everything so it would be too large for the thieves to take. I guess they thought bigger was better when it came to shoplifters. It obviously didn't work. Now shoplifters just stuff the whole package of wrapping into their jackets, coats and bags and make off with all of it. Either that or they just remove the item from the wrapping and pop it into their pockets, leaving the large containers on the shelf. How many times have you seen empty containers on store shelves? Me, too.

All of this wrapping waste has my depression mentality in a spin. As I said before, I grew up a few years after the depression and my family was still in a depression mode, so, naturally, it just rubbed off on me. I hate to throw anything away. I remember my grandfather saving string, and I do, too. And doggoned if I don't use it every so often - it's handy as can be to have that little ball of string in a drawer. But I can't save all of this copious wrapping material. It drives me crazy that there isn't anything I can do with it and must throw it away. Besides, it fills up my garbage bags so fast.

Sometimes I wonder if it would be so bad to go backward and have things like they used to be - hum ... milk, juice and soda in glass bottles that are reusable and can be recycled for a penny or two, meat sold from the counter and wrapped in paper and string, fruit sold by the piece instead of a bagful (half of which spoil before they can be eaten), candy by the piece in glass jars, cereals and flours by the scoop, fewer boxes of mixes - just make my own. And while we're at it, get rid of all those big stores with so few clerks and bring back the "Mom and Pop" stores where the clerks knew everybody and everybody knew the clerks and nobody dared to shoplift. Yes!

Dry nights for good morning workshop set

Many children look forward to staying overnight with a friend or relative, going on a family vacation or attending camp. However, an estimated five to seven million American children and adolescents avoid these activities because they wet the bed.

For a child, the effects of bed wetting can run deeper than merely preventing participation in overnight visits. The manner in which parents handle their child's bed wetting is important.

Join Dr. Charles Winjum of the Dakota Clinic - Thief River Falls on Thursday, May 28, as he discussed bed wetting and the treatment options currently available for this common problem. Dr. Winjum will be happy to address personal situations that your family may be encountering.

This workshop will be held in the north lobby at Northwest Medical Center at 7 p.m. Participants are asked to pre-register by calling Gail Holland at 218-681-4240, ext. 210. Please register by May 25, 1998. The program is sponsored by Northwest Medical Center and the Dakota Clinic - Thief River Falls.

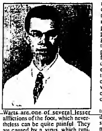
Dakota Clinic - Foot Notes by Mark Yuska, DPM (Podiatrist)

Wars On The Feet



Warts are one of several lesser afflictions of the foot, which nevertheless can be quite painful. They are caused by a virus, which typically invades the skin through small cuts and abrasions. They are frequently called plantar warts because they appear most often on the plantar surface, or sole, of the foot. They can appear anywhere on the skin, but technically only those on the sole are properly called plantar warts. Children tend to be more susceptible to warts. Some people seem to be immune and never get them. Most warts are harmless and benign, even though painful. They are often mistaken for corns, which are layers of dead skin that build up to protect an area which is being continuously irritated, whereas a wart is a viral infection.

It is also possible that a variety of other more serious lesions, including carcinomas and melanomas, although they are not overly common, can be mistakenly identified as warts. Because of those identification problems, and for pain relief, it is wise to consult a podiatrist about any suspicious growth or eruption on the skin of the feet. On the bottom of the feet, plantar warts tend to be hard and flat, rough-surfaced, with well-defined boundaries. They are generally fleshier when they are on the top of the feet or the toes. They are often gray or brown but color may vary, with a center that appears as one or more pinpoints of black, often mistaken for "seeds".

The plantar wart is often contracted by walking barefooted on dirty surfaces. The virus is also sustained by warm, moist environments, so warts are often associated with shared bathing facilities, such as locker rooms. If left untreated, warts can grow and they can spread into a cluster of several warts. Like any other infectious lesion, they are spread by touching and scratching, and even by contact with skin shed from another wart. Warts can last for varying lengths of time, months to years. Occasionally, they spontaneously disappear after a short time. Perhaps just as frequently, they can recur in the same location. When plantar warts develop on the weight-bearing areas of the feet such as the ball of the foot, or the heel, for example, they can be the source of very sharp, burning pain. Pain occurs when weight is brought to bear directly on the wart, although pressure on the side of a wart can create pain just as intense.

Their are tips for prevention of warts. 1) Avoid walking barefooted. 2) Change shoes daily. 3) Keep feet clean and dry. 4) Check children's feet periodically. 5) Avoid direct contact with warts - from other persons, and from other parts of the body. 6) Do not ignore skin growths or changes in your skin. Self treatment is generally not advisable. Over-the-counter preparations contain chemicals and may cause other irritation if not used correctly. Self treatment with such medications especially should be avoided by diabetics and those with cardiovascular or a circulatory disorder, which may cause insensitive feet. Never use them in the presence of an active infection.

There are many treatment options available through your podiatrist to treat warts. A common method is prescription acid therapy. Another way is removing warts by freezing the wart with liquid nitrogen. Use of the laser for wart removal is also growing much more common. The removal of warts by a simple surgical procedure may be indicated. Local anesthetics may be required. If there are any questions about your specific foot condition, contact a podiatrist.

For an appointment with Dr. Yuska, a foot care specialist, call the Dakota Clinic - TRF at 681-4747. His office hours are 8:00 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday. Thursday hours are 8:00 a.m. to noon.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Eeva Young, Lincoln High School

I had heard about the United Nations before, but didn't really know what it was all about. For the past couple months, I have had the chance to learn more about the UN by researching and preparing for Model United Nations. This weekend I was in Winnipeg, Canada, for Model UN, which is sponsored by the Rotary and is patterned after the real UN. The only exception is that high school teenagers represent the various countries.

I, along with Jamie Kalsnes, represented the country of the Philippines. In preparation for the event, we had to learn more about the Philippines and become virtual expert on the amendment topics. There were three amendments: banning land mines, placing refugees from Yugoslavia, and cutting greenhouse gas emissions worldwide. These are hot topics around the world and are problems that are not easily solved. Part of the challenge of Model UN is getting into the mind set of the country that one represents. We might not agree with the views of the country that one represents. We might not agree with the views of the country we represent, but we must represent that country despite our personal differences.

A good example of this is Iraq. Although the two girls representing Iraq didn't agree with Saddam Hussein's views, they remained in character the entire weekend. Thus in typical fashion, Iraq decided that the UN wasn't upholding fairness, and at the last assembly the representatives stood up to the microphone and announced that they would not recognize the UN as an organization and, furthermore, were walking out on it.

Aside from some of the off-the-wall suggestions made from some countries, South Korea had the most interesting operational payment plan proposal. They said they support increased funding for removal of former war zone land mines, but they simply didn't have enough money to give for the plan. They, instead, offered pigs to the UN as payment. Although we thought their plan was innovative and would have appreciated ham steaks, we found it to be unacceptable.

Another country that came under a lot of fire was the United States. Our first meeting began with a request to boot the U.S. out of the United Nations for not paying its dues for almost two decades. When that was denied, requests poured in for the U.S's voting privileges to be taken away. This was also denied, but the assembly passed an amendment stating that in the future any country able to pay dues but not paying them will be denied voting rights. If non-payment is continued, the country will then have its membership revoked.

The United Nations helped me better understand why some countries feel the way they do on some issues. I can now understand the reasons some countries have for wanting to keep their land mines. Countries such as South Korea vehemently believe their land mines are vital for their country's defense. They believe the mines are one of the only things stopping North Korea from invading their land. They claim their mines aren't endangering the general public and are only in well-marked border areas. Although they do support removal of mines in areas of former war zones where innocent people are getting maimed and killed, they are not in a position to remove their own mines at this time.

I'd just like to say a quick note of thanks to the Rotary Club which sponsored Jamie and me on our adventure to the Model UN. I'd also like to thank our advisor, Mr. Jay Forney, who helped us with gathering information and who spent the weekend advising us in Winnipeg. I had an exceptional experience!!

ACTIVITIES

Kite Surprise

Cut a kite shape out of construction paper. Use a hole punch to punch holes all over the kite. (Hint: Gently fold the kite in half to enable the hole punch to reach the middle.) Place the kite on a washable surface. Have your child brush liquid starch all over the kite. Give your child small tissue paper squares to place on top of the liquid starch, covering all the holes. When your child is finished, invite him/her to hold up his/her art to the light to see the kite surprise. After the starch dries, trim any extra tissue paper hanging over the edge of the kite shape. Attach a tissue paper tail to the bottom of the kite and hang it up in a window.

PARENTING TIPS

Spring Gardening

As you do your gardening, don't forget to include your young child in the process. There are many ways to involve children, from letting them help you with "your" garden to letting them have "their own" garden. Having their own garden can mean something as small as a milk carton filled with dirt. No matter how you choose to involve them, remember that this is another activity that can be a real together-project and a real "educational" project.

Through gardening, children get a chance to see the miracle of nature happen as the tiny seed grows into a plant and then possibly into a flower or something to eat. They learn that this is something living and it needs certain conditions and care to grow. It needs the right amount of water and the right amount of sun to grow and be healthy. If it is neglected, it could die.

Most plants will require some patience as they grow very slowly by a child's standard. Parents will need to help their children understand that even though we can't see the seed under the ground it is growing and will come through the ground when it is ready. Once the plant is above the ground, you may want to measure it weekly and keep a growth chart to help your child see the changes that take place.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about the seeds: their size, shape and color. Talk about how the plant gets its food from the dirt and water. As the plant grows, name the different parts of it: stem, leaf, etc.

Lions And Fish

A couple of Saturdays ago when my husband, the pyromaniac, decided to burn grass, he asked me to go into town for a permit — which I agreed to do, but because of a headache, forgot to pick up. Later in the afternoon, having realized my mistake, I quickly informed my husband that it would have been too windy to burn anyway. He then asked me to go the next day, and I willingly agreed, although ultimately deciding against that, as well, when the winds began blowing in the thirty mile per hour range. Not easily deterred, he approached the subject again:

"It's too windy!" I told him.

"No, it's not!"

"Yes, it is! Those permits specifically state no burning when —"

"I know, I know," he said. "No burning when the wind is gusting over fifteen miles per hour, which it hasn't reached."

"Garbage!"

"We're having another one of those differences of opinions," he said, refusing to agree.

"Differences of opinion!" I cried. "You're too much to believe! This isn't a difference of opinion, this is me butting my head up against sheer stupidity."

"Watch it, the Leo in you is beginning to show," he warned.

"And the Pisces in you is ever apparent," was my retort. "Fish must not learn much about dry land swimming around down there in the sea."

"Leos are obstinate and headstrong," he said.

"Pisces are nearsighted," I told him, "and should never be trusted with a match."

"Leos are hard to get along with," he countered.

— I took careful measure of him. "Only when they're dealing with slimy fish!"

He laughed. "I thought you liked fish!"

"Only fish that don't talk back," I said. "Seriously, you can't burn anything today and you know it."

"I know it," he said.

"Then why do you torment me so?" I asked.

"I just like to see your eyes flash."

"There are much better ways to get my eyes to flash. Take me out for dinner, for instance, or buy me a diamond ring!"

"A diamond ring!" he exclaimed. "Where did that come from? Tell you what, let's go out to the garden and I'll help you plant some seeds."

I shook my head vehemently. "I don't need your help in my garden!"

He rolled his eyes. "Here we go again!"

"The last time you helped in my garden," I reminded him, "you rearranged the whole thing!"

"You were doing everything the hard way," he protested. "I thought I was making it easier!"

"Easier!" I cried. "You looked at my plan, and, then, without hesitation, completely disregarded it!"

"I considered your plan!" he exclaimed. "But it was all about rototilling and measuring! I simply thought we would do better by scattering seeds to the wind."

"I suppose that's how fish garden in the ocean?" I asked.

"No, not exactly," he explained. "We don't plant in the ocean. We take our checkbooks and go to the supermarket."

Exasperated, I threw my arms in the air. "Now you're going to tell me it would be cheaper and easier to skip the garden and buy vegetables instead."

"You get so hyper! Of course it would be cheaper and easier, but I understand your gardening needs. Besides, everyone knows, when a Leo gets an idea, it's just best to stay out of the way."

"Grrrr."

"Temper, temper," he teased. "Come on, I'll help you in the garden before I begin to burn that brush."

"You need a burning permit!"

"You are so excitable!" he said. "But, I love it when your eyes flash!"

In Loving Memory Of Our Son, And Brother
Tom Raymond

You left a precious memory and sorrow too great to hold, and to all who loved and lost you, your memory will never grow old.

No farewells were spoken, no time to say goodbye, you were gone before we knew it, and only God knows why.

To the grave we travel, the flowers are placed with care, but no one knows the heartache as we turn and leave you there.

If tears could build a staircase, and heartache make a lane, we would walk the path to heaven and bring you back again.

I cannot be complete and whole again, when part of me is gone. A special part...a precious part . the part that was my son.

May 8th would have been Tom's 29th birthday

We love you Tom, and miss you so very, very much.

A VCR, valued at $300; a pair of shoes, valued at $140; cash in the amount of between $450 and $500, and a gold chain, valued at $220, were missing. Entry was gained by a ladder. The burglary remains under investigation.

Upon investigation, Jeremy Francis Sisler, 27, Thief River Falls, was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor; Tyler Andrew Tveit, 20, Roseau, was cited for consumption under 21, possession of a small amount of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia; a 17-year-old female from Roseau was cited for consumption under age and smoking tobacco.

Vandalism. On April 29 at 4:18 p.m. police received a report that children had thrown camp fire rings into the river near the campground. To eliminate the safety hazard, the Pennington County Dive Team was asked to remove the rings from the river. Three fire rings were recovered. Through investigation, two 14-year-old males, one from Thief River Falls, and one from Goodridge, face charges of vandalism. Restitution of $240 is being requested.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Warren woman dies in fire on Sunday

Lottie Jo Ringstad, 55, Warren, was found dead in her house Sunday. Authorities have ruled that she died of smoke inhalation from a fire that damaged the home.

On May 10 at about 6:05 a.m. the Marshall County Sheriff's department received a report of a residential fire on North Central Street in Warren.

The Warren Fire Department along with the Warren Ambulance was dispatched to the scene. The fire was contained to the interior of the residence but extensive damage occurred to the home.

Ringstad was found dead at the scene. After investigation, no foul play was suspected and the Medical Examiner has ruled the cause of death to be from smoke inhalation. No one else was at home at the time of the fire.

The fire was investigated by the Marshall County Sheriff's department, Warren Police department and Minnesota State Fire Marshal's office.

No one injured when vehicle lands in river

Extensive damage occurred to a 1994 Toyota driven by Karen J. Asselin, 40, Brooks, after her vehicle left Highway 92 and ended up in a river. Asselin escaped injury.

Minnesota State Patrol received a report of the accident at 1:40 a.m. on Saturday, May 9. According to the accident report, Asselin was driving east when the vehicle went off the road to the right. Asselin then overcorrected and the vehicle swerved and went off the road on the left and into the river. Charges are pending.

Tenant has right to call for assistance

According to the FBI, a woman is beaten every 12 seconds. Battering is the single most common source of injury to women, more common than auto accidents, muggings and rapes combined. Who should battered women call for help? Astonishingly, according to some Minnesota landlords, the answer appears to be: "Anyone but the police." Reports from shelter and women's advocacy organizations around the state indicate that some Minnesota landlords still require their tenants to sign leases prohibiting calls for police or emergency assistance. And if their tenants do call 911, these landlords are evicting them and their families.

"Last year, my office was astounded to learn that not only were these lease provisions outrageous, stupid and wrong, but it was not illegal," Attorney General Hubert H. Humphrey III said. "We worked hard to change the law and make sure the victims are not penalized with the loss of their home just for trying to protect themselves and their kids."

Today, leases that prohibit calls for police or emergency assistance are illegal. Landlords who engage in these practices are violating Minnesota law. The Minnesota legislature, during its 1997 session, heard testimony from just these kinds of practices — about landlords requiring tenants to sign leases that prohibited them from contacting police and about landlords evicting those who did seek police help. Among other concerns, legislators recognize that domestic abuse hurts the entire community, not just individuals, and if domestic abuse victims are prevented from getting help, in the long run it is the community that pays the price in the form of increased alcohol and drug abuse, crime and a continuing cycle of violence. The law took effect July 1, 1997, and gave the Attorney General's office the responsibility to investigate and prosecute violators.

Recently, reports from shelters and advocacy groups reveal that not all landlords are complying. In response, Humphrey has sent letters to landlord associations, tenant organizations, law enforcement offices and shelters throughout the state advising them of the new law and asking them to report any violations of which they are aware.

"This law assures tenants that they have the right to seek police or emergency assistance, Humphrey said. "I want people who experience domestic abuse to seek assistance without fear. Clearly this cannot happen if they face eviction."

The Attorney General's office will investigate reports of violations of this new law. If those investigations reveal that violations have occurred, the Attorney General's office plans to file lawsuits against those who are responsible.

"This will be an important enforcement effort for my office. I want it to be clear that it is no longer legal to require women to sign leases that endanger their lives," Humphrey warned.

SD man gets 57 months for assaults

Jeremy Peter Buchholz, 23, Huron, SD, has been sentenced to 57 months in prision at St. Cloud. Buchholz had pled guilty to two counts of felony second degree assault in exchange for dropping a charge of first degree assault, which had been reduced from attempted murder in the second degree.

The charges against Buchholz stem from a disturbance call from the Black Cat bar. Buchholz had been evicted from the establishment but was causing a disturbance. When police arrived he tried to walk and then run away after police identified themselves and asked him to stop. Buchholz was tackled and a fight ensued during which two officers were stabbed with the knife. The officers were wearing protective vests and were not injured. Officers learned that Buchholz was wanted on charges in South Dakota. According to court records, Buchholz had been drinking heavily and was using heroin and cocaine.

On May 4, Ninth District Judge Larry G Jorgenson sentenced Buchholz to 35 months in prison on one count, and another 22 months on the second charge to be served consecutively with the other sentence. He will serve his time in a prison at St. Cloud. He was also ordered to pay restitution in the amount of $1,233.10, and fees totaling $30. Restitution will be taken from prison wages. He was also given credit for time served.

Elephants photographed by Kari Krankkala of Thief River Falls were present in good numbers at Tarangire National Park in Tanzania, Africa. Kari made the trip to Africa in late December and early January as a member of the University Singers from the University of Minnesota—Duluth.

This pride of lions seemed oblivious to the attention it was receiving from visitors on the Serengeti plains of Tanzania, Africa. The photo was taken by Kari Krankkala of Thief River Falls.

Kari Krankkala tours Africa with 'U'M—Duluth Singers

Kari Krankkala, daughter of John and Cindy Krankkala of Thief River Falls and a graduate of Lincoln high school, was a member of the University of Minnesota—Duluth Singers who visited Kenya and Tanzania, Africa, from Dec. 28, 1997 to January 10, 1998.

While in Nairobi, Kenya, they had the opportunity to sing with the Muungano National Choir which also made arrangements for the visit, including performances at various schools and formal evening concerts. They stayed in the homes of host choir members.

While at Nairobi they drove to Nakuru in the Rift Valley where they were able to view rhinoceros, giraffes, gazelles, zebras, flamingos, baboons and more, then performed an evening concert. The following day they participated in a workshop with the Muungano choir and conductor Boniface Mganga.

The group then drove to Arusha, Tanzania, where they sang for a hospital and primary schools and for 7:30 a.m. services at the large Arusha Town Lutheran Church. After a brief visit with the people following the service, they boarded open-sided trucks for a drive through grasslands of the Masai tribe to Tarangire National Park.

About this portion of the trip, the prepared itinerary stated:

"The road is tarred and the drive will be about three hours. Arrive at the lodge in time for a late lunch. Some will stay in a bungalow while others will stay in permanent tents with thatch covered roofs with bathroom facilities—flushing toilet and solar heated shower. From the verandas of your tents/bungalows, you can watch as animals come to drink at the river below.

"This park is different in appearance from the other parks. Prehistoric looking Baobab trees dot the hills and grasslands and blend into woodlands and swamps. There is a large elephant population here as well as many other kinds of wildlife and over 300 species of birds...."

The next day the choir visited the Ngorongoro Crater, traveling about five hours on very rough, dirt roads. The itinerary stated:

"Drive up through the rainforest on the slopes of Ngorongoro to a spot near the top where you will stop for your first view into this 'Eighth Wonder of the World.' At the rim you will switch into Land Rovers for the 2,000-foot descent to the floor of the crater. At the bottom you will have time to view game. This is one of the last places where you can see the endangered black rhino."

The following day involved a drive to the Serengeti, Tanzania's largest park (5,800 square miles). At Ngorongoro and the Serengeti Kari saw and was able to photograph lions, elephants, hyenas, wildebeest, mongoose, jackals, ostriches, hippopotamus and many types of birds.

The choir made an eight-hour drive back to Arusha, then a long drive the next day to Dar es Salaam along the road known as the "caravan route" once used to bring slaves from the interior to the coast. The route went past Mount Kilimanjaro and the destination offered a view of the Indian Ocean.

Kari said the experience was probably one in a lifetime, but she would love to go back!

Landscape in Tanzania, Africa, included the prehistoric-looking Baobab trees and vast expanses of grassland which attracted grazing animals and their predators by the hundreds of thousands.

Pioneers second in Region 13 softball tournament...

NCTC title hopes slip away

First-day success didn't follow Northland into Day 2 of the 1998 National Junior College Athletic Association Region 13 softball tournament, leaving the Pioneers with a runner-up finish instead of a national tournament-qualifying title.

After rain pushed the start of the tournament at Willmar back a day, Northland came up with Saturday victories over Montana representative Dawson Community College 11-5 and Minnesota powers North Hennepin 14-11 and Itasca 9-2.

That put the Pioneers in the finals of the five-team, double-elimination event. But Itasca came out of the loser's bracket with three Sunday wins to take the title. The Vikings first eliminated North Hennepin 5-2, beat Northland 8-4 to even the championship match-up at one win each and then completed the finals sweep with a 10-4 decision.

"We got on a roll Saturday," pointed out Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We played at such a high level of intensity and confidence. We built up the kind of momentum you don't normally see in softball."

The Pioneers collected only four hits against Dawson, but two of them were home runs in a seven-run fifth inning – a grand slam by Paula Hovda and a two-run shot by Devin Grugal.

The Pioneers found themselves trailing North Hennepin 7-6 going into the top of the seventh inning, but combined six singles with a walk and an error for eight runs, which proved to be enough to withstand a four-run North Hennepin comeback in the bottom of the inning.

In the first tournament meeting with Itasca on Friday, Northland out-hit the Vikings 15-5 as Angie Vagle pitched what Nikunen described as "one of the best games" of her college career and Jackie Magner had a 4-for-4 game at the plate.

However, that momentum shifted to Itasca Sunday after the Vikings began the day by beating North Hennepin 5-2 in a match-up Minnesota Community College Conference divisional leaders.

"We just weren't as intense Sunday as we were Saturday," admitted Nikunen. "It was like we had spent ourselves Saturday when we were on such an emotional ride."

Itasca reversed its fortunes of last year when the Vikings, like the Pioneers this spring, were unbeaten after Day 1 of the Region 13 tournament but lost a pair of Day 2 championship game decisions.

Northland out-hit Itasca 13-11 and 15-14 in the two Sunday games, but couldn't come up with the runs. "We got a lot of hits," noted Nikunen, "but we couldn't string them together when we needed them."

With the title, Itasca moves into the NJCAA Division III national tournament, scheduled to be held May 21-23 in Rochester.

Northland left Willmar with a 20-10 overall record.

Prowlers beaten by Grand Rapids, Alex

■ Moorhead Invitational baseball

Grand Rapids and Alexandria handed Thief River Falls a pair of Saturday high school baseball losses at the Moorhead Invitational high school baseball tournament.

Friday rain forced officials to juggle schedules and convert a planned two-day affair into a Saturday draw.

The Prowlers fell to the Thunderhawks 12-2 in six innings and lost a 3-2 decision to the Cardinals.

It was a tough day offensively for the Prowlers, who picked up just four hits against Grand Rapids and only two against Alexandria.

The Thunderhawks, after scoring four times in the third inning and five in the fourth, closed out a ten-run rule decision with a pair of runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Alexandria scored single runs in the first three innings before being shut out over the final four frames by Paul Frank.

Thief River Falls took a 3-11 record into the final week of the 1998 regular season schedule.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 3-12 heading into their final three games of the regular season. They are without five varsity players who are part of the Lincoln High School choir trip to New York City.

"We made a few errors, and they come back to haunt you," noted Thief River Falls coach Ken Fletcher.

The tag was applied by Thief River Falls third baseman Derek Berg as Bemidji runner Kurt Fenner tried to stretch a double into a triple in the fourth inning of Thursday's North Sub-Section 8AA high school baseball game played Friday at Irv Wilson Field. Fenner drove in two runs on the play before being called out at third. The Lumberjacks beat the Prowlers 17-7.

Bemidji answered when opportunity knocked Thursday and went on to beat Thief River Falls 17-7 in a high-scoring North Sub-Section 8AA high school baseball match-up at Irv Wilson Field.

An early 4-1 Bemidji lead was reduced to 4-3 in the bottom of the third when Thief River Falls No. 9 hitter Derek Berg drew a lead-off walk, Wade Chiodo drilled a run-scoring double to left-center field and, after advancing to third on an infield ground-out, scored on a sacrifice fly by Andy Harbott.

The first two Bemidji batters were retired in the top of the fourth before the door opened for the Lumberjacks when Thief River Falls pitcher Andrew Solem hit Isaac Marsolek and walked Paul Winge. Bemidji made the Prowlers pay dearly for those extra outs as Adam Christopher ignited an eight-run inning with a first-pitch, three-run home run over the center field fence. It was the eighth homer of the year for the Bemidji right fielder.

A single by Shaun Ross was followed by an error that could have closed the inning. But instead of still being in a 7-3 game, the Prowlers found themselves down nine when an RBI single by Kevin Workman and a walk issued to Jesse Martinka was followed by back-to-back two-run doubles by J.R. Bailey and Kurt Fenner, the No. 8 and 9 hitters in the Bemidji line-up.

Bemidji added five runs off Thief River Falls relief pitcher Matt Myers in the fifth to make it a lopsided 17-4 as Mike Folgeson, pinch-hitter Aaron Sorenson and Bailey all had run-scoring singles, pinch-hitting Tim Nelson drew a bases-loaded walk and Christopher added another RBI on an infield ground-out.

Two walks and an error produced a Thief River Falls run in the first inning. After falling behind big time in the top of the fourth, the Prowlers got one run back in the bottom of the inning on a lead-off double by Paul Frank and an RBI single by Jeremy Houske.

Thief River Falls tried to get by the ten-run rule barrier in the bottom of the sixth when runs crossed the plate on an error, a wild pitch and a ground ball single through the left side by Frank.

It was a tough day for pitchers on both sides. Solem and Myers, who probably form the biggest pitching tandem in the state, were tagged for 13 hits, walked six, hit two batters and threw four wild pitches, with two of them scoring runs. The Lumberjacks' Dave Grandbois and Byron Willard, while giving up only six hits, walked 10.

Bemidji, a 12-4 winner when the two teams met earlier this spring, left town with a 9-4 record. Thief River Falls took a 3-9 mark into the weekend.

Undefeated Eagles fall to MCC/T-C

A busy schedule for the Marshall County Central/Tri-County softball team was highlighted by an 8-7 Friday win over previously unbeaten East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

The win was secured when relief pitcher Miki Waterworth ended the game on a strike-out with the tying run at third base.

"It was a lot of fun," said Marshall County Central/Tri-County Coach Jerald Hagen. "Everybody was pumped. The kids made the plays. We got some key double plays to get us out of a couple of jams."

There was more dramatics Saturday in the first round of the Marshall County Central/Tri-County Invitational at Newfolden when Waterworth again recorded a final-out third strike with the tying run in scoring position, preserving a 19-18 win over Kittson Central/Kittson County North.

But Red Lake County Central handled Marshall County Central/Tri-County 18-8 in the Saturday title game and Lake of the Woods followed with a 13-1 Monday win over a Marshall County Central/Tri-County team that is now 4-11.

Pirates' rally downs Prowlers in seventh

Andy Fee and Chico Longoria hit home runs on consecutive pitches in the top of the seventh inning Monday to produce a come-from-behind 6-3 Crookston win over Thief River Falls in a high school baseball game played at Irv Wilson Field.

The Prowlers, who fell behind at the start when Fee hit a two-run first inning home run, battled back to take a 3-2 lead into the seventh. They were one out away from a win when Fee connected for a three-run home run. Longoria then added insult to injury with a home run on the next pitch.

It was the second big game against the Prowlers for Fee, who was 5-for-5 with two triples, a double and seven RBI in a 17-7 Crookston win on April 28. His Monday numbers hiked his two-game totals against Thief River Falls to 7-for-8 and 12 RBI to go along with his five extra-base hits.

Andrew Solem, who took the loss on the mound, homered for the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls fell to 3-12 heading into a scheduled Tuesday game against Moorhead that was to close out the Prowlers' home schedule. They finish the 1998 regular season Friday and Saturday at the Mike Bugliosi Classic in Hibbing.

Lincoln bands perform final concert May 14

Thursday night, May 14, will be the last concert at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls for 16 senior band members. They, and the band underclassmen and women, will present the final concert of the year at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium. The concert will be under the direction of Bruce Felt. No admission is being charged.

The 16 seniors are: Eeva Young and Rachel Dahlen on flute; Keith Blix on bassoon, Ben Erickson and Jerilyn Unruh on clarinet; Anthony Kennedy on baritone saxophone, Brad Dekkers, Luke Torgerson and Nate Keller on trumpet; Kyle Rokke, Rochelle Gilbertson and Tiffany Lee on French horn; Jim Lehrer, Justin Walseth and Kim Nelson on trombone; and Cody Hempel on euphonium.

The concert will open with the Jazz Band performing three songs — "Four Wheel Drive", "Stars Fell on Alabama", and "Sweet Georgia Brown." They will feature solos by Cody Hempel on guitar, Brad Dekkers on Trumpet, Kyle Rokke on trumpet, Sam Kezar on bass trombone and a special guest vocal performance by Rachel Mathson.

The Concert Band will perform four selections. The first is a majestic march entitled "The Sinfonians," which features the trumpet section. The second selection — "'Tis a Gift," was commissioned by friends of the young people who died in the TWA 800 airline crash. It is based on the Appalachian folk song "Simple Gifts." The next selection is a medley from Andrew Lloyd Weber's production of "The Phantom of the Opera." The concert band will close its section of the program with an exciting band composition — "Overture in B Flat."

The Wind Ensemble will end the concert and the year with three wild and varied compositions. The Overture to "Colas Breugnon" is a Russian work from an opera that never quite caught on. This piece, however, has remained popular in the concert hall for many decades. The second selection is from the 1978 movie "Superman." This selection gives you a chance to hear what John Williams sounded like in his younger days, before Jurassic Park and Schindler's List. The final selection of the concert, "Of Sailors and Whales," musically depicts the main characters from "Moby Dick."

The band boosters will host a reception for the graduating band members following the concert in the cafeteria. So tape "Seinfeld" and come hear these fine young musicians in live performance. You will not be disappointed.

SuperValu Foods in Thief River Falls received the company's Master Marketer award and first price for creativity out of 500 stores in the region at the Northern Region Retailer Conference in Las Vegas recently. The award was presented for the store's Pet Fair promotion, which invited area agencies and businesses also committed to quality pet care to participate in their promotion by increasing community awareness of pet care. In honor of the achievement SuperValu donated $1,000 to the Asparagus Club Scholarship Program, which provides scholarships to young people wishing to work in the grocery industry, and $1,000 to the school of the retailer's choice. The Thief River Falls store requested the school donation to be made to St. Bernard's Catholic School in Thief River Falls. Sister Kathy Kuchar (center), accepted the award on behalf of the school. Sister Kuchar said SuperValu has always been helpful and supportive. Pictured from left are Rene Parcheta, Sister Kuchar, and Mike Howard.

Sen. Stumpf sees financial aid coming to area farmers

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, Thief River Falls, sees aid to farmers as one of the more critical pieces of legislation to come out of the Legislative session.

"Even though this year's legislative session was the shorter one of the two in this biennium, many important issues were debated and voted upon. One of the more critical pieces of legislation which I introduced was signed into law recently, offering emergency financial relief to farmers located in northwestern Minnesota.

"As many wheat and barley farmers know, Fusarium, Head Blight, also known as "scab," has drastically reduced the yield of their crops since 1993. This disease has devastated the crops so badly, farmers in northwestern Minnesota have lost more than $1.8 billion in the last five years.

"To make matters worse, the 1996 Freedom to Farm Act eliminated federal disaster payments and replaced them with Average Production History (APH) calculations that do not take multi-year losses into account.

"This new law, which sets aside $8.8 million, is designed to fill the funding gap by providing assistance to wheat and barley farmers who are Minnesota residents and operate a family farm that is located completely or partly in one of the 16 designated "crisis counties." These counties, 13 of which are in northwestern Minnesota, include Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Lincoln, Lyon, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Pipestone, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau, and Wilkin. Shareholders in family farm corporations or partners in family farm partnerships can also qualify for disaster payments.

"In addition to these qualifications, farmers must have experienced one of the following three events: 50 percent or greater loss according to the United States Department of Agriculture's Farm Service Agency county yield calculations, collected an indemnity payment or collected a disaster payment on wheat or barley in one or more growing seasons between 1993 and 1997. Farmers and producers must also provide evidence that they have made their 1997 crop insurance payments.

"By the middle of this month, the applications should be available for those who wish to apply for financial assistance. In a joint cooperative effort, however, the Commissioner for the Minnesota Department of Agriculture and the insurance industry are teaming up to distribute the applications when farmers and producers file their planted acres certification during the month of June. In order to receive a maximum payment of $4,000, this one page application must be submitted to the Agriculture Commissioner on or before August 1, 1998.

"In the meantime, if more information is needed about the application and determination process, please contact my State Capitol office at 612-296-8660 or at the State Capitol, 75 Constitution Ave., G-24, St. Paul, MN 55155.

"Five years of disease and low market prices have taken their toll on the local farmers here in the northwestern part of our great state. It is my hope that this new law will provide the help and the hope that we need to rebuild the wheat and barley industry of northwestern Minnesota."

During a meeting held in Thief River Falls last week and sponsored by Minnesota Office of Citizenship and Volunteer Services (MOCVS), input was collected from volunteer organizations in Northwest Minnesota. This input will be used to develop the State of Volunteerism Report — 2000. Bonnie Esposito, director of the MOCVS visited with volunteer organization leaders. She also discussed Minnesota Alliance with Youth, services and resources for volunteer program management, and trends in volunteerism.

Republicans endorse Finseth

State Representative Tim Finseth, Angus, received the Republican endorsement to represent District 1B in the Minnesota House of Representatives Friday, May 1.

"I am pleased to have this vote of confidence from my district convention," Finseth said. "I look forward to getting out this summer to meet with constituents and discuss issues as I run for re-election."

First elected in 1993, Finseth has focused his legislative efforts on rural economic development and agricultural issues. A member of the House Environment, Natural Resources and Agriculture Finance Committee, he has co-sponsored legislation to fund wheat and barley scab research and was a strong support of the successful effort to phase out the sales tax on new farm equipment. He also led the effort to provide emergency crop insurance assistance to farmers in the Red River Valley.

"Agriculture is the backbone of our state's economy," Finseth said. "Helping farmers pay the high cost of crop insurance will help put crops in the ground this spring."

The bill will provide $8.8 million in emergency funding for wheat and barley farmers in 16 northwestern and southwestern counties. Finseth said farmers who have lost 50 percent of their crop in one or more growing seasons between 1993 and 1997 will be eligible for up to $4,000 in state assistance. Reimbursements will be paid for premiums and administrative costs paid on federal crop insurance during the 1997 growing season.

Finseth said that while these issues are important, he is most proud of the work he has done over the last year to help the people affected by the 1997 floods.

"Last year we provided a record-setting flood relief package for the people and towns affected by the flood of 1997," Finseth said. "I am proud to have been a part of that effort, and am pleased to have successfully sponsored continued flood aid this year in the form of city levee grants, border city economic development zone legislation and special school aid for East Grand Forks and the surrounding areas trying to rebuild after last year's disaster."

Finseth said his campaign will focus on equitable funding for rural areas, easing burdensome government regulations and tax breaks for working families.

"Government should provide a hand when necessary and get out of the way when it isn't" Finseth said. "It has been a privilege to serve the people of District 1B and I look forward to continuing to fight for their concerns in St. Paul."
